OIL AND STEEL CODES SIGNED BY THE PRESIDENT, ENDING LONG CONTROVERSY

PETROLEUM MEN ACCEPT MODIFIED PRICE-FIXING PLAN

Group Opposing Production Control Holds Out to Last as Gen. Johnson Fights to Bring About Understanding.

LUMBER ACCORD ALSO IS APPROVED

NRA Officials Fail, However, in Effort to End Coal Dispute Before the Coal Dispute Before Roosevelt Leaves Wash-

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Roosevelt tonight signed fair practice codes for the huge steel, oil and lumber industries before taking a late night train for his home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

Final approval of the documents brought the three pivotal industries under the NRA's blue eagle after weeks of bickering within the industries and between them and the Recovery Administration which ended only after the President's personal intervention.

With their signing, four of the nation's six key industries are under the wings of the blue eagle and almost two-thirds of the industrial workers of the country are covered in the recovery program of greater purchasing power and shorter working hours. The first to be signed was the textile code. Pending are the coal and automobile codes.

Johnson Rushes to White House.

President Roosevelt attached his signature to the oil and steel codes late tonight, only half an hour before his train left for New York. They were carried to him a few minutes earlier by Hugh S. Johnson, Industrial Administrator, after hours of almost continuous negotiation.

The weary industrial leader had almost run through the lobby on his way into the President's office with the two important documents, shouting breathlessly to newspaper men as he rushed by:

"I have the oil and steel codes."

As he emerged, Johnson paused only to say the codes were signed and went back to his office to explain to newspaper men what they were all about.

The lumber code had been signed earlier in the evening.

Days of controversy over the oil program, to become effective Sept. 2, were smoothed out in the last few hours by Gen. Johnson.

Our Dissenting Faction.

Advocates of rigid Federal price fixing, who wanted cost levels determined from well-mouth to automobile, agreed in a long night session with Johnson to abide by the program, which they felt did not go far enough their way. Accompanying their agreement was a reservation that President Roosevelt consider several recommendations urging full price regulation. Opponents of price control accepted the program and only one dissenting faction failed to agree.

This group, led by Jack Bialock of Marshall, Tex., consisting of a faction of independents, fought [illegible] against the production control section, which it contended allowed the Government to go inside state lines and was unconstitutional.

Despite the objections of this faction, its members come under the code anyway under the Recovery law, as far more than the majority of the industry was represented by the two groups which agreed to it.

Modified Price Control.

The code provides for strict Federal regulation over oil production to hold it in line with demand, and for a modified form of price control, with a section giving President Roosevelt wide discretionary powers to fix maximum and minimum price levels if he wishes.

To cover the 1,100,000 employees expected by officials to be increased by from 250,000 to 300,000—

PRESIDENT LEAVES CAPITAL TO FINISH HIS VACATION

Returns to Hyde Park, N. Y., Home After Busy Week at the White House.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Roosevelt left the Capital at 11:02 o'clock tonight for the second installment of his vacation at his Hyde Park home.

A small crowd assembled at the station to see the President off. As the train pulled out Mr. Roosevelt sat at a table still working.

The chief executive barely had time to get to the station after signing the codes for the steel and oil industries.

The President plans to spend two more weeks at Hyde Park. He will return to Washington on Labor Day—the date set for the full enforcement of the National Recovery Act.

The special train carrying the President is due at Highland, N. Y., across the river from Hyde Park, early tomorrow morning. He will drive from the station to the family residence.

VOTE IN WESTPHALIA, MO.: FOR REPEAL 237: AGAINST 0

German Community Gets Opportunity at Last to Show What It Thinks of Law.

WESTPHALIA, Mo., Aug. 19.—The vote: For repeal, 237; Against, 0.

This picturesque little German-American town has waited a long time to help repeal prohibition.

In the days before prohibition, the community knew little about law enforcement officers. Since then, some of the leading citizens have been put in jail for violation of the liquor laws. Today was their first chance to do something about it.

While all parts of the State reported exceedingly light voting, Westphalia cast 237, compared with 365 in the last general election.

The repealists also scored shutouts in five other Osage County precincts — Freeburg, Luystown, Folk, Koeltztown and Richfountain.

ANTHRACITE MINERS AGREE TO EXTEND STRIKE TRUCE

TAMAQUA, Pa., Aug. 19.—On the plea of Howard Colvin, federal conciliator of the National Recovery Administration, the equalization committee representing idle anthracite miners in the Panther Creek Valley late tonight changed their minds about ending a strike truce arranged by Gov. Pinchot, and agreed to extend it indefinitely.

The mines have been demanding an equalization of work at all the shafts which operators said would be impossible.

15 Star Flag Waves Over Frigate.

PORTLAND, Ore., Aug. 19.—The same 15-star flag that waved over "Old Ironsides" when she engaged the British Frigate Guerriere in battle 121 years ago was raised to her mizzenmast here today while thousands of spectators applauded. For 40 minutes the old flag stirred over the frigate Constitution, during the exact time of day of the battle with the Guerriere.

CECIL SMITH, POLO STAR, ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF NURSE

Young Evanston Woman Says He Attacked Her When Driving Her Home From Hospital.

TEXAN DENIES HER ACCUSATION

Pair Met When She Was Caring for Injured Member of West Team at Chicago.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Cecil Smith, of Llano, Tex., second ranking polo player in the United States, was arrested today on a criminal attack charge preferred by Miss Eugenia Rose, 23, a nurse.

The daring and hard-riding luminary of the west polo team which tomorrow meets the eastern quartet in the deciding game of the national tournament, was released on a cash bond of $2500.

Miss Rose told Police Magistrate Willis R. Brightmere that Smith attacked her on a lonely country road last night.

Smith denied the accusation, branding it a frame-up."

"I can't understand it at all," he said. "The whole thing must be a frame-up. I met the young lady last night all right and offered to take her home, but we did not stop on the way and I never so much as touched her."

Met Smith at Hospital.

She met the athlete, she said, while she was attending "Rube" Williams, a teammate of Smith, who is in a hospital at suburban Lake Forest suffering from a broken leg, incurred during a polo match several days ago.

"I was told my services were no longer needed and Mr. Smith offered to drive me to my home in Evanston," she said. "He stopped his car in the Hubbard Woods ravine.

Hubbard Woods is a comparatively unfrequented and isolated spot.

Miss Rose charged Smith kept her prisoner in his automobile for two hours, after which her struggles so weakened her that she was forced to submit to his advances.

She was accompanied to court by her fiance, Dr. Gary M. Baker, an optician. It was he, she said, who insisted upon her taking the action against Smith, despite her remonstrance at resultant notoriety.

Magistrate Brightmire explained to her the seriousness of her charge and warned her she would be liable to prosecution if she were unable to furnish substantiating evidence when the case was brought to trial.

"I intend to carry this thing through to the finish," she declared. "There is nothing false about the charges."

Arrested at Fashionable Inn.

Smith was arrested in a fashionable North Shore inn while dining with Major Frederic McLaughlin, widely-known sportsman. He had earlier in the day played golf with McLaughlin and Silar Strawn, financier and attorney.

The two appeared before Magistrate Brightmire with Smith and provided his bail.

Strawn said he had acted as the polo player's guarantor because he believed he was innocent and because he wanted Smith to be able to compete in the East-West match tomorrow.

Smith has been the backbone and captain of the West polo team during the atempt to wrest supremacy from the East where it long has been entrenched. He is unmarried and acquired his mastery over ponies at Llano, Tex. He is former member of the Rainbow polo team at Dallas and before coming to Chicago for the National Polo tournament was associated with George Miller at San Antonia, Tex. raising and training polo horses.

MACHADO POLICE CHIEF ENDS LIFE FACING CAPTURE

STORIES OF TORTURES IN FORTRESS TOLD

Finding of Four Bodies in Stable Basis of Inquiry—Victims Hit on Head With Iron Mace.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Aug. 19.—Brigadier A. B. Ainciart, Havana's last chief of police under President Gerardo Machado and held responsible by the opposition for many political slayings, shot and killed himself tonight when he was cornered by police and soldiers.

Sought since last Saturday when Machado fled the country, Ainciart was found hiding under a coal stove in a house in the Almendares section of Havana. When ordered to give himself up, Ainciart shot himself with a pistol he always carried.

Ainciart was all alone at the end—he who never used to appear on the streets unless three or four guards rode with him and another automobile preceding or following shielded him from danger with machine guns, rifles and sawed-off shotguns.

A woman went to the tiny, two-room house at Lanuza and First streets in the Almendares last night and rented it. Ainciart and three men slipped in later, silently.

Dyed His Hair Blond.

Throughout Havana all this week the cry had been raised again and again: "Get Ainciart." He knew his danger. So did his companions, apparently. Some time during the night they left him to his fate.

This afternoon the A B C anti-Machado secret society, learned that Ainciart was inside the house. They notified police, and troops and policemen were sent there.

An A B C member knocked on the door.

"Come out or we'll shoot!" he shouted. One shot was heard. Soldiers and A B C fired in return. Then they entered the room and found Ainciart's body.

In one last desperate effort at disguise, the graying officer had dyed his hair blond.

Inquire Into Tortures

Stories of torture were unfolded in detail at historic Atares Fortress today as high army authorities launched an investigation into the finding of four bodies buried in a horse stable at the fortress.

The bodies, which had lain in the shallow graves from three to 18 months, were those of men who allegedly opposed the administration of Machado, now in exile.

The hearing, conducted in executive session, was held not far from the very spot on which Capt. Manuel Cresbo, who since has fled Cuba, is charged with having carried on acts of cruelty.

Sergeant Aguero, the first prisoner, accused two other soldiers—named Barroto and Leyvo—of having been paid assassins in the service of Captain Crespo. Investigating officers said Aguero's accusation was substantiated by receipts, signed by the two men, which are in the hands of the military.

Humberto Osorio, one of many student leaders arrested during the Machado regime, identified Aguero as the man who, he said, tortured him at Atares.

Identified Second Time

Camilo Valdes, former soldier who was courtmartialed and imprisoned for a plot to bomb the presidential palace two years ago, also identified Aguero as the man who tortured him during four days he was held at Atares.

With dramatic suddenness, private Leyva, another of the soldiers examined, acknowledged, officers said, that he killed Jose Domingo Machado, one of the leaders opposed to the Machado Government.

"What do you know about these killings?" Leyva was asked as he was led into the room.

Without hesitation, Leyva replied:

Hit on Head With Mace.

Leyva then described how prisoners were taken to Atares by Capt. Crespo in the dead of night and killed, he said, by a blow on the head, delivered with an iron mace. The mace, still blood-stained, was presented in evidence. It was found near the four bodies unearthed at the horse stables.

"The prisoners were brought in through the main gate," Leyva declared, "after the guards had been ordered away from the entrance,

MISSOURI VOTES 3 TO 1 FOR PROHIBITION REPEAL; ST. LOUIS FOR IT 21 TO 1

CITY GIVES 172,565 FOR TO ONLY 8201 AGAINST IT

Count Finished Two Hours and 40 Minutes After Polls Close — Total Cast 180,766, 46 Per Cent of Registration.

COUNTY 16 TO 1 FOR REVOCATION

Four Precincts Cast No Vote Against Repeal—Highest Dry Count Is 40 In a District Near Maple and Clara Avenues.

For repeal, 172,565.
Against, 8201.

This—a vote of more than 21 to 1 for repeal—was St. Louis' contribution to the vote by which, yesterday, Missouri joined the states voting to repeal the eighteenth amendment.

The complete result in the city was known at 9:40 p. m., two hours and 40 minutes after the end of the 13-hour voting day. The last return, from the most remote precinct, reached the Election Board office, on Twelfth boulevard opposite City Hall, at 9:05, and tabulation was finished 35 minutes later.

The total vote of 180,766 was larger than had been predicted by Election Board officials. It was 46 per cent of the registration of 385,000, but it is to be remembered that the registration was that of last March, before the mayoralty election, and had been subject to shrinkage by deaths and removals ever since. However, some voters were permitted to cast votes on their affidavit that they were qualified residents, though not registered.

County 16 to 1 for Repeal.

St. Louis County, complete returns for which were compiled within a half-hour after those in the city, gave almost as pronounced an expression against prohibition. Its total was:

For repeal, 39,185.
Against, 2358.

This was a repeal vote of more than 16 to 1. Towns in the county voted as follows, the first figure in each case being the vote for repeal: University City, 4698 to 369; Maplewood, 2222 to 217; Webster Groves, 2326 to 397; Clayton, 1911 to 102; Richmond Heights, 1717 to 106, and Kirkwood, 1442 to 120.

Returns Pour In.

At Election Board headquarters, the city figures came in an avalanche in the hour between 8 and 9 p. m. A few ward committeemen, of both parties, and representatives of anti-prohibition organizations, were the only persons besides official tabulators and reporters who waited for the figures, though telephone calls were numerous.

Dry organizations did not send representatives. The Anti-Saloon League had advised dry voters against an active campaign against repeal, but may yet try to have the result declared illegal, because of objections to the Weeks law calling the special election. The W. C. T. U. sent dry sample ballots to many homes. The United Repeal Council had distributed marked ballots for repeal, and had advertised the manner of marking ballots.

Count Is Rapid.

Counting the votes was a brief and easy job. Compared with the tabulating of varying votes on candidates, it was an easy matter to total up, in each precinct, the votes for the "delegates FAVORING the pending amendment," namely repeal, and the much smaller number of votes for the "delegates OPPOSING the pending amendment."

Instruction given by the United Repeal Council, and by business and political groups favoring repeal, helped to overcome the ambiguity of the ballot, which, it had NOTED yachtsman and his bride, the former MISS GERTRUDE L. CONAWAY of Philadelphia, on the beach together before their marriage.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Harold S. Vanderbilt, yachtsman of New York and Newport, and Miss Gertrude Lewis Conaway of Philadelphia, were married today. They sailed for Europe on the Liner Rex immediately following the ceremony.

The bride, 32 years old is the daughter of the late John Conaway, noted horseman of two decades ago. She has been a frequent yachting companion in recent years with the 49-year-old captain and principal owner of the sloop Enterprise, which defended the America's cup three summers ago against the last of the challenges by the late Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrocks.

The license was obtained secretly and news of the wedding was withheld until after the liner left her pier. Vanderbilt, one of the America's wealthiest bachelors, is the son of the late William K. Vanderbilt and the late Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont.

Ratification of Repeal Possible In 37 States By Early December

By Dec. 6, 37 Conventions Will Have Been Held, One More Than Enough to Kill 18th Amendment.

Ratification of repeal of the eighteenth amendment by the necessary 36 states is a possibility by Dec. 6, by which time 37 states will have held the conventions required by Congress in the submission of the repeal amendment.

By Nov. 7 elections will have been held in 37 states. Twenty-two states, including Missouri, have voted for repeal. Conventions, necessary to make the ratification effective, have been held in 20 states. The remaining two which have voted, Missouri and Arizona, will hold their conventions Aug. 29 and Sept. 5, respectively.

The 15 states which have set election dates are Texas, Aug. 26; Washington, Aug. 29; Vermont, Sept. 5; Colorado, Sept. 5; Maine, Sept. 11; Minnesota, Sept. 12; Maryland, Sept. 12; Idaho, Sept. 19; New Mexico, Sept. 19; Florida, Oct. 10; South Carolina, Nov. 7; Pennsylvania, Nov. 7; Ohio, Nov. 7; North Carolina, Nov. 7, and Utah, Nov. 7.

If all of these states should vote for repeal, as have all those in which elections have been held, repeal will have carried in 37 states, one more than the required number.

It is the expectation that elections by November will be authorized in Montana, Virginia, Kentucky and Louisiana. The vote in Oklahoma will be held on a date yet to be fixed, but after Dec. 5. Nebraska and South Dakota will vote Nov. 6, 1934. The Mississippi Legislature will not meet until 1934 to fix a date for the election. Repeal election bills have failed in the Legislatures of Georgia, Kansas and Oklahoma.

BECOMES 22D IN LINE IN PARADE OF STATES

Sweeping Decision Made With Very Light Vote, Approximately Only 40 Per Cent of That Cast in Last Presidential Election

SOME NORTHERN COUNTIES DRY

68 Delegates Chosen Will Formally Ratify Revocation of 18th Amendment in Convention at Jefferson City, Aug. 29.

By CURTIS A. BETTS.

In a sweeping election Missouri yesterday joined the parade of states for repeal of the eighteenth amendment. The State became the twenty-second to vote for repeal.

On the basis of latest returns it appeared that Missouri had voted about three to one for repeal and on an indicated total vote of approximately 650,000 had returned a majority of more than 300,000.

Voting was light throughout the State, the total being approximately 40 per cent of the vote cast in the presidential election last year. St. Louis cast about 50 per cent of its 1932 vote, but in some rural counties the vote was little more than 25 per cent.

The more populous counties returned heavy majorities for repeal, and many rural counties which have been considered dry for many years returned anti-prohibition majorities. In St. Louis the returns showed 21 to 1 for repeal, while in Kansas City, which in past elections on liquor issues had been about evenly divided, the ratio ran only slightly lower on the early returns.

Some Dry Counties.

However, the drys held their own in some rural counties, particularly those in the far northern portion of the State, several there voting against repeal by substantial majorities.

The State elected 68 delegates favoring repeal to a State convention in Jefferson City Aug. 29, when the formality of ratifying the twenty-first amendment to the Federal Constitution, repealing the eighteenth amendment, will be carried out. As delegates were voted on by the State at large, there will be no delegates in the convention who are opposed to repeal.

Returns from more than three-fourths of the precincts in the state, 3415 out of 4104, gave a total of 482,036 for repeal and 132,806 against. In this total was the complete vote of St. Louis, 172,565 for and only 8201 against. Complete St. Louis county returns were 39,185 for and only 2358 against. Jackson county, including Kansas City, with only one of the 544 precincts unreported, gave 134,402 for and 16,115 against.

On the reported precincts, the lead for repeal was 349,230.

In the State outside the larger cities the vote, except in a few c unties, ran much closer than in the cities.

Some County Returns.

Complete returns from Howard County were 1443 for repeal and 1216 against.

Osage County voted 1643 for to 281 against.

Morgan County voted 646 for and 653 against with returns in from 19 of the 27 precincts.

Cole County, of which Jefferson City is the county seat, voted 2839 for and 278 against.

STEEL INDUSTRY BROUGHT INTO LINE BY NRA THREATS

Roosevelt Reported to Have Been More "Hard Boiled" Than Johnson in Fight Over Code.

CRUCIAL POINT IN WHOLE PROGRAM

Agreement Reached on Wages First — Hours and Government's Part in Fian. Cause Clash.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Exciting details of the battle in which the steel industry was brought to adopt a code of fair competition were coming to light tonight. The contest—regarded as the crucial stage in the NRA program—became so bitter at one stage, it was learned, that administration officials threatened that foreign steel would be imported to carry out the Government's public works program unless the steel industry signed a code.

One of the interesting phases of the struggle is the fact that President Roosevelt's attitude toward the steel men is reported to have been more "hard-boiled" than Administrator Hugh Johnson's. They were said to have been asked whether they desired to be in an attitude of open rebellion against the Federal Government.

Taking his cue from the President's stand, Johnson decided that he could only bring the steel industry into line by being "tough." He became so "tough" at one stage during the negotiations last night that Chief Counsel Donald Richberg and Deputy Administrator Kenneth Simpson intervened to prevent open rupture. The unreality of such a situation may be gleaned from the fact that Simpson is a steel man and Richberg is a union labor attorney.

Agreed First on Wages.

An agreement was reached first on wages. The minimum which was fixed is estimated to exceed 40 cents an hour. The problem of maximum hours presented more difficulty. The steel men contended that in an industry which operates continuously, 24 hours a day, they could not accept a maximum of less than 10 hours a day. Johnson and Richberg hammered away at them, and finally won an average work week of 40 hours over a period of three months, with a maximum of 48 hours and six days in any single week. This doomed the seven-day week.

Again, after prolonged discussion, the steel magnates agreed to introduce the straight eight-hour day on or after Nov. 1, providing production has reached 60 per cent of capacity. The operators protested against this, asserting that it would involve a violent dislocation of their present processes. Eventually they yielded to "persuasion."

Finally, NRA officials broached the proposal of having NRA representatives sit in at meetings of the board of directors of the American Iron and Steel Institute—which will administer the code—with authority to examine its records. At this the steel men threw up their hands, and protested that the proposal was impossible. One operator declared that he "simply would not permit the public to run his business."

The "Big Stick" Appears.

It was at this stage that the negotiations became acute, and the "big stick" was brought out from behind the door. A number of interesting possibilities were suggested to the steel operators in the event they failed to sign the code.

For example, it was pointed out that the automobile manufacturers are about to sign a code, and that they might balk at purchasing steel from corporations which have not. Moreover, it was intimated that the steel men, by their own testimony, already had convicted themselves as a combination in restraint of trade unless they took advantage of the immunity afforded by a code. Finally the question of purchasing steel for the public works program was paraded before them.

"A Bitter Pill."

The steel magnates uttered vehement protests. They insisted that the Government was "muscling in" on their business, and that the "normal privacy" of their concerns was being invaded. All protests were ignored. They were told that the President was determined to have a steel code before his departure for Hyde Park tonight, even if he had to prescribe one. At 1 a. m. today they capitulated.

"I never thought this day would come," one of them remarked, as he left Johnson's office. "This is a bitter pill."

NRA officials believe that with steel, oil and lumber out of the way, there will be a stampede to get under the blue eagle. They believe the "high tide of the rebellion" has been passed.

WIFE OF ACCUSED LAWYER - POISONER

MRS. MARK H. SHANK.

WIFE EATS IN JAIL WITH ATTORNEY WHO POISONED FOUR

Goes From Ohio to Little Rock With Lawyer and Priest to See Husband.

By the Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Aug. 19.—The wife of Mark H. Shank, Akron, O., attorney accused of a quadruple poison murder ate a simple meal with him in the county jail today and prepared to leave tomorrow to return to Akron.

Others in the party accompanying Mrs. Shank, were E. H. Boylarr who will assist in the defense, the Rev. Father J. L. Waldhisen of the church which Shank attended in Akron, and Anthony Rock, Akron business man. They also will return to Akron.

Meanwhile plans will go forward for the defense of the attorney who is charged in Saline County with murder of Alvin Colley, his wife and two small sons, formerly of Akron.

Sheriff Virgil Rucker of Saline County today gave permission for development of photographs, the negatives of which were taken of Shank yesterday as evidence of scars and bruises on his body which the defense will contend were inflicted by Hot Springs officers to force a confession from him. The negatives were seized by Sheriff L. B. Branch yesterday because the photographer did not obtain permission from Saline County authorities.

and marched up the winding road that leads to the fortress. About half way up the hill, one of us would drop something to the ground and order our prisoners to pick it up. When he stooped, we let him have it in the head with the mace."

Private Barroto, the next witness, admitted he killed Margarito Iglesias, labor leader, as a stenographer took down his statement in shorthand.

One Killed in Dock Riot.

One man was killed and another wounded in outbreaks among the striking dock workers here.

Strikers insisting that shipping agencies must recognize their unions, as Cuban law provides, attacked workmen on the United Fruit Company's docks, killed Angel Zomoorza and severely wounded his brother.

The office of Raphael Doniphan, American vice-president of the Havana Harbor Association, was raided.

Spokesmen for the stevedores, longshoremen and other affiliated unions have charged the United Fruit Co. and Doniphan are the only ones standing in the way of a settlement of the strike, declaring all other shipping companies are willing to recognize the unions.

A government commission composed of the secretaries of agriculture, interior and treasury today continued its efforts to bring the strike to a conclusion. Treasury Secretary Martinez Saenz said the government would enforce the labor law to compel recognition of the unions and end the strike unless arbitration proved successful.

Ex-Police Officer's Home Wrecked.

Destruction of the home of former Police Lieut. Lino Lomo at Clenfuegos today caused revolutionary leaders to express fear that hatred of former President Machado was being made the excuse for personal acts of revenge. The ABC Society, leader in the revolution, protested against the mob's action in Ciefuegos.

President Carlos Manuel de Cespedes, in a radio address tonight declared he was gratified to note "the friendly interest" shown by President Roosevelt. He urged readjustment of commercial relations between the United States and Cuba and close co-operation in the work of reconstruction in Cuba.

LUMBER INDUSTRY CODE IS APPROVED BY THE PRESIDENT

It Provides for 40-Hour Week and Minimum Wages of 23 to 42 1-2 Cents an Hour.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—A fair practice code designed to put 115,000 more men on the payrolls of the lumber and timber products industry and including production control and minimum price provisions, was approved tonight by President Roosevelt.

A 40-hour maximum work week is established, 48-hours at seasonal peaks, and minimum wages range from 23 cents to 42½ cents an hour, representing in some instances a 100 per cent increase.

A clause which received President Roosevelt's special attention provides a program of conservation of forest resources in co-operation with the Secretary of Agriculture.

An agency known as the "Lumber Code Authority, Inc," created to administer the agreement, is vested with the task of production control and cost protection.

Duties of the Authority.

The Authority is to determine estimates of expected consumption, including exports, and is "empowered to establish and from time to time revise production quotas" for the various divisions. It says:

"Allotments within each division and subdivision for the persons therein shall be made subject to the suspension of the Authority by the agencies designated by it. Said quotas as between such division or subdivisions shall be in proportion to the shipments of the products of each during a representative recent past period to be determined by the Authority; but the Authority may modify said proportions if warranted by evidence.

"Each person in operation shall be entitled to an allotment. Each person known to any division or subdivision agency to be in operation shall be registered by such agency immediately and shall be assigned an allotments."

Minimum Price Revision.

At its discretion, the Authority is authorized to establish and from time to time revise minimum prices F. O. B. mill to protect the cost of production of items or classifications of lumber and timber products.

"Such minimum prices," the code says, "shall be established with due regard to the maintenance of free competition among species, divisions and subdivisions and with the products of other industries and other countries and to the encouragement of the use of said products; and except for export sales shall be not more than cost of production determined as provided in this section nor less than such cost of production after deducting the capital charges specified."

In arriving at minimum prices a prescribed list of accounting practices is set up for the Authority, which also is directed to "establish equitable price differentials for products below accepted standards of quality as prescribed by the Authority such as the products of some small mills."

Bar on Price Cutting.

The code adds:

"No person shall sell or offer for sale lumber or timber products upon which minimum prices have been established at prices less than those so established."

The code says minimum rates for piece-work employes shall not be less than minimum wages for the number of hours employed. It also would maintain existing differentials for higher paid labor.

Approval of the lumber code was hailed by the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association in a letter to Hugh S. Johnson, Industrial Administrator, saying the industry "cordially accepts" it.

Asserting that "at no time has there been a break in the relations between the industry and the NRA," the statement added:

"As the lumber code was the second of the 1200 filed to date and the second to be heard, it had been hoped that approval would have come sooner, particularly because of the rush of some mills to beat the gun by producing as much lumber as possible before the code with its higher wages and shorter hours went into effect.

"However, the delay has given us a carefully co-ordinated revised code which will likely be helpful to many other industries. Outstanding features of our code are the bold innovations in respect to (1) price protection, (2) production control, and (3) forest conservation.

"Both minimum prices and production are determined by fair formules, and the Lumber Code Authority is given ample power to enforce their observance. A planned and ordered industry is in prospect after 14 years of post-war chaos.

"To many people the most significant feature of the code is the forthright provision for forest conservation and replacement, which is placed on a straight business basis by making the costs of maintaining forests a part of the costs of current lumber production."

ASA KEYES, FORMER DISTRICT ATTORNEY, GETS FULL PARDON

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 19.—Asa Keyes, who as Los Angeles District Attorney was convicted in 1928 of criminal conspiracy and sentenced to San Quentin prison, was granted a full pardon by Gov. Rolph Jr. today.

After reading letters and petitions urging executive clemency, including a communication from Chief Justice William H. Waste of the State Supreme Court, former Chief Justice Matt I. Sullivan, Buron K. Fitts, District Attorney of Los Angeles, and Superior Judge Edward I. Butler, who sentenced Keyes, Gov. Rolph said it gave him "great pleasure" to pardon Keyes and "wish him every success."

"No applicant appearing before me appealing for clemency has had such an overwhelming appeal behind him as Mr. Keyes," the Governor said.

Steps Into Space With Umbrella.

OAKLAND, Cal., Aug. 19.—Earl Crawford, 24 years old, walked to the middle of the Carquinez Bridge, 150 feet above the water, and began to take off his clothes. Before alarmed bridge attendants could reach him, he had opened a large beach umbrella, perched on the railing and then launched into space. He landed unharmed in the water a few feet from where a friend was waiting in a boat. "I'm in training to become a movie stunt man," he announced.

Missouri for Repeal 3 to 1

teau County gave 952 for and 997 against.

Springfield, long considered a dry city, gave 3639 for repeal and 1788 against.

Sixteen of 24 precincts in Lawrence County gave only 923 for repeal and 1358 against.

Jasper County, in which are Joplin and Carthage, voted 3422 for and 1340 against.

Barry County maintained its dry standing, 18 of 39 precincts giving 432 for and 1006 against.

Complete returns from De Kalb County in the northwestern part of the State, gave a heavy dry majority, 1553 against repeal and 415 for.

Holt County in the same section stood 1075 against repeal and 811 for.

Clinton and Andrew Counties in the same section, showed similar results. In Clinton County the vote was 970 for repeal and 1603 against. In Andrew County it was 957 for repeal and 1271 against.

At Governor's Home.

Platte County, the home of Gov. Park, appeared to be favoring repeal. Nine of its 30 precincts gave 648 for repeal and 341 against.

Franklin County, adjoining St. Louis County on the west, gave a substantial majority for repeal. Sixteen of the 41 precincts reported 1595 for and 284 against.

Nodaway County was dry. In 18 of the 24 precincts the vote was 1053 for and 1408 against.

Vernon County, which in previous prohibition elections had been consistently wet, changed to the dry column on returns from 27 of the 39 precincts. The vote was 1160 for repeal and 1703 against.

In Boone County, long known as a dry community, there was a marked change. On complete returns the county was shown to favor repeal about two to one. The vote was 2966 for and 1506 against. In Columbia, the seat of the State University, 1561 votes were cast for repeal, and 642 against.

St. Charles County went more than 10 to 1 for repeal. With only three small precincts unreported, the vote was 3915 to 286.

In many of the rural counties returns were incomplete. Interest appeared to be lacking and in many instances judges and clerks of election made no reports to the county seats. Many of these precincts will remain unreported until Monday. The overwhelming vote for repeal in St. Louis and Kansas City and the trend in the rural precincts which had reported left no doubt, however, of the sweeping repudiation of prohibition.

State Dry Law Still Stands.

Repeal of national prohibition will not change Missouri's status as a legally dry state, until the State bone dry law, enacted in 1923, is repealed.

Gov. Park has said he would reach a decision this week concerning whether he would issue a call for a special session of the Legislature to consider several suggested measures, including repeal of the bone dry law and enactment of new liquor control laws.

Previously he had indicated he would call a special session at the end of this year, or early next year, if the twenty-first amendment had been adopted by that time, or enough states had ratified it to make a repeal appear certain.

The necessity for an earlier decision on a special session has developed through a declaration by administrators of Federal unemployment relief funds that allotment of such funds to Missouri would be cut off after Nov. 1, unless the State made provision for assuming a large share of the cost of relief work, from State funds.

In connection with his plans for a special session the Governor said he would appoint an advisory commission soon, to make a study of liquor regulatory laws, and prepare recommendations to the Legislature.

The Weeks Act, under which the election was held, provided for the election of two delegates from each of the 34 senatorial districts, to a convention Aug. 29. The names of the delegates were not on the ballot, the voters voting either for 68 delegates favoring repeal or 68 opposing repeal.

Congress in submitting repeal provided that ratification by the states should be by conventions. The Missouri convention will be a mere formality, all of the delegates favoring repeal.

Kansas City and Jackson County 10 to 1 for Repeal.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 19.—Official returns from all the 459 precincts in Kansas City tabulated tonight by the Board of Election Commissioners, gave: For repeal, 124,164; Against repeal, 11,372.

Returns from 83 of the 85 precincts in Jackson County outside Kansas City, gave: For repeal, 10,516; Against, 4491. The majority for repeal in city and county was greater than 10 to 1.

More than 131,000 Kansas City voters went to the polls and about 15,000 voted in the county outside the city.

In the First Ward in Kansas City the vote was 11,888 for repeal and 281 against and in the second 12,673 for repeal and 210 against.

The heaviest vote was in the fifth precinct of the Second Ward, 707 for repeal and 17 against. One of the close precincts was the seventeenth of the Eighth Ward, where the vote was 59 for and 41 against.

Voting in the county was not so brisk and the contest was closer. Lees Summit, getting out about one-third of the available vote, went for repeal by 17 votes, the count standing 419 for repeal and 402 against.

In Independence and the remainder of Blue Township nearly 10,000 votes were cast, the repeal forces winning about 3 to 1.

By a ruling of the Kansas City Board of Election Commissioners the drys picked up several thousand unexpected votes because of errors by precinct officials. In making the official returns the officials entered the votes in the wrong spaces thus technically giving several precincts to the dry forces which were in reality carried overwhelmingly for repeal.

Almost fifty per cent of the vote registered in 1932, turned out in Kansas City.

Governor Says More Than One Employe of State Treasurer Took Bogus Securities to Chicago.

DECLARES THEY ACTED FOR FINNEY

Printers Furnished Great Numbers of Duplicates — $150,000 in Fraudulent Warrants.

By the Associated Press.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 19.—With indications the total amount of forgeries in the Kansas bogus bond swindle may reach $1,700,000, investigators revealed today they had information that more than one employe in the State Treasurer's office carried forged bonds to Chicago for Ronald Finney, bond broker.

Finney and Tom Boyd, State Treasurer, are under arrest in the case, Finney on a charge of uttering forged bonds and Boyd for alleged conversion to his and Finney's use of $150,000 in State bonds.

Gov. Alf. M. Landon, after a conference with Sard M. Brewster, United States District Attorney, said "we have positive information that Coryell Gove was not the only employe of the State Treasuerer's office who took forged bonds to Chicago brokers for Finney."

Landon's reference to Gove was described by Boyd in an interview as a transaction in which Finney took $150,000 in bonds from the Treasurer's office to Chicago for disposal. Boyd sent Gove along as an armed guard.

Lester Goddell, Shawnee County Attorney, revealed that he had a statement from the manager of a Topeka printing firm to the effect that the concern had printed more than $1,000,000 in duplicate bonds upon order of Finney. Records of two other concerns show more than $500,000 in duplicates were printed while it is known more than $150,000 in forged warrants have been circulated.

Brewster had no information to disclose about his visits recently to Chicago and Washington. Asked if he could tell the name of the reputed Finney contact man in Washington, the District Attorney parried with: the code sets up a 40-hour week in marketing operations, except for filling station employes, and a like week for clerical employes in the drilling, producing, refining and pipe line divisions, whose other employes have a 36-hour week.

"What contact man?".

OIL AND STEEL CODES SIGNED BY PRESIDENT

Pay rates range from 45 to 52 cents in the drilling and other producing sections, and from 40 to 47 cents for marketing.

Filling station employes, on a 48-hour basis, receive minimum pay of $12 to $15 weekly, according to the population of the city.

Letter From the President.

In a formal letter to Johnson announcing approval of the code President Roosevelt recognized the position of price control advocates, represented by the Emergency National Committee of 54 organized under the auspices of the American Petroleum Institute.

"In submitting this proposed petroleum code to me," the President said, "one substantial group within the industry has also submitted some proposed amendments, agreeing however, to abide by my decision as to their acceptance.

"You have advised me that there are some provisions of the code which require further consideration.

"The code, as agreed to by all its proponents, provides for a representative planning and co-ordinating committee of the industry. In view of the fact that we shall thus have a self-governing industry under Federal supervision, it has seemed advisable to me to approve the code exactly as submitted in the usual manner, and then to call for the advice of the planning and co-ordinating committee to the end that prior to the effective date of the code, I may make a decision on these questions and on the provisions which you feel should be further considerew.

"In accordance with article seven, section two, will you please request all of the various groups who have participated in the hearings and subsequent consideration of the code, now to make their nominations for membership on the planning and co-ordinating committee."

This committee, which will have 12 members, nine from the industry and three from the NRA, will function jointly with a Federal agency to be designated by the President in administering the code, the Federal agency confining most of its attention to production regulation.

New Tactics in Coal Row.

The Administration adopted new tactics tonight in its effort to bring the bituminous coal industry under code.

Abandoning yesterday's plan of having a committee of about 30 producers work out their own code at a round table conference, Administration officials started a series of conferences with individuals or small groups of operators to adjust disputed points in the agreement.

It was understood that a code prepared by the Administration would be the focal point of the discussions. That code was based on the 29 different agreements submitted by the industry.

The new procedure was decided on in the interest of speed. Deputy Administrator Kenneth M. Simpson said it would be impossible to meet President Roosevelt's request for a code tonight. The Administration was directing every effort to have the agreement ready for signature early next week.

Johnson Favors Autonomy.

Gen. Johnson talked to the committee of 30 briefly in his office this afternoon. He told the operators he wanted a single, simple code and wanted it quickly, and that he believed they could get together to draw it up.

Johnson said the demands of certain groups for administrative autonomy were justified to a certain extent, and that some provision for autonomy should be included.

Most of the operators professed no knowledge of what ideas the Administration had about minimum wages and maximum working hours. Administration officials refused to discuss those phases of the code.

One rumor said the Administration tentatively had decided on the $5 a day basic scale for underground labor, with a 40-cent differential for the South, and a 36-hour average week. That went unconfirmed.

Open Shop Is Unlikely.

It was generally believed by the coal men themselves that the open-shop clause in the nonunion code was out of the question.

John D. A. Morrow of Pittsburgh, R. E. Taggart of Philadelphia, James D. Francis of Huntington, W. Va., and Charles O'Neill of New York, leaders of the nonunion group, conferred at length with Donald Richberg, general counsel for the Administration, about interpretation of the labor provisions of the Recovery Act.

Although they declined to discuss the conference it was understood that they were a great deal nearer an understanding that would lead to withdrawal of their opposition to a code without an open shop clause than they had been previously.

The nonunion group has insisted that something be done to prevent blanket unionization of their mines.

There appeared to be a definite spirit of hopefulness among the operators tonight that the code could be worked out within a few days.

The code for the lumber industry was approved today by President Roosevelt. Signing of the code was announced by Dudley Cates, Deputy Administrator, on leaving the White House after a conference with the President. Cates was accompanied by Laird Bell, industrial advisor, and Col. W. B. Greeley, secretary-manager of the West Coast Lumbermen's Association.

Auto Compromise Proposed.

A compromise offer eliminating reference to the open shop from the automobile code was discussed today by representatives of the industry with a growing possibility that such a course would be followed.

As the plan took shape in informal conferences, the disputed section would still contain a statement that individual merit, regardless of union membership, would govern the hiring and promotion of workers.

Such an arrangement, the motor car manufacturers felt, would be in conformity with the idea of Gen. Johnson, as outlined at the automobile hearings by Richberg. The disagreement centers on the following paragraph in the code as submitted:

"Under the foregoing provision (the mandatory statement of the right of the workers to bargain collectively), the employers in the industry may continue the open shop policy under which the selection, retention, and advancement of employes will be on the basis of individual merit without regard to their affiliation or non-affiliation with any labor or other organization."

Under the compromise discussed today the two words "open shop" would be eliminated.

With the open shop controversy apparently headed for solution, the principal remaining point of interest was Henry Ford's refusal thus far to subscribe to the code. There was much speculation in this connection, including a report that Ford intends to submit a code of his own, but NRA officials said they had received no word from the Detroit manufacturer.

Under the rules of procedure of the administration, the time has passed for intervention and the law provides that once a code is promulgated it shall be for the entire industry.

PLANE EXPLODES IN AIR, PILOT BURIED IN MARSH

High Tide Thwarts Rescue Efforts; Delaware Troopers Think Lightning Hit Ship.

By the Associated Press.

DOVER, Del., Aug. 19.—A red, cabin monoplane late today fell near Leipsic, five miles west of here, and was buried under eight feet of water and mud in a marsh.

State Troopers said the plane, flying in a storm, apparently was hit by lightning. It immediately burst in flames and the engine exploded.

Neighbors and others, struggling in the mire to reach the debris and extricate the pilot, apparently the only person aboard, were driven back as high-tide flooded the marsh.

Investigation disclosed that a plane answering the description of the wrecked one, operated by Harold McMahon, of Oyster Bay, L. I., was missing.

LACLEDE COMPANY FILES ANSWER TO GAS RATE CASE

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 19.—The Laclede Gas Light Co. today filed with the State Public Service Commission its answer in opposition to the application of the City of St. Louis for a 20 per cent reduction in gas rates.

Extensive hearings on the city's application were held recently before the commission.

CHARGES TULSA DOCTORS SOLD 4 BABIES FOR FEES

State Commissioner of Charities Says Infants Born Out of Wedlock Brought $70 to $100.

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., Aug. 19.—Evidence that babies born out of wedlock have been sold here for adoption was revealed today by Mrs. Mabel Bassett, State Commissioner of Charities and Corrections.

Mrs. Bassett asserted she had obtained statements signed by three physicians after the "baby market" was uncovered accidentally by Miss Helen Schaeffer, director of the local Children's Service Bureau.

At least four babies have been "sold" recently, Mrs. Bassett said, for sums ranging from $70 to $100, the physicians allegedly taking the money as "costs of hospitalization."

Miss Schaeffer told Mrs. Bassett her suspicions were aroused when two women called and asked about the parentage of a baby offered them for adoption for $100.

After Mrs. Bassett was advised, an investigation was begun that showed four children, all born of girl mothers, had been disposed of in this fashion over a period of a few weeks.

One Born In Hospital.

One child was born in a hospital, one at a private home and the other two at local institutions which Mrs. Bassett said she could not recommend to prospective mothers.

In each instance, Mrs. Bassett said, the doctor in the case advised the young mother he would relieve her of the responsibility of caring for the child.

"The girls agreed because they had been betrayed and were at a low ebb, both physically and mentally, and because they were so desperately poor they could not pay hospital costs and care for the children," Mrs. Bassett said.

Two cases investigated showed the foster parents were paying for the babies they had bought on an installment plan and in two other cases Mrs. Bassett said she found the new homes of the children were not "proper" for babies.

The doctors were quoted by her as saying they were justified in obtaining a fee for their services and there was no other way to obtain pay.

"It is the State's shame that these cases cannot be prosecuted," Mrs. Bassett said. "We need legislation badly to protect unfortunate girls."

Mrs. Bassett said she had no evidence to indicate the physicians were working together. One of them, she said, is not recognized at this time by the local medical society.

4-YEAR REINDEER DRIVE IN ARCTIC REACHES CANADA

Herd of 2100 Now Waiting for Mackenzie River to Freeze for Crossing.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 19.—After nearly four years on wolf-infested trails, through ice and storms and the short Arctic summers, the reindeer herd driven by Andy Behr has reached the banks of the Mackenzie River in Northwestern Canada.

Only the crossing of the river remains to be made when the stream freezes over and the trip to deliver the herd of 2100 reindeer to the Canadian Government's experimental station on Richard Island will be ended.

In midwinter in 1929 Bahr, with a few assistants, left the Kotzebue Sound region in Western Alaska. The herd had been sold to the Canadian Government, as the expected forerunner of herds to provide food and clothing for natives of the Canadian Northwest. During the first winter wolf packs stampeded the herd and the reindeer were not reassembled for weeks.

In the summer camp on the Tundra the next year the herd split up and the groups drifted miles apart.

In March, 1931, food ran out. But Pilot Joe Crosson of the Alaska Airways took 1000 pounds of food to the party and the drive went on.

P. G. HAMMAR ASKS EDUCATORS' AID IN ADOPTING TWO GIRLS

Retired Manufacturer Sends Out Circular; He Is Seeking Exceptional Children.

Park G. Hammar, retired paint manufacturer, yesterday mailed to a list of educators, and others in touch with child life, a circular asking for help in the selection of two orphan girls, between the age of 3 and 4 years, whom he desires to adopt.

A picture of Hammar, who is 70 years old and a bachelor, and a picture of his home, Stone Haven, on Upper Ladue road, appear on the circular. The home, which Hammar bought last spring, was formerly the home of Ralph F. Bixby. It is a five-acre estate, with stone residence, playground and swimming pool.

"I intend to afford these children an exceptional opportunity," Hammar's circular says, "and I am seeking exceptional children. I wish to find two girls, orphans, 3 to 4 years of age, children of Protestant parents of refinement and gentility. Their physical condition, as shown by a medical test, and their mentality, as shown by a psychological test, must be normal. I should expect them to be attractive in appearance, affectionate—if somewhat demonstrative so much the better—and of cheerful disposition. I feel constrained to require that they shall come from private homes, not from orphan asylums or other public institutions."

Hammar, a non-professional student of the subjects of health and longevity, has published two books on the theme of long and efficient living.

Burial in Ireland for Capt. Nally, Veteran St. Louis Policeman

Funeral Tuesday for Officer Noted for His Integrity and Courage — Cleaned Up Tough District.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning for Police Capt. Frank Nally, who died yesterday at De Paul Hospital, where he had been under treatment the last three weeks for chronic heart disease.

The services will be at 9:30 o'clock at the Blessed Sacrament Church, Kingshighway boulevard and Northland avenue, and the body will be shipped to Claremorris, County Mayo, Ireland, for burial. It will lie in state at the Cullinane Brothers Undertaking Co., 1710 North Grand boulevard, from noon today until 9 o'clock Tuesday morning.

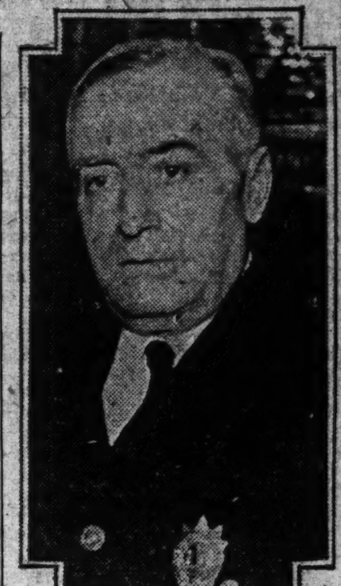
The pallbearers were chosen by Capt. Nally two days before he died. They are: Lieut. Paul Shultz, for eight years his roommate; Sergeant Michael Callahan, of the Deer Street station; Sergeant Thomas Dirrane, Deer Street; Patrolman James Asher of the Carr Street station; Patrolman Joseph Schottel, Carr Street, and Patrolman Thomas Hughes, Carr Street.

"Married" to Department.

Frank Nally had been a policeman 34 years, a captain 10 years. A bachelor, 58 years old, he lived at the Fairgrounds Hotel and spent most of his evenings inspecting the police work of his subordinates.

Capt. Nally, his associates used to say, was married to the Police Department. He had no other interest and wanted none. His first assignment as a captain was to clean up the Fifth, or North Market Street district. He did it in a year and a half and for a reward was assigned to the Fourth, or Carr Street station, "the toughest police district in town," with orders to clean that up. too.

He cleaned it up in short order and in the following years presided over it with a benevolent paternalism whereunder the constitutional rights of the residents were sometimes disregarded—but only for their own good, or at least, the good of the district.



CAPT. FRANK NALLY.

Capt. Nally was a forthright man and the worst epithet in his vocabulary was "thief." He could see no good in any law violator and he made no secret of his contempt. To him, a man—or a woman, for that matter—was either honest and all right, or dishonest and all wrong.

His friend, Mgr. Timothy Dempsey, whose church is in the Fourth District, always maintained that gangsters weren't really bad boys, but just boys that had made mistakes. Capt. Nally couldn't see it.

One day when Father Tim was chatting with Vito Giannola, Italian gang leader who later was assassinated, he called the Captain across the street to shake hands with Vito. "He's not a bad boy at all, at all," the priest said.

Frank Nally drew himself up to his more than average height. His ruddy face flamed and he inhaled

CLEVELAND ENGINEER MYSTERIOUSLY SLAIN

Oxford Graduate Poisoned and Slashed With Knife Beside Lonely Road.

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 19. — The body of James E. Gray, 49 years old, a mechanical engineer, was found beside a lonely road in suburban Euclid today, the victim of a corrosive poison.

The clues to the apparent murder were the kind that fill the pages of mystery thrillers. A copy of a thriller dealing with a crime of vengeance lay within a few feet of the body.

The man had been stabbed twice in the back and slashed across the back of the neck, but Assistant Coroner Wilson S. Chamberlain said none of these wounds was deep enough to cause death.

A stiletto-like knife with a seven-inch blade was still in one of the back wounds, and the finger prints of two persons were on the handle in blood.

A pair of horn-rimmed spectacles lay beside the book; Gray's wallet, empty save for a card bearing the name of his wife, Mrs. Katherine Gray and her Cleveland address, was nearby, and his silver watch, made in Turkey was also on the grass a few feet away.

Euclid police learned Gray was a mechanical engineer who had been educated in Oxford University, England, and Columbia, in New York. He was naturalized in 1918, but available records here failed to show his birthplace, and his wife denied herself to questioners.

Friends said Gray had been out of a position since early in 1932, that he had worked as an engineer in most of the countries of the world, having picked up a smattering of several languages while traveling.

Mrs. Gray, interviewed by police, told them her husband had left home yesterday morning to go to the Cleveland Engineering Club, where he was to have met a friend. The two were to go to Ashtabula, she said, to see about a position for Gray. She said he had $157 with him when he left home.

A member of the engineering society and the Masonic Order, Gray had felt discouraged of late, friends said, because a sizable accumulation of money to care for his family had dwindled during the depression. A son, 16, was away at a scout camp today.

The police said they could explain none of the clues at the scene of the crime, and could find no one who would wish to do away with Gray. They were unable to surmise whom the friend could have been, and were seeking to find out, in the hope the man could help them trace Gray's movements.

CAPTAIN NALLY'S BODY IS TO BE TAKEN TO IRELAND

until Father Tim thought he was going to burst. "Begging the pardon of your Reverence," he said, "I'll not shake hands with him. He's a dirty thief." With that he stamped across the street and into the station.

Nothing Good in Gunmen.

There was nothing he liked about gunmen. He thought they were cowards, and he was convinced that nobody but a "dirty thief" would use a knife. His language in describing a knifing was always picturesque and sometimes unprintable.

He used to recall with wistful regret the good old days when men were men and fought with the fists "or cobble-rocks or maybe half a brick," as real men should.

As a probationary patrolman in 1899 and 1900, he was assigned to the Eighth, or Laclede avenue district, where he walked at night in the vicinity of Jefferson avenue and Olive street, which was then the stamping ground of a gang of lusty hoodlums.

When Gangsters Were Men.

It was good clean fighting with the gangsters of that period, he told a Post-Dispatch reporter not long ago. "I'd be walking by the alley between Olive and Locust east of Jefferson and one of the guys would holler if I didn't have a club I wouldn't dare to show up around there. So I'd pitch it over the fence and go down the alley after him."

Usually when young Nally went down the alley after a man he brought him to the station and the lieutenant would want to know why the prisoner's eyes were swollen shut and his nose was bleeding. "He fell down," Patrolman Nally would always say.

The prisoner wouldn't contradict the policeman and the lieutenant would usually tell him to go on back home and be more careful next time about falling down. Then the next night or the night after, Nally would have another fight. It was difficult in those days to convince some of the boys who hung around Jefferson and Olive.

Integrity Unquestioned.

After several years Nally was transferred to the Central district. In 1915 he was made a sergeant and sent to the North Market Street station for four years. Then he was promoted to be lieutenant and made Acting Night Chief of Police—a post now held by his closest friend, Lieut. Paul Shultz.

By that time Frank Nally had a reputation. He was not financially ambitious; his salary was plenty for him and he was not likely to accept any favors from anybody. His fierce integrity was such that it was unlikely anybody would even offer him any improper favors. Policemen called him "a great copper."

In 1923 he was made Captain and sent to the Fifth District. Late in 1924 he was transferred to the Fourth and there he remained.

He was always sensitive about his physical condition and resented any inquiries about his health. He seemed to resent that anyone would even think he was other, than robust.

At Police Headquarters one day last spring, just after he'd been in the hospital for several weeks, somebody asked him how he felt. "None of your business, you dam' crepehanger," he growled.

One of 12 Children.

Capt. Nally was one of 12 children. Four of his brothers and five sisters still are alive. Most of them still live in Claremorris, County Mayo. However, two sisters live in New York. Miss Marcella Nally is an attorney in New York City and Mrs. Delia Nally Bell has been a policewoman in that city for the last 29 years. Her son, Richard Nally Bell, lives at 4715 Hammett place. He is an automobile salesman.

One of the brothers, Eugene, came to St. Louis before Frank Nally did in 1893, and opened a saloon at Prairie and Kossuth avenues, near the old Fairgrounds. Frank Nally had a half interest in the place from the time he arrived at the age of 18, until he joined the force six years later. Eugene finally sold the saloon and went back to Ireland, where he died in 1929.

"Frank Nally's death," Chief of Police Gerk said yesterday morning, when he was informed of it, "is not only a loss to this department, but to the profession. His work in cleaning up the Carr Street District is one of the finest pieces of police work I know of."

CANCELS MARY WIGMAN'S CONTRACT TO APPEAR IN U. S.

Theatrical Man Says He Won't Let American Dollars Go to Support Hitler Government.

By the Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 19.—Sol Hurok, New York theatrical manager, announced here today he had canceled contracts for Mary Wigman, dancer, and other German artists scheduled to appear in the United States under his direction, "as long as they remain in Germany."

Hurok declined to give the names of the others. He said he hoped all except Miss Wigman would leave Germany so he could present them, "and if I give their names they will not be permitted to leave."

All artists in Germany, he said, were compelled to subscribe at least 40 per cent of their earnings to the support of the German government, and if he brought the stars here "American dollars would go directly to aid a government which, he declared "is in opposition to our own constitutional belief."

MANY MARCHERS SEEKING PLACES IN NRA PARADE

Number of Organizations Entering Causes Starting Time to Be Advanced to 1:35 P. M. Wednesday.

Detailed plans for the blue eagle parade to be held Wednesday afternoon by the St. Louis Committee of the National Recovery Administration were announced yesterday by Street Commissioner McMahon, chairman of the Parade Committee.

A half-holiday has been proclaimed by Mayor Dickmann, who will serve as grand marshal. Because of the large number of organizations seeking places in the procession, the starting time was advanced from 2 o'clock, as previously announced, to 1:35, McMahon said.

Beginning at Eighteenth street, the parade will pass through Washington avenue, Broadway and Market street, disbanding after passing a reviewing stand at Fourteenth and Market streets. MANY MARCHERS SEEKING PLACES IN NRA PARADE

Number of Organizations Entering Causes Starting Time to Be Advanced to 1:35 P. M. Wednesday.

Detailed plans for the blue eagle parade to be held Wednesday afternoon by the St. Louis Committee of the National Recovery Administration were announced yesterday by Street Commissioner McMahon, chairman of the Parade Committee.

A half-holiday has been proclaimed by Mayor Dickmann, who will serve as grand marshal. Because of the large number of organizations seeking places in the procession, the starting time was advanced from 2 o'clock, as previously announced, to 1:35, McMahon said.

Beginning at Eighteenth street, the parade will pass through Washington avenue, Broadway and Market street, disbanding after passing a reviewing stand at Fourteenth and Market streets. Aside from floats which have been approved by the committee, no vehicles will be allowed in the procession of marchers. Buildings along the route will be decorated.

The organizations taking part, including 32 bands and drum and bugle corps, will assemble on Washington avenue and intersecting streets between Eighteenth street and Jefferson avenue, beginning at 1 o'clock.

The assembly will be as follows: Nineteenth street north of Washington, Central Trades and Labor Union; Twentieth north of Washington, Building Trades Council; Twenty-firth north of Washington, industrial division; Twenty-second north of Washington, St. Louis County division; Twenty-third north of Washington, Federal and city employes; Twenty-first and Twenty-second, south of Washington, fraternal organizations.

Assembling in Washington avenue along the five blocks west from Eighteenth street will be, in the order named: Mounted police and the 138th Infantry, Missouri National Guard; 128th Field Artillery, 600 members of the Citizens' Military Training Corps, Jefferson Barracks; United Spanish War Veterans, and the Veterans of Foreign Wars and American Legion.

The St. Louis office of the Department of Commerce yesterday received 1241 signed copies of President Roosevelt's voluntary blanket re-employment agreement from Missouri employers, bringing the total to 48,349.

Postmen this week will begin distribution to homes of blue eagle insignia for consumers and pledge cards which are to be mailed in enclosed franked and addressed envelopes to the St. Louis office of the Department of Commerce. In signing the pledge, the consumer agrees to patronize places displaying the blue eagle, indicating they have complied with the President's re-employment agreement.

ATHEIST PROFESSOR CALLED U. S. PUBLIC ENEMY NO. 1

Walter A. Maier, of Concordia, Assails Teachers Who Destroy Faith of Youth.

By the Associated Press.

POCONO PINES, Pa., Aug. 19.—America's "public enemy No. 1" was nominated yesterday by Prof. Walter A. Maier, of the Concordia Lutheran Seminary, St. Louis, as the college professor who "takes the pay of Christian endowments" and then "poisons the brain and the heart and the soul of his students."

Speaking on "subversive influences of modern educational trends on marriage" at the third session of the Pocono Institute on Domestic Relations, Dr. Maier asserted the college degree, "in instances that range from 25 to 39 per cent of admitted deterioration," has aided and abetted in "character deformation."

"We nominate as America's public enemy No. 1," he said, "the notorious faith wrecker who sits high in the council of academic distinction, scoffs at religion, denies the existence of God, and exterminates the spiritual life of the nation's youth and flower—the infidel teacher who receives popular plaudits and high salary, often paid by tax levies, for his cut-throat attacks on Christianity.

ELISABETH MARBURY MEMORIAL

Group to Maintain New England Estate, Hold Meetings There.

By the Associated Press.

MOUNT VERNON, Me., Aug. 19.—Mrs. Thomas J. Lewis of New York announced today she had acquired title to the estate of the late Elisabeth Marbury, Democratic national committeewoman from New York, and that it would be established as a permanent memorial to her ideals.

The announcement was made at a meeting of men and women leaders of the party in New England, an event instituted several years ago by Miss Marbury. Mrs. Lewis said the memorial would be maintained by a corporation and that the Democratic meeting would be held there annually.

PRESIDENT TAKES HAND IN RAILWAY DISPUTE

Confers With Kansas City Southern President on Wage Scale; Suggests Action.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Roosevelt today intervened in the labor dispute of the Kansas City Southern Railway after his special mediation board reported that the employes would not accept the proposed new wage scale.

He conferred at length with C. E. Johnston, president of the carrier, who declined to talk after his White House meeting.

Stephen T. Early, a secretary to the President, said tonight that the President had addressed a letter to Johnston suggesting three possible courses of action. Johnston left Washington without making the letter public.

It was pointed out by Early that the President has no authority to direct a railway company to adopt any policy and he had made his recommendations in a letter for that reason.

Roosevelt apparently was backing up the report of his special Board of Mediation headed by Frank P. Douglass of Oklahoma City, the chairman.

Joseph B. Eastman, the railway co-ordinator, joined the President in his lengthy talk with Johnston.

The Kansas City Southern offered an entirely new wage contract to its employes early this year. On June 6 labor voted to strike rather than accept the plan.

The Board of Mediation reported to the President that it was convinced labor would not accept the new wage plan which it contends would destroy all that labor has gained by years of organized effort.

BENJAMIN THAW SR., 74, PITTSBURGH BANKER, DIES

Was Father of World War Ace, Col. William Thaw; Half-Brother of Harry K.

By the Associated Press.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 19.—Benjamin Thaw Sr., Pittsburgh banker, died today at his residence. He was 74 years old.

He was the father of the World War ace, Col. William Thaw, member of the Lafayette Escadrille, and a half-brother of Harry K. Thaw.

Born in Pittsburgh, Mr. Thaw was graduated in 1878 from the Western University of Pennsylvania, now the University of Pittsburgh. His first job was as railroad clerk. Later he entered the coke business, organizing, with his brother, William Thaw Jr., the Hecla Coke Co., absorbed by the H. C. Frick Coke Co., in 1905.

Mr. Thaw was a trustee of the estate of his father, the late William Thaw, and of the coke combine which the elder Thaw established. He was a director of two Pittsburgh banks and of the University of Pittsburgh.

In 1896 he married Elma Elizabeth Dows of Cedar Rapids, Ia. She died in Paris in 1931.

BRITAIN TO CUT BEEF IMPORTS

Hot Summer Said to Have Reduced Demand.

By the Associated Press.

HAWICK, Scotland, Aug. 19.—Maj. Walter Elliott, British Minister of Agriculture, announced in a speech today that for the last quarter of 1933 imports of foreign frozen beef would be reduced 25 per cent. There also will be a reduction of about 15 per cent in the imports of Argentine chilled beef. These two items, Maj. Elliott said, mean a drop of more than 20,000 tons from the imports of the last quarter of 1932.

He explained that the unusually hot summer had contributed to the reduced demand for beef in Great Britain.

RESTAURANT CODE REVISED TO PREVENT SUBTERFUGES

Tips Not to Count as Wages, Employes Not to Pay for Meals Unless They Did Before June 16.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—To block possible evasions of the President's re-employment agreement, Hugh S. Johnson today ordered a revision of the restaurant industry agreement to prohibit owners from charging employes for meals unless they had done so before the recovery act was passed.

Johnson's order, as given out through the administration's policy board, said: "It has come to the attention of the policy board that charging for meals was not a common practice in the restaurant industry prior to the passage of the National Industrial Recovery act. This being so, we consider it an effort to evade the minimum wage provisions and a subterfuge to frustrate the spirit and intent of the President's re-employment agreement for a restaurant operator who had not charged his employes for meals prior to June 16, 1933, to charge for them now."

The modified agreement also provides that "gratuities shall not be considered a part of the remuneration of any employe."

The wage section of the agreement now reads: "The minimum rates and wages established in section 6 shall not be subject to deduction for meals furnished employes unless such was the practice in the restaurant prior to June 16, 1933, and if such was the case the charge shall not exceed 25 cents per meal nor $3 total in any one week."

MARK C. STEINBERG SUES SAM KOPLAR FOR $61,511

Sum Alleged to Have Been Due Defunct Brokerage Firm on Account.

Suit was filed in Circuit Court yesterday by Mark C. Steinberg against Sam Koplar of the Senate Apartments to recover $61,511 alleged to have been due the defunct brokerage investment firm of Mark C. Steinberg & Co. Koplar, the petition shows, was a customer of the firm, which in July of last year assigned certain assets, causes of action and other property to Mark Steinberg, who is now the owner.

Among the assigned property was the account of Koplar. The petition says that he and the firm agreed that the sum of $67,838 was due from him, since which sale of collateral deposited in the account reduced the indebtedness to the amount sued for, credit having been given Koplar from the proceeds.

His brother, Nat Koplar, of the Park-Plaza Hotel, is named as codefendant in the action, it being alleged that in December, 1928, he guaranteed Sam Koplar's account. Demand has been made on them for payment, but it has not been complied with, Steinberg says.

Sam Koplar said he will resist the suit, as he has been informed by an attorney he is not indebted to the firm, since an agreement which the company was to perform with respect to carrying the account was not carried out. He said it was another account of his that Nat Koplar guaranteed and the latter has nothing to do with the transactions involved in the suit.

Herrick relieved Otis Knapp, appointed Deputy Administrator here recently to succeed James Dillon.

Whales Entertain Crowd.

DELAKE, Ore.—Week-end visitors to this Pacific Coast resort found a new diversion in watching two large whales that entered narrow Depoe Bay to play. The mammals, each about 60 feet long, splashed to the surface frequently and sent great spouts of water into the air. Unmindful of the watching crowds, the whales remained in the bay several hours, at times moving within 20 feet of the shore.

RECEIVER NAMED FOR SOUTH SIDE NATIONAL BANK

Conservator Edwin S. Coombs Appointed So He Can Make Assessment Against Lafayette Depository.

The appointment of Edwin S. Coombs as receiver for South Side National Bank was announced yesterday. Coombs has been conservator for the bank since the March banking holiday.

Joseph L. Rehme, president of the bank and of Lafayette South Side Bank and Trust Co., which owns it, said Coombs' appointment as receiver was necessary to enable him to levy an assessment against the Lafayette as the owner of all South Side National Bank stock.

The amount of the assessment, Rehme said, had not been determined. South Side National is capitalized at $600,000 which would be the maximum possible assessment under the double liability provision of national bank charters.

Plans for the reorganization of the Lafayette and South Side National, neither of which was permitted to open after the banking holiday, call for separate ownership of the two banks, and it was for this reason, Rehme said, that the assessment became necessary.

Atleast two plans of reorganization for the two banks have been advanced and discarded. The second plan was abandoned when the Federal Reserve Board ruled a state bank could not, under the Glass-Steagall bill passed at the last session of Congress, own stock in a state bank. That ruling came after the Reconstruction Finance Corporation had agreed to take about $2,000,000 of preferred stock in a new bank which planned to take over the assets of the present Lafayette-South Side Bank and Trust Co.

GRAF ZEPPELIN FLIGHT TO CHICAGO FAIR CONSIDERED

Plans Still Indefinite as Dirigible Leaves on Regular Trip to South America.

By the Associated Press.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Aug. 19.—A flight to Chicago is being contemplated for the Graf Zeppelin, which started this evening on its fifth trip of the season to South America. Capt. Ernst Lehmann was in command.

A Zeppelin Works official said the proposed flight to the Chicago World's Fair has been under discussion but that plans are "still indefinite," owing to Commander Hugo Eckener's absence. Dr. Eckener, at present in Rio de Janeiro, will return on the Graf. Eight passengersr and a large amount of freight and mail were carried on the Zeppelin.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—A special stamp will be issued by the Postoffice Department for use in connection with a proposed October flight by the Graf Zeppelin from Germany to the Chicago World's Fair. Postmaster-General Farley said today it would be a 50-cent stamp, which would carry any letter not exceeding one-half ounce in weight, over the United States in the famous Graf, on its fourth trip here.

TWO INJURED IN PARACHUTE JUMPS FROM BURNING PLANE

Tulsa Aviators Seriously Burned and one Suffers Broken Leg in Leap.

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., Aug. 19.—Harry Royster, 31 years old, and Sydney Means, 30, Tulsa aviators, were seriously burned and Royster suffered a broken leg when they were forced to abandon their burning airplane over Tulsa today.

Royster, who was at the controls, tried unsuccessfully to extinguish the flames by side-slipping the ship. The flyers jumped then, but Royster's parachute failed to open quickly and his leg was broken as he struck the ground. The plane fell about 600 feet and plunged nose down, smothering the flames as it crashed. A motor back-fire was thought to have started the blaze.

Patch told officers that White, an employe of a packing company, entered the cafe at 2 a. m. and ordered the employes of the place to put up their hands. Instead of complying, Patch told officers, he reached for his revolver and shot White.

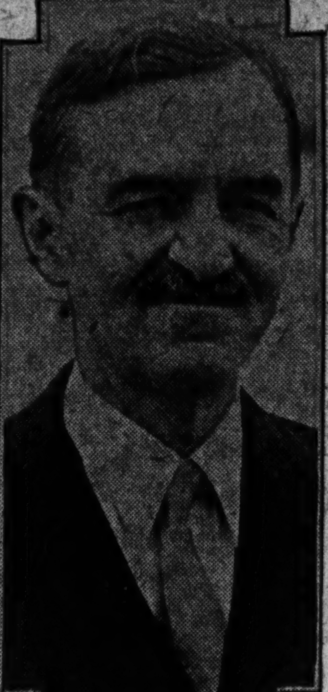
RECALL SOUGHT



DANIEL W. HOAN.

SEEKS RECALL OF MILWAUKEE MAYOR IN OFFICE 17 YEARS

United Taxpayers' League Says He Hasn't Cut Taxes; Court to Rule on Petition Wednesday.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 19. — The United Taxpayers' League today filed a petition in County Court asking for the recall of Daniel W. Hoan, Mayor of Milwaukee for 17 years, alleging he had failed to reduce taxes. The petition bore 46,100 signatures and will be ruled on by Judge M. S. Sheridan next Wednesday.

It would be necessary, Judge Sheridan said, to determine whether all the signatures were those of Milwaukee citizens. If Judge Sheridan approves the reason for demanding the recall and the sufficiency of the petition, the Common Council within 10 days thereafter must call a special election for Mayor.

Although he has refrained from any announcement, it is reported that Mayor Hoan will be a candidate in the special election if it is held.

VILLAGE INDUSTRIES BENEFIT BY HITLER HAND-WORK ORDER

Machines Would Throw Most of Inhabitants Out of Work in Some Small Centers.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—Restrictive legislation by the Hitler regime is checking substitution of the machine for the man in several industries.

By a law promulgated recently, cigar manufacturers are forbidden to install modern automatic machinery, but they may continue to use present mechanical devices, provided they do not raise their last year's output.

An official statement says that most of the German cigar making industry is located in towns of less than 5000 inhabitants. Modern machinery would throw five-sixths of all cigar makers out of work; therefore it has been decided that manufacturers must revert to the hand-made article.

No more new machines may be introduced, nor temporarily idle machines re-started.

The Ministry of Finance has been authorized to set aside $650,000 to indemnify cigar manufacturers who cease using machinery and go back to hand work.

Similar restrictions have become operative in the glassware industry. Three Thuringian manufacturers allowed their machinery to run one day after the new regulation came into force and were fined $300 each for the benefit of unemployed glass workers. The machines were "padlocked" until the end of September.

GANDHI'S FOURTH FAST DAY

He Is Weaker and Friends' Anxiety Is Increasing.

By the Associated Press.

POONA, India, Aug. 19.—The Mahatma Gandhi was weaker this evening as he began the fourth day of a threatened fast unto death. The anxiety of his friends was increasing.

There was no indication that Gandhi would accept the Government's offer of restricted liberty while he is imprisoned in Yeroda jail. Gandhi began the fast because he was refused privileges he formerly enjoyed as a political prisoner to carry on his campaign in behalf of the "untouchables" class. The Government then offered certain concessions. Gandhi's secretary, Mahadev Desai, is caring for him. All other offers of help by friends outside the jail were refused.

Earth Tremor Unsolved Mystery.

By the Associated Press.

EL RENO, Ok., Aug. 19.—Either a terrific explosion or an earth tremor occurred in this section of Oklahoma this afternoon, but an investigation failed to reveal the nature of the disturbance. Scores of citizens in Canadian County, many living five to 15 miles out of El Reno, telephoned into the city to inquire about the tremor. Dishes were rattled on shelves, and some buildings rocked for a moment. The shock came at approximately 1:32 p. m.

KILLED BY POSSE AFTER TYING UP BLOODHOUNDS

Paroled Negro Had Made Friends With Dogs as Cook at Arkansas Prison Farm.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PINE BLUFF, Ark., Aug. 19.—Caught in the act of tynig up pursuing bloodhounds, a trick that he had employed successfully before, Henry Jackson, 30-year-old Negro convict, was shot to death by a posse today. Jackson was being sought as a suspect in the attack on George Ives, veteran night watchman at the Cummins Negro prison farm, Thursday morning.

Wardetn T. G. Cogbill, leading one band of pursuers, came on Jackson as he was tying up the fourth of several bloodhounds, and when Jackson refused to obey his command to surrender, shot the Negro in the arm. Jackson fled into the arms of the other band of pursuers and was shot to death.

Jackson had become friendly with the bloodhounds by feeding them scraps of meat while serving as cook at the prison farm.

The slaying of Jackson was the third resulting from three apparently unrelated outbreaks at the Tucker and Cummins prison farms near here during the last few days.

Virgil Williams, a white man, was shot through the heart when he and a companion, R. G. Jones, attempted to escape from the Tucker farm. Edmund McCarroll, a Negro, was shot down fighting a pursuing posse after he and Charles McCullough had escaped. The latter is still at liberty.

Ives is not expected to live. He was struck on the head with a heavy timber during the attack Thursday at the Cummins farm.

Jackson was released July 30 after serving 23 months of a two-year sentence.

MODERN HEATING CO. PLACED IN RECEIVERSHIP BY CREDITOR

President of Concern, Which Is Said to Be Solvent, to Continue to Manage It.

John J. Collins, president of the Modern Heating Co., 2671 Washington boulevard, was appointed receiver for that company yesterday by Circuit Judge Williams.

The action was taken on petition of the Grinnell Co., Inc., which said the heating concern owed it $1252 and that although the defendant firm was solvent, having assets exceeding liabilities, it had not sufficient ready cash to meet bills, and creditors had threatened to enforce payment of claims by filing suits. In such event, the petition stated, the defendant's credit would be impaired and its business endangered.

The Modern Heating Co. deals in heating equipment and will continue to operate under management of the receiver. It consented to the granting of plaintiff's petition. Joseph N. Hassett was appointed attorney for the receiver.

ANOTHER SUSPECT ARRESTED FOR KIDNAPING OF BREWER

Arthur R. Reese Seized at La Salle, Ill., in St. Paul Inquiry.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Another kidnap suspect was arrested today as Federal and city officials pressed their campaign to check the current crime epidemic.

Arthur R. Reese, 38 years old, of Anoka, Minn., was questioned concerning the $100,000 kidnaping of William Hamm Jr., St. Paul brewer. He also was asked concerning his association with Sammy Taran of St. Paul, charged with bank robbery.

"We have learned that Reese recently visited Canada and changed currency of large denomination into bills easier to pass," said Melvin H. Purvis, chief of the United States Division of Investigation. "There is other evidence, also."

Reese was heavily armed when arrested at La Salle, Ill., and brought here. St. Paul police reported they questioned him several weeks ago about the Hamm kidnaping, but accomplished nothing toward solution of the case.

Roger Touhy and three of his Chicago gang followers were moved from Milwaukee to St. Paul to stand trial for the Hamm kidnaping. Unusual precautions were taken against any possible attempt to free the four.

GIRL, 13, WINNER IN HEALTH CONTEST AT ILLINOIS FAIR

Joy Leonard of Harristown Makes Record as Youngest; Gerald Stier, Petersburg, Boy Winner.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 19.—A record was shattered in the first competition at the Illinois State Fair this afternoon as 13-year-old Joy Leonard of Harristown won the title of the healthiest girl in the State. With her fourteenth birthday a month away, Miss Leonard is the youngest winner since the health contests were started among 4-H Club members.

Central Illinois took top honors, with Gerald Stier, 16, of Petersburg winning for healthiest boy.

Physicians who conducted the examination said Stier was only two-tenths of a point better than Wayne Brown, 16, of Anna, who placed second.

A brunette, Joy Leonard scored 98.8 per cent in the girls' contest, four-tenths of a point above Suzanne Ratcliffe, 13, of Grayville.

THIRD OF U. S. FUND FOR PUBLIC WORKS ALREADY ALLOTTED

$1,196,000,000 Out of $3,300,000,000 Has Been Set Aside — All May Be Used in Less Than Six Months.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—More than one-third of the $3,300,000,000 public works fund already has been allotted and many additional projects are to be approved soon in the administration's efforts to provide employment for the jobless.

Allocations thus far aggregate $1,196,721,389, Secretary of Interior Ickes, the public works administrator, announced today. He added that if the present rate were maintained the entire fund would be exhausted in less than six months.

Most of the projects approved have been for Government work, but many of those to be announced at an early date are non-Federal ones.

Federal projects were selected first, Ickes said, because the machinery already existed to get them under way with a minimum of delay and "without opening unprotected avenues where funds might be misused."

Speedy Action Taken.

"The function of the public works administration is to get men back to work and thus restore purchasing power as quickly as possible," he said. "This is being done with the greatest expedition.

"The public works administration is fighting the depression and unemployment with American dollars. Work is being supplied thousands who for months have been carried on relief rolls. A very high percentage of the money already allotted will go into pay envelopes.

"The men who go to work directly on a public works road, bridge, housing project or naval vessel are not the only beneficiaries of the public works fund. For every man employed at the site of the project it is estimated that two others 'behind the lines' get jobs. This necessarily means a tremendous stimulation to business.

"The first objective in the attack of the Public Works Administration against present economic conditions has been achieved. Men actually are at work on national recovery highway projects. Many others, long unemployed, are joining them every hour. And as the program moves from paper into construction, men move from relief roles onto pay rolls.

Determined to Avoid Waste.

"Although speed has been the watchword the Public Works Administration is determined that there shall be no misuse of the fund, no waste and no extravagance.

"Contracts will be drawn carefully with every protection afforded the Government and the taxpayers of this country who are putting up the money."

Ickes said there were many "unqualified" projects which would never be approved "despite the pressure exerted on the Public Works Administration."

Sections of the National Recovery Act under which the $3,300,000,000 public works fund was created automatically set aside a considerable part of the amount already allotted including $100,000,000 to the Farm Credit Administration, $50,000,000 to the Tennessee Valley authority, $400,000,000 for highways throughout the states, and $25,000,000 for subsistence homesteads.

BEET GROWERS ACCEPT SUGAR OUTPUT OF 1,750,000 TONS

Greatest Volume Ever Reached Was 1,148,000 in 1932; First Proposal Refused.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Administration efforts to work out an agreement to raise prices in the American sugar market approached a successful conclusion today when domestic beet growers finally agreed to accept a quota of 1,750,000 tons.

The plan for balancing supply with demand was virtually abandoned a week ago when the beet growers rejected all efforts to limit their production.

They finally capitulated after two days of intensive discussion by a committee of representatives of domestic, Puerto Rican and Hawaiian sugar interests.

Beet growers' delegates came into the agreement when their quota was increased from 1,525,000 tons annually, originally proposed, to 1,750,000 tons. The committee at once began preparing a draft of the agreement which will be submitted to Secretary Wallace Monday.

Sugar beet production reached its greatest volume in 1932 when the yield totaled 1,148,000 tons.

Although no official pronouncement so far has been made on the new proposal, it was understood the following quotas would be suggested for other producing factions: Domestic cane, 310,000 tons; Hawaiian cane, 975,000 tons; Puerto Rican cane, 875,000.

The domestic consumption has been estimated at approximately 6,500,000 short tons.

CLEVELAND MAN REPORTS $10,000 ATTEMPTED SWINDLE

GARY, Ind., Aug. 19.—Following a complaint by Edward Svec, Cleveland (O.) building contractor, that an attempt was made to swindle him out of $10,000 throgh "sure fire" bets on race horses, police arrested a man who said he was Frank Drake of St. Louis.

Svec told officers Drake got him to go to Gary on a pretense that he wanted to buy a home and then introduced him to several other men, who offered to let him in on a sure thing racing deal if he would put up $10,000. A hotel manager became suspicious and called police, who found only Drake. The prisoner gave an address in the St. Louis business district.

By the Associated Press.

About this matter of minutes and miles

Henry Ford
Dearborn, Mich.

The speedometer is a little thing, but can be a big source of wrong conclusions.

On a recent test, two cars of different makes, with speedometers set at 0, were given each two gallons of gas, and driven the same road till they stopped. The top car went 7 miles farther down the road than the low car, yet the low car's speedometer showed that it had gone farther than the top car. Paper miles and road miles may be two quite different things.

It is easier to build a speedometer that will read 70 miles an hour than a car that will go 70 miles an hour.

A Detroit man who has a summer home in Northern Michigan, began several months ago to drive his first Ford V-8. He says:

"My watch tells me that I go up north in less time than I did before, but my Ford speedometer says that I go at slower speed, and the trip registers fewer miles. In my former car the speedometer speed was higher, my mileage greater on this trip, but with my Ford V-8 I go in less time and use less gas."

There is no mystery about that. His former mileage, speed and gas consumption were delusions. He figured by a speedometer that did not measure accurately, and was not meant to. All his costs——operations, repairs, upkeep——were calculated on a wrong basis. A wrong speedometer misleads on all these items.

Some car manufacturers justify this practice. They say it is just as well for a driver to think he is going 70 miles an hour when he is going only 62. Well, let that pass as to speed; does it justify telling every driver that he is getting more mileage out of his car than he really is? A speedometer measures speed AND mileage: should it cheat on both?

Speeding up a clock cannot create more hours any more than speeding up a speed-meter can create more miles. An hour is sixty minutes long. A mile is 5280 feet long. Ford mileage and Ford speed are accurately measured——they are there——you get them——no one gets more.

Anyone can buy speedometers and have them "fixed" any way he wants them. We deal with manufacturers who know our strict stand on accuracy and are glad to meet our specifications. The limit of variation in Ford speedometers, a limit that cannot be avoided in manufacture, is 2½ at 70 miles.

We get our speed and mileage out of our engine and wheels, not out of our speedometer.

STATE PAYS $228,300 IN TRACHOMA PENSIONS

Yearly Cost — Greatest Single Cause of Blindness in Missouri.

Trachoma is the greatest single cause of blindness in Missouri and costs the State $228,300 a year in blind pensions alone, a recent study of the disease has revealed, it was announced yesterday by the Community Council.

The council quotes a report to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness by Drs. C. E. Rice and Avery A. Drake, which states that Missouri is one of six states in the country where the disease is constantly present.

The disease, which is more familiarly known as granulated eyelids, is constantly found in Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas, Southern Illinois and West Virginia, as well as in Missouri, according to the report. In the last 10 years 5388 cases have been observed in Missouri. More than half were men.

The State blind pension law allows $25 a month to each blind person the report points out, and on Jan. 1 last Missouri had 3885 pensioners of which 761, or 19.5 per cent were blind from trachoma. The disease is rare in large cities today, but is found in many rural sections.

ESCAPES FROM DEVIL'S ISLAND LAID TO SECRET ORGANIZATION

Police Think Branches in Trinidad and Venezuela Help Fleeing Convicts.

By the Associated Press.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana, Aug. 19.—British Guiana police are convinced that a secret organization in Cayenne assists prisoners to escape from Devil's Island and other French penal colonies in French Guiana. The police think branches of the organization exist in Trinidad and Venezuela and help convicts reach Colombia.

More than 30 fugitives from Cayenne have passed through British Guiana this year after braving the terrors of the jungle and sea. Forty escaped by way of British Guiana in 1932.

Two convicts, who arrived here early this year, attempted suicide because they were refused permission to remain.

NUMBER OF WOMAN CONVICTS SHOWS INCREASE IN ILLINOIS

Decrease Reported, However, in Men Sent to Prisons From State.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The Bureau of Census today announced that whereas in most every other state in the Union fewer women were being sent to state and Federal prisons each year, the number of Illinois' woman felons was steadily increasing.

In 1930 only 39 were committed to state and Federal prisons from the courts of that state, while in 1931 144 were sentenced. In 1932 209 were placed behind bars.

On the other hand, 2619 men were sentenced in 1930, 2485 in 1931 and only 2582 in 1932.

PROMOTER KARCHMER CASHES IN ON THE NRA

Convinces Police His Sale of Roosevelt Photographs Is Legitimate Business.

Jacob Karchmer, arrested many times during investigation of his various high-pressure promotions for "charity," has convinced police that his latest venture, that of selling photographs of President Roosevelt to NRA members, is a legitimate business.

He was released yesterday, after spending Friday night in custody, and announced he and his staff would go right on selling the photographs, at $1 each, to NRA members or anybody else with a dollar.

The original arrangement, according to Karchmer, was for the Hugh Hart Post (Negro) of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to sponsor the sale and to receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts. Karchmer said he was not sure what the post wanted the money for but that he thought it might be for new banners.

Police were told that the name of a national orphans' home in Michigan figured in the appeal. At any rate, Karchmer said there was a contract, drawn up by a friend of his, under which the post received $12 as its share.

L. Sneed, head of the Hugh Hart Post, told police the post had no contract with Karchmer and had refused his offer. Sneed said he had heard that application was made to President Roosevelt for approval of the venture and that approval was refused. Karchmer, explaining that he is a great admirer of the chief executive, told a reporter he had merely sent the President a photograph as a gift.

A newspaper want ad, for salesmen to solicit by telephone, was the means by which police learned of Karchmer's enterprise. Six men, three telephones, letterheads of the Hugh Hart Post and photographs of the President were found at Karchmer's headquarters, 3602A Finney avenue.

The promoter said he was uncertain yesterday about what organization would be asked to sponsor the sale in the future. He complained that the Hugh Hart Post did not have sufficient prestige to suit him.

He has been frequently troubled by the Better Business Bureau in his activities. He was sentenced to two years in prison and fined $1000 in connection with solicitations for a milk fund in Chicago in 1932 but the conviction was reversed on appeal.

FARLEY DENIES HE WILL RUN FOR GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK

Postmaster-General Says in Speech That Lehman Will Be Re-Elected in 1934.

By the Associated Press.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Dismissing rumors that he himself might be the Democratic candidate for Governor of New York State, Postmaster-General Farley today predicted that Gov. Lehman would be re-elected in 1934 by an even greater plurality than in the last election.

"On the basis of his record," Farley said, "we can be assured that New York State will continue during the rest of this and all of next year to be so well governed by this able leader that the people will call upon him again to serve as Chief Executive."

Farley, who has been mentioned as Lehman's most likely successor in the event that the latter should become Secretary of the Treasury —another persistent rumor — addressed 10,000 Democrats from all sections of the State gathered here to open their campaign for control of the State Assembly in November elections.

DELAY IN CAPONE'S RETURN

Cummings Won't Act Now on Request of Illinois Officials.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19. — The request of Chicago authorities and a court writ for the return of "Scarface" Al Capone to Chicago to stand trial will not be acted on by Attorney-General Cummings at the present time.

The Attorney-General said today action on the writ and request was being held up due to uncertainty regarding the indictments returned in the Illinois State courts against Capone as the result of the gangster investigation. The Illinois officials had sought to have Capone returned from Atlanta penitentiary, where he is serving an eleven-year sentence for income tax frauds. Cummings did not indicate when he would act on the request.

COAL STRIKE ENDS IN WALES

20,000 Anthracite Miners to Return to Work Monday.

By the Associated Press.

SWANSEA, Wales, Aug. 19. — Twenty thousand anthracite miners in Wales will return to work Monday, ending a strike over wages which began last Monday.

The miners at a special meeting today accepted a recommendation, adopted by union officials yesterday, calling for resumption of work throughout the principality. Colliery owners had expressed fears that, if the strike continued, they might not be able to fill contracts with Canada and that the United States would take that market from them.

5 GALLERIES REBUILT AT CITY ART MUSEUM

Opens Today for Display of Oriental Objects and Ballard Rug Collection.

Reconstruction of five galleries on the south side of City Art Museum in Forest Park which are to be opened to the public today completes a series for the display of decorative arts which now occupies the full perimeter of the building.

The galleries to be opened today are for Chinese, Korean and Japanese objects and the Ballard collection of rugs. They connect four recently redecorated galleries in the southeast corner of the building which house the museum's collections of textiles, armor, paintings and minor art objects of the Rennaissance period with the Japanese, Persian and jade galleries in the southwest corner.

Teakwood floors have been laid in the Chinese galleries, the walls have been covered with new fabric, and ornamental cornices of Chinese design constructed. One room contains Chinese bronzes, another ceramics, and a third, Korean bronzes, ceramics, celadon ware, enamels, glass and other objects.

The adjacent alcove, converted into a gallery by the inclosure of a staircase, is hung with Japanese color prints. The Ballard rugs are in the long gallery at the other side of Sculpture Hall.

The work of reconstruction has been carried out under the supervision of Louis La Beaume, president of the museum's board of control. It has given the museum such galleries as the Gothic courtyard, the Romanesque series in stone, the Primitive room and the English, French and American period rooms.

The old cement floors have been covered with marble, tile and hard wood. New lighting fixtures have been installed and colorful walls and woodwork have transformed the drab galleries.

16 SENTENCED TO PRISON IN BRITISH ARSON RING

Heaviest Penalty Imposed Is 14 Years; Trial Longest in Annals of Old Bailey.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Sixteen members of the greatest arson ring ever uncovered in Great Britain received prison sentences today in the Old Bailey.

Leopold Harris, 34 years old, whom Justice Humphreys described as the "head and front of this conspiracy," received the heaviest punishment. His sentences on various counts total 168 years, but as they run concurrently the actual term is 14 years.

Most of the members of the gang were business men. They were convicted of defrauding insurance companies of large sums of money over several years, by burning property to collect the insurance.

The trial was the longest in the annals of the Old Bailey. The judge's summing up lasted 13 hours and contained 100,000 words. The proceedings cost £100,000 ($449,000).

SCHOOL PLAYGROUNDS TO OFFER 'ROBIN HOOD'

Pantomine Part of Festival to Be Presented Next Saturday Afternoon.

The annual festival and pageant of the public school playgrounds will be held next Saturday afternoon at the Public Schools Stadium, Kingshighway boulevard and St. Louis avenue.

In the pageant beginning at 3:45 o'clock 6500 children in costume will present in dance and pantomime the story of Robin Hood and his men in Sherwood Forest. Games and athletic events will begin at 1 o'clock.

The handicraft display will be open Friday afternoon from 1 to 5 o'clock and will open Saturday morning at 9 o'clock. Each of the 46 playgrounds will have a booth for display of articles made by the children during the eleventh summer season.

Games and athletic events will begin with the city championship contests in inter-playground competition. Leagues, each comprising four or five playgrounds, met during the season to select the two best teams in each of nine forms of competition. The successful teams in baseball, horseshoes, dodge ball, volley ball, end ball, and other games, will meet for the championship. The net ball contests may be held Thursday afternoon at Roosevelt High School.

While the games are being played, a track and field meet consisting of 24 events will be held. Prizes will be awarded at the close of the festival and the playground which made the best record in all activities will receive a championship pennant.

U. S. WIDENS SCOPE OF ITS INQUIRY INTO SLEEPING SICKNESS

Surgeon-General Instructs Expert in City to Stay as Long as Necessary and to Conduct Research.

The United States Public Health Service yesterday got vigorously into the fight against the "sleeping sickness' outbreak, in which 11 persons died since July 30 and 115 persons were reported ill last night in St. Louis and St. Louis County.

Surgeon-General Hugh S. Cumming telephoned instructions from Washington to Dr. J. P. Leake, senior surgeon, to stay here as long as his serevices were needed, authorized him to purchase animals for the study of the little-understood disease, and announced that he might send a pathologist to aid in research.

Dr. Leake, the service's expert on a puzzling and deadly group of epidemic diseases, including encephalitis, was sent here at the urgent request of the St. Louis Health Department, to which Surgeon-General Cumming had offered his services. The department epidemiologist had not yet taken his position.

To Concentrate on Animals.

The question of funds for experimental animals had been mentioned in the Metropolitan Health Council, a permanent organization of health officers of city, county and East Side, which arose out of the emergency created by this outbreak. Dr. Ralph S. Muckenfuss, Washington University bacteriologist, under whose direction the authorities have unified laboratry studies, reported that since no causative bacteria ever had been isolated, the search for the unknown cause and for an agent for prevention or treatment, should concentrate on animal experiments.

A variety of South American rhesus monkey, Assistant Health Commissioner Zentay explained, is the only animal so far found susceptible to the disease. The same variety has aided science in gathering facts to combat infantile paralysis. It is not rare, and Washington University has unusual facilities to care for it. The monkeys cost $10 each, however, and are delicate, susceptible to many chance illnesses and costly to care for.

In these experiments lie the only hope of finding a means of treating or preventing the disease, said Assistant Health Commissioner Zentay. An exhaustive study of the history of each patient, correlated by the Metropolitan Health Council with the benefit of Dr. Leake's voluminous experience, carries on the search for the agent of transmission.

Agent and Cause Unknown.

The spreading agent, and the cause are alike unknown, and no remedy or preventive has been discovered. Dr. Leake and others agreed that the indications pointed to an ultra-microscopic virus as the cause, and human "carriers," convalescent or never ill of the disease, as the agents of transmission.

Physicians are inclined to consider the outbreak possibly a new strain of the virus. They point to differences in clinical symptoms from known forms of epidemic encephalitis, such as the absence of double vision, a characteristic symptom of the encephalitis, epidemics which spread over the world after wartime influenza.

Another indication that it may be new, at least to this locality, they say, is the fact that many of the patients are of middle or advanced age—in ages where they would have had opportunity to develop immunity, had the infection been present in this region for a period of years.

Of the 11 who died, only one was a resident of the city. County patients, residing between the city limits and the belt highway, Lindbergh boulevard, have outnumbered city patients four to one. Except for a child who died in less than three days, most of the deaths have occurred in physiques weakened by age or other factors. Several recoveries have been reported.

Two patients died Friday night and one yesterday. They were Mrs. Katie Fischer, 54, 1443 Sheridan drive, University City; Daniel Osburn, 64, 6237 Famous avenue, and Mrs. Clara Green, 43, a Negro, of Brentwood.

DR. RAPHAEL D. CASTILLO, GUATEMALAN CONSUL, DIES

Physician, 30, Graduate in Dentistry at St. Louis U., Succumbs to Tuberculosis.

Dr. Raphael D. Castillo, dentist and Guatemalan Consul in St. Louis, died yesterday of tuberculosis at Firmin Desloge Hospital. He was 30 years old.

Dr. Castillo was born in Guatemala City and came to St. Louis about 12 years ago. He was graduated from St. Louis University Dental School in 1926. He received his appointment as Consul last year.

Dr. Castillo resided at 6431 Clayton road and had offices in the Metropolitan Building. He is survived by three sisters and a brother living in Guatemala City and an aunt, Mrs. Zelinda Nicoletti of New York, who came here during his illness. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock from the Schmitt Mortuary, 3934 Russell boulevard, to St. Luke's Catholic Church, Bellevue and Dale avenues. Burial will be in Park Lawn Cemetery.

WGN to Leave CBS Chain Nov. 1.

WGN, CHICAGO (720 kc) will resume operation as an independent station Nov. 1 when the contract under which it became a link in the CBS network will expire. WBBM (770 kc) will then become the main CBS station in Chicago, while the two NBC chains will continue to have WENR, WLS, WMAQ and KYW as regular outlets and WCFL occasionally. WGN began broadcasting CBS chain programs in November, 1931, when the NBC took WMAQ away from CBS and the latter network was hard put to it for a Chicago outlet, as WBBM had only part time on the air, having to share with KFAB, Lincoln, Neb. CBS, it was understood, has been paying WGN $5000 a week for first call on the three hours a night from 7 to 10 o'clock. By a time rearrangement, WBBM now is able to broadcast until 10 o'clock nights.

Argentine Building 200,000-Watt Station.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, is to have a 200,000-watt station which will be the most powerful in this hemisphere until the 400,000-watt WLW experimental transmitter is completed, probably early next year. The Argentine station will broadcast on 830 kc., the channel used by KOA, Denver. Its aerial masts will be 750 feet high. Announcements will be made in English, French, Spanish, Portuguese and German. The distance and the wall of tropical static are expected to prevent interference between KOA and the Argentine station.

Gypsy bands and brass bands were voted the most popular broadcasting features in a listener poll in Hungary recently. Nearly all subscribers to the radio service, who pay an annual license fee to the Government for their program reception, voted for the abolition of jazz music.

NBC Plans Studio 135 Feet Long, 78 Wide.

PRESENT plans for the new NBC quarters in Radio City, New York, call for the largest radio studio in the world, 135 by 78 feet, three stories high, with a gallery along one long side and partly across the ends. The gallery will seat 300 persons and there will be 1000 seats on the main floor. A stage large enough for a 100-piece orchestra will be mechanically operated. Apparently, the demand for tickets to watch radio entertainers and artists broadcasting must be satisfied, despite the mutterings of listeners who do not appreciate having programs interrupted and often marred by the applause of studio audiences.

Police radio made its appearance in Mexico City in July when, after a demonstration of American radiophone equipment for broadcasting calls to outlying posts and squad cars, the Chief of Police ordered his force "radioized."

Transfer of the NBC chains headquarters from 711 Fifth avenue, New York, to Radio City has been set for Nov. 1. Formal opening of the new studios and a dedicatory program are scheduled for the night of Nov. 15. A much closer tie-up of radio and the movies and theater is expected as a result of the move.

ACTIVITIES OF BOY SCOUTS

1000 ATTEND SCOUTS' FOREST PARK PICNIC

Flag and Streamer for Spring Craft Contest Awarded; Carnival Held.

More than 1000 scouts, scouters, parents and friends attended the annual picnic of the Central District of the St. Louis Council of Boy Scouts yesterday on the old tourist grounds in the southwest part of Forest Park.

The district flag and streamers for the spring scoutcraft contest were awarded. Troop 166, Walter Stay, scoutmaster, received the flag. Streamers were given to Troop 18, Robert Royston, scoutmaster; Troop 223, Charles McCormick, scoutmaster; Troop 17, Fred von Harton, scoutmaster, and Troop 242, Frank Burns, scoutmaster.

Together with the picnic there was a carnival with the usual concessions, designed to raise money for the district's contribution of $5000 to the sustaining membership fund. Lawn socials and card parties have already been held in the district to raise part of the sum. On Aug. 30 the Eastern Division will sponsor a boat trip on the S. S. President and on Sept. 7 the Middle Division will give a dinner and bridge party at the Town Club to raise additional funds.

Yesterday's program began with a flag raising ceremony at 2 p. m. under the direction of P. W. Schull. All through the afternoon barkers were urging the picnickers into fortune telling booths, bowling and horseshoe contests, and side shows. Joseph Ehrhardt, a former scout, gave a model airplane exhibition and Troops 74, 160, 170 and 166 demonstrated how a scout camparall was run.

In the evening a professional accordion band and a German band from Troop 236 started off a musical and dancing program in which most of the scouts took part. L. J. Case is field executive for the district and C. W. Flach was in charge of the picnic.

Troop Notes

The annual scout summer camp at the Irondale Reservation will close next week-end with a reunion of all the first and second degree members of the Order of the Arrow, national scout camp fraternity. About 50 scouts from St. Louis will attend the reunion, joining the 100 boys who will be finishing up their two-week section of camp. The camp was open for a total of 10 weeks.

Delegates to the national convention of the Order of the Arrow to be held at Owassippee, Mich., from Sept. 7-10, will be elected. About 20 boys will go to the convention. The camp will close officially next Sunday night when, after all the scouts are gone, the camp staff will have its annual party.

Mount Pleasant Troop 1 of the Suburban District held a court of honor recently on the top of Little Pilot Knob, an elevation at Link road and Lindbergh boulevard, St. Louis County. The ceremony was held by moonlight inside an Indian stockade which the troop had built. Scouts, led by Sid Newcomb, gave an Indian dance and Arthur Hoeck, superintendent of Ritenour school, gave a talk on the 10-year program.

Scouts J. C. Talbert Jr., Richard Turner, Jack Hagney and Gilbert Shockley were elevated to star rank. Talbert also received four merit badges and each of the others three. Other awards: W. Kimler, A. Bandel and C. J. Bellington, merit badges; C. H. Thompson, J. Burres, E. Kleppe, H. Head and R. McDowell, first class pins, and G. Bergmann, F. Zamboni and E. Shockley, second class pins; Roy De Myer and J. Alexander, tenderfoot pins.

Den Mothers of the Cubs, junior scout organization, will entertain boys accompanied by their mothers on a boat excursion next Saturday afternoon. The outing is part of a program planned to raise $2000 pledged by the Den Mothers to the sustaining membership campaign. J. H. Braun, associate cub director, is in charge of the excursion.

PRESIDENT'S FATHER HAD FIRST U. S. MOTOR YACHT LICENSE

Report Shows James Roosevelt's Craft Was Registered in 1891 at Washington.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—James Roosevelt, father of the President, owned the first motor yacht registered by the Department of Commerce.

A report by the Bureau of Navigation disclosed today the yacht, a naphtha-propelled vessel of nine tons, was named the "Half Moon," apparently in commemoration of Henry Hudson's exploring craft which three centuries ago sailed up past Krum Elbow, the Roosevelt estate. The boat was built at New York and registered in 1891.

The President learned to love the water from his father. As a youth he sailed his own sloop. At every opportunity here he boards the navy yacht Sequoia for a cruise down the Potomac. He spent his first vacation after entering the White House aboard the pleasure schooner Amberjack II.

SECURITIES FOLLOW THE UNCERTAIN GRAIN TREND

Numerous Factors Tend to Confuse Trading in Stocks and Staples but Interest Centers Mainly in Chicago Wheat Pit.

NO SESSIONS HELD BY STOCK EXCHANGES OR THE COMMODITY BOARD

THE New York Stock Exchange, Curb Exchange, Chicago Stock Exchange, St. Louis Stock Exchange and other securities boards were closed Saturday.

Trading on the last day of week has been ordered suspended up to and including Saturday, Sept. 2.

The Commodity Exchange Inc. of New York, which houses the markets for rubber, silver, metals and hides, was closed. Sugar, coffee and cocoa trading has been suspended on Saturday until up into September.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Security markets generally followed in the uncertain wake of grains this week and finished on a plane of indecision from which the forward trail appeared somewhat murky.

While there were numerous factors that tended to confuse trading in stocks and staples, both speculative and investment interest was centered principally on the Chicago wheat pit where prices, after the removal of the restricted lower level on Wednesday, slumped and rallied with disturbing frequency.

The dollar, in foreign exchange markets, also trailed grains and stocks and, on one day, when wheat and other cereals soared the limit for a day's trading, it dropped around 9 cents in terms of the British pound sterling and was weak in relation to European gold currencies. This was a reversal of the tendency several weeks ago when financial markets followed, rather than led, the movement of dollar rates. The dollar later recovered most of its losses when stocks and grains declined.

Inflation Psychology Again.

Coincident with erratic markets, there was a mild revival of inflationary psychology based, seemingly, on a visit of congressional inflationists with President Roosevelt and the reiteration of administrative quarters that all efforts would be used to put commodity prices up to the desired levels. At the same time, however, the President himself did not indicate that he intended to use immediately any of his wide inflationary powers. Consequently, this influence, as a market motivator, waned rapidly as the week ended.

Stocks backed and filled and the Associated Press-Standard statistics average for 90 selected issues showed a net loss of one point at 84. Bonds, especially prime investment maturities, displayed resistance, although the averages for senior securities was slightly off on the week. Trading volume in both markets was relatively low and about the same as in the previous period. Wheat, after its ups and downs, recorded moderate net losses, but corn improved. Cotton usually fluctuated in sympathy with grains, but net changes here were unimportant. Other commodities were moderately irregular. Bar silver gained a trifle.

Wheat Indices Show.

As the week ended, the financial district was watching closely the activities of the administration in expediting codes for some of the major industries which have been unable to reach agreements with the recovery authorities. The impression prevailed that Washington would force matters if the code situation is not clarified quickly.

Business and industrial indices were a bit spotty, but the figures of all categories were still far ahead of the 1932 period. Some seasonal recessions were noted, with steel production slipping a few notches. Freight car loadings were up about 9000 over the preceding week and were impressive when compared with the showing last year. Electric power production was slightly off, from the level of recent gains, but was about 15 per cent ahead of 1932.

Secretary of Labor Perkins reported employment had risen to the level of 1931, with July payrolls some $29,000,000 above those of March. The Secretary pointed out that food prices had advanced 8 1-3 per cent last month and that payrolls had gained 7.9 in the same period.

U. S. Dollar 73.41 Cents.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The dollar, in terms of the French gold franc, closed today with an approximate value of 73.41 cents, compared with 73.61 cents yesterday and 68.89 cents a month ago.

New York Bank Statement.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The weekly statement of the New York Clearing House shows: Total surplus and undivided profits $734,692,700 (unchanged); total net demand deposits (average) $33,540,000 (decrease); time deposits (average) $4,961,000 (increase); clearings week ending today $[illegible]; clearings week ending Aug. 12, $2,920,515,470.

WHEAT FUTURES UP SHARPLY IN WEEK-END TRADE

ST LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Aug. 19.—The domestic wheat market was described as under the influence of anticipated removal or widening of day's range limits and local prices closed 2⅛@3½c net higher after recovering a cent opening loss. The market followed largely the trend at Chicago, where one house was said to have taken 5,000,000 bushels late, it being viewed in one quarter as possibly associated with a Government Orient deal.

Winnipeg wheat closed 1@1⅛c net higher.

Liverpool closed 1⅜ to 1⅝d lower.

September wheat opened at 85c, down 1 cent, and December wheat 87c, off 1 cent.

Local wheat receipts, which were 37,500 bu., compared with 36,000 last week and 40,600 last year, included 14 cars local and 11 through. Corn receipts, which were 19,500 bu., compared with 15,000 last week and 42,000 last year, included five cars local and eight through. Oat receipts, which were 8000 bu., compared with 8000 last week and 22,000 last year, included two cars local and two through. Hay receipts were two cars local.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange Saturday were as follows:

Wheat—No. 1 red winter, 89c; No. 2 red winter, 87@88½c; No. 3 red winter, 87c; No. 2 red garlicky, 85c; No. 3 red garlicky, 86½c; No. 4 red smutty, 84½c; No. 2 hard, 88½c; No. 4 mixed, 86c.

SHARP RISE IN WHEAT ON THE CHICAGO BOARD

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Prospective total abolition of daily limits on price changes electrified grain markets today, and brought about buying that made wheat skyrocket 4¼ cents. Corn went whizzing up 4 cents, the extreme rise permissible at present.

Immense profit-taking sales led to many reactions during the upward sweep of valuts, but big concentrated buying of wheat developed on setbacks, and proved too powerful to be overcome. One broker alone purchased upward of 5,000,000 bushels, and there was talk that his operations represented part of a possible deal with the Orient through financing from the United States Government.

Wheat and corn both held most of the day's rise, closing unsettled, wheat 3¼@3⅝c above yesterday's finish, corn 3⅛@3¾c up, oats 1⅜@1¾c advanced, and provisions showing a rise of 15 to 30 cents.

An extreme jump of almost four cents a bushel from early bottom figures took place in wheat before any recession was witnessed. Similar action was seen in corn and other grains. Corn started unchanged to one cent down, and later climbed nearly five cents above the initial low levels.

Attention of traders focused for the most part on news that exchange directors were considering entire wiping out of restrictions on price charges, or at least permitting greatly enlarged limits. The reason given for expectant moves by Board of Trade authorities was that existing daily limits on fluctuations had made it impossible to have a free market, in which grains could be hedged or unhedged without driving prices to their limit and stopping business. Farmers wishing to sell their grain were thus confronted with a virtually closed market whenever prices had reached the limit set for the day.

In no case today did setbacks which followed advances amount to more than a cent or two. Buyers were plentiful, and rallies from dips proved twinkling.

Much of the purchasing was attributed to official statements concerning Government plans relative to corn and hogs.

COTTON CLOSES HIGHER AFTER SELLING DOWN

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—After selling off rather sharply at the start, cotton turned firmer, with December advancing from 9.33 to 9.69 in the late trading on covering and scattered buying which was attributed to the firmness in wheat and a rather less favorable view of weather and crop advices. December closed at 9.61, with the general market steady at net advances of 10 to 15 points.

The opening was easy at a decline of 9 to 19 points, with active months showing net losses of 15 to 19 points during the first few minutes under liquidation, Southern and foreign selling. Offerings were not heavy, however, while demand increased after the opening of the grain market and prices held generally steady to firm later in the session. October sold up from 9.12 to 9.49 and March advanced to 9.93 in the late trading, making recoveries of about 35 points from the low levels of the morning and net advances of 15 to 19 points. Closing quotations were a few points off from the best under realizing.

Reports that boll weevil infestation was increasing following recent showers in the South seemed to be attracting a little more attention and the presence of tropical disturbances in the Caribbean Sea suggested the possibility of unfavorable weather developments over the week-end.

Business generally was comparatively quiet, with the market correspondingly sensitive to orders, and except for realizing or a little Southern selling toward the close, these seemed to be little pressure after initial offerings had been absorbed. The amount of cotton on shipboard at U. S. ports at the end of the week was estimated at 64,000 bales against 50,000 last year.

Week's Lumber Review.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—Lumber orders continued to decrease during the week ended Aug. 12, reports reaching the National Lumber Manufacturers' Association indicating new business of 144,672,000 ft. compared with 151,145,000 ft. the previous week.

Production during the period continued to mount, gaining from 198,815,000 to 200,983,000 ft. Shipments from the mills declined.

EARLY-WEEK BOND LOSSES LARGELY REGAINED LATER

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The bond market has moved along on a fairly even keel during the past week, with early declines largely canceled by improved tendencies in subsequent sessions.

United States Government loans continued to move up steadily with the recently listed Treasury 3¼s progressively recording new peaks. The Treasury accepted nearly $1,200,000,000 of subscriptions for the new eight-year 3¼s and the two-year 1⅝s, after an original offering of but $850,000,000. The ability of the market to take the extra allotments without noticeable effect upon existing price levels is evidence of the vast amount of unemployed funds seeking desirable investment media.

The rail division has been somewhat spotty in its recent fluctuations. One of the retarding factors in this group has been the pronounced weakness in Western Pacific first 5s, which showed an extreme loss of a dozen points at one time.

Foreign Government obligations have been erratic. The United Kingdom 5½s moved within a range usually followed only by speculative issues, reaching a low of 115¾, then rallying to 120, from which level it finished the week at 118½, virtually unchanged. Switzerland 5½s closed with a net gain of 1½ points, while the French 7s were 1¼ points higher.

The rank and file of active speculative favorites in the domestic corporation section trailed closely on the steps of some of the rails with price changes generally unimportant.

The volume of new bond offerings continues to run abnormally small, with last week's total of $1,207,000 comparing with $8,781,000 a week ago and $39,623,000 in the corresponding week of 1932.

LARGEST SALE OF ZINC ORE IN JOPLIN AREA SINCE 1930

By the Associated Press.

JOPLIN, Mo., Aug. 19.—The largest sale of zinc in the Joplin district since October, 1930, was reported this week, when smelters purchased 7690 tons. The price was unchanged at $35 a ton. The market was easier, and smelters had no difficulty in obtaining all concentrates they desired.

Lead prices remained unchanged at $50 to $55 a ton, with demand good.

Zinc production has increased steadily in the tri-state district within the last few weeks, with output this week approximating 7000 tons, or 2500 tons more than at the beginning of July.

WEEK'S METAL MARKET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Non-ferrous metals were in limited demand in the past week, and while the undertone in some instances was easier, tin quotations rallied from earlier declines owing to firmer sterling exchange.

Wide fluctuations in the latter metal made buyers cautious. Tin supplies here were said to be increasing as a result of large arrivals and afloats. Tin plate mills continued operations at approximately 95 per cent of capacity, with orders on hand said to be sufficient to assure that rate during the next few months.

Filing of a code by copper producers under the NRA was without apparent immediate market effect, with the trade awaiting action by the administration. In the absence of anything more than a limited demand, offerings of moderate quantities at concessions through second hands were reported, but producers held unchanged at the 9c basis for electrolytic.

A reduction of 22,000 tons in smelters' stocks of refined lead during July reflected increased shipments and decreased production for the month, leaving the market in a more favorable statistical position. However, consumers only purchased August needs in moderate quantities at unchanged prices during the week, although some traders were said to have continued active.

Zinc quotations reacted $2 per ton owing to poor demand from consumers, which led to increased offerings from some quarters. Lower prices failed to stimulate anything more than moderate demand, however, and there was some disposition to await announcement of ore prices at the week-end.

Antimony was easier under lower Chinese offerings, and at the close of the week inquiries had increased although actual business was still limited.

A decrease of about four points in steel operations to an estimated 53 per cent of capacity reflected decreased buying, particularly from the automobile trade, as a result of uncertainties over the final form of the steel code and seasonal influences. Buying by railroads and for structural projects remained unimproved. Pig iron was quiet and steady.

FRENCH FOREIGN TRADE

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—Registered unemployed aided during the week of Aug. 12 unseasonably declined 889 to 238,271, or 30,443 below last year.

Railway loadings for the week of Aug. 5 were 3.33 per cent below 1932, as against an average decrease of 3.53 per cent thus far in 1933, while railway receipts for the week of July 29 were 5.9 per cent below 1932, as against an average decrease of 6.1 per cent.

The July foreign trade figures showed imports of 2,221,000,000 francs and exports of 1,471,000,000 francs, as against last year's imports of 2,289,000,000 francs and exports of 1,428,000,000 francs, while the trade deficit of 750,000,000 francs was the lowest in any month since February, 1932, excepting September and October, 1932.

The seven-month trade deficit of 6,879,000,000 francs exceeds that for the same seven months of last year by 973,000,000 francs.

Despite a slight decrease in the total value for the first seven months of 1933, imports and exports both are a shade better in tonnage than in the corresponding period of 1932.

Dry Goods Market.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Primary cloth markets were inactive today, as most houses close on Saturday under the NRA. The week closed with prices fairly steady and with some increase in inquiries compared with a week ago.

FINDS UTILITY VALUE $20,000,000 TOO HIGH

U. S. Judge Strips Management of Oklahoma Natural Gas Corporation of Power.

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., Aug. 19.—Operation of the Oklahoma Natural Gas Corporation, serving more than 50 Oklahoma communities, under the eyes of a Federal Court, was ordered here today by Judge Franklin E. Kennamer of the Northern District.

Judge Kennamer stripped the present management of all power but permitted it to remain in control of actual physical operations during the pendency of an appeal from an interloutory receivership order handed down today.

The management, headed by Board Chairman Frank E. Kistler, made a $100,000 appeal bond after Judge Kennamer refused a motion tion of attorneys for intervening stockholders to increase the amount to $600,000.

At the same time Judge Kennamer handed down his findings of fact in the case, which had been in his court about four months, and declared that among other irregularities he had found the company's value had been "erroneously" set at around $57,500,000, almost $20,000,000 greater than its "true value.'

Judge Kennamer recently appointed A. E. Bradshaw, Tulsa banker, as receiver for the firm, but delayed his taking charge until the appeal is decided.

The utility officers were enjoined from expenditure of any company funds except for actual operating expenses, and ordered them not to execute any liens or obligate any funds of the company without express permission from the bench.

$450,000 BONDS FOR YOUTH

Fixed at Kansas City on Nine Charges of Robbery.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 19.—Bonds totaling $450,000 were fixed here today by Judge James R. Page for Charles W. Frazier, 17 years old, who, with a companion two years his senior, was said by officers to have admitted a series of holdups this week to obtain money to visit the World's Fair. Bond of $50,000 was fixed in each of nine charges after Frazier changed his plea of guilty to not guilty. Frazier's companion, John B. Muehlebach, entered pleas of guilty. He will be sentenced later.

The youths previously had admitted, Chief of Detectives T. J. Higgins said, their brief career of crime which resulted indirectly in the death of Police Sergeant Eric O. Bjorkback, who was injured fatally Thursday night when his police car overturned while he was chasing a stolen automobile in which the two youths were riding.

Joe McCarthy Ill, Suffering From Nervous Condition

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.

JOE McCARTHY, manager of the New York Yankees, today was ordered to bed for an indefinite period, by Dr. E. G. Taylor, house physician at the hotel where the team is stopping here.

McCarthy, who has been suffering from a nervous condition, was found by Dr. Taylor to have suffered an irritation of the gall bladder. It is doubtful if the manager will appear at the ball park during the four-game series with the White Sox.

It is understood that McCarthy has not been in the best of health for the last week. While the Yankees' pilot is not in a serious condition, Dr. Taylor intimated that he will keep him under close observation during the next few days.

Art Fletcher, coach, is in charge of the Yanks pending McCarthy's recovery.

It was reported Mrs. McCarthy was coming from home to Chicago by airplane. Dr. Taylor said the Yankee manager had made no mention of this to him.

It has always been a source of wonder to old-timers that Altrock was permitted to perform these antics, some of which seemed of a sort to invite the wrath of the serious-minded and uncompromising Ban Johnson, during his career as president. "Burlesquing the sport," some called it.

Strange to say, the late ruler of baseball merely chuckled and encouraged Nick to do his stuff.

But although they continue to do their stuff on the field, they appear no more in vaudeville together. In fact, they never speak as they pass by. It is explained that they fell out over some expense accounts in connection with

KIRKWOOD WINS CANADIAN OPEN; GULDAHL FOURTH

By the Associated Press.

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 19.—Joe Kirkwood, the Australian trick shot star, ripped through the last two rounds of the Canadian open in sub-par golf today to score one of the most decisive triumphs in the history of the competition. No Canadian has been able to win in the past 14 years.

Kirkwood's only other major title was the North-South open championship, one of the oldest titles in America, which he won last year.

Kirkwood shot a 70 in the third round of the 72-hole medal play this morning, then topped off his first drive to the heights with a 69 that equalled Horton Smith's record for the course and gave him a total of 282 strokes, eight better than Harry Cooper of Chicago, defending champion, and Lex Robson of Toronto, who tied for second place.

Behind them came a string of invading stars. Ralph Guldahl, long-hitting St. Louis professional who was runner-up to Johnny Goodman in the American open, finished in fourth with 291, a stroke better than Leo Diegel of Agua Calienta, fourth time Canadian open champion, who was tied with Johnny Farrell, former American open champion from Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Al Houghton, Bethesda, Md., pro, for fifth place, with totals of 292.

But Collin, in a letter to a friend, brought these headliners to earth in unique language.

"These big shots are only human," he wrote. "They put their pants on one leg at a time."

Inlander worked his way up steadily on the outside, responded to pressure in the stretch run and wore down the leaders drew away. Golden Way dwelt at the start and was away slowly, made up ground steadily on the outside, saved ground entering the stretch and finished well under pressure to outlast Keep Out. The latter a forward factor from the start made a determined bid in the stretch run and held on well to the end. War Glory was moved into command after the break rated along steadily and had no mishaps. Sun Archer moved up with determination at the far turn but faltered at the enn. Caesars Ghost and Okapi stopped badly.

By the Associated Press.

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Inlander, a champion in the mud but just another horse on a fast track, today became the financial ruler of the three-year-olds when he came from behind in the stretch to win the sixty-fourth running of the Travers, America's oldest stake race.

At home on the rain-soaked racing strip Inlander, winner of the muddy Arlington Classic, showed the way over one and one-quarter miles to seven of the country's leading three-year-olds to win the purse of $21,050. The victory boosted his earnings for the year to $57,430, more than $7000 more than his nearest rival, Joseph E. Widener's Hurry Off, victor in the Belmont Stakes. Inlander won only $700 as a two-year-old.

Under the guidance of Jockey Bobby Jones, Inlander ran the distance in 2:08, far back of Sir Barton's track record of 2:01 4-5, coupled with Okapi and Caesar's Ghost in the betting, Inlander went to the post the second choice at 4 to 1.

Carried Top Weight.

Fifteen thousand fans, the largest of the meeting, saw Inlander, carrying the top weight of 126 pounds, romp home one and one-half lengths in front of Joseph E. Widener's Golden Way, the 8 to 5 choice, which also trailed Mrs. Sloane's mudder to the finish line in the Classic. William Ziegler Jr.'s Keep Out lost the place by a nose in the last stride.

Samuel Riddle's War Glory, winner of three stakes, including the Dwyer, and seeking to duplicate the 1932 success of War Hero from the same stable, finished fourth after setting the pace to the head of the stretch. Back of the son of Man O' War trailed W. S. Kilmer's Sun Archer, Lee Rosenberg's Kerry Patch and Inlander's two running mates.

Elmer Anderson of Cleveland, O., was second in one hour and 36 minutes, five minutes ahead of Anthony Marcus of Bayville, L. I.

Don Ruddy of New York, Ed McGrattie of Brooklyn, and Ed Weeks of Bayville, were fourth, fifth and sixth, respectively.

MONACO WINS DOUBLES OF DAVIS CUP PLAY

MONTE CARLO, Monaco, Aug. 19.—Monaco today defeated Switzerland in doubles in their elimination play for the 1924 Davis Cup competition to send the series to the final two singles matches for decision. Switzerland won the two singles contests yesterday.

Landau and Gallepe of Monaco defeated Aeschlimann and Steiner, 6—4, 3—6, 6—3, 6—4.

SHIELDS TAKES NEWPORT TITLE; BEATS ALLISON

By the Associated Press.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 19.—Rangy Frank Shields, who has been flirting with tennis greatness for several seasons, today wound up one of the most sensational preliminary campaigns in many seasons by overcoming weather conditions that all but ruined his usual game and defeating Wilmer Allison, United States Davis Cup singles player, 1-6, 11-9, 6-1, 6-3, in the final match of the Newport Casino tournament.

The six-foot three New Yorker fifth in the national rankings, comes down to the national singles championship with a clean record. Since he returned from his unsuccessful European campaign he has won five major grass fixtures, during which he has gained decisive triumphs over Ellsworth Vines, the national champion who bowed in straight sets yesterday; Frankie Parker, the 17-year-old Milwaukee wizard, and Gregory Mangin, a hard opponent to down in the New York-New Jersey tennis wars, where Shields beat him twice.

Vines and Partner Win Doubles.

Vines, winner of the past two Newport tourneys, salvaged some of his Casino prestige when he and Keith Gledhill, with whom he shares the national doubles title, managed to outwear George Lott, who helped give the United States its only Davis Cup point, and Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles, for a 6-2, 8-6, 17-19, 6-3 win in the three-hour doubles final. It was the victors' third straight success in that competition.

Weather and court conditions were not too good for the doubles final and much worse for the morning's singles play. The court was soaked from a night of rain and a heavy fog was sweeping in from the harbor when Shields and Allison started play.

Shields' shots refused to work under such wretched conditions and he appeared doomed to a speedy defeat when he lost five of his first six services and trailed for 17 games.

Shields Loses First Set.

Allison had the first set and a 4-1 lead in the second when Shields, after much experimenting, hit upon an assortment of strokes that would obey him on soggy court.

Up to that point, the New Yorker had been trying to use his deadly drop shots, which he fires from the forecourt, but he was seldom able to hold his feet when he raced up to the net.

So he followed the cautious Allison's example and retired to the baseline to drive it out with him. The Texan's famous accuracy melted when Shields put on his terrific

By James M. Gould.

Putting up a game battle, but losing because they were up against a great pitcher, the Browns yesterday afternoon dropped the opener of a three-game series to the fast-flying Washington Senators, 5 to 3. The great pitcher was Al Crowder, once a Brownie himself, and the "General," allowing six hits, earned his 20th victory of the season while his team was turning in its 11th successive triumph.

Incidentally, the victory may have assured the Senators the 1933 flag for the Yanks were beaten by the White Sox and the Senators now enjoy a lead of eight and one-half games.

Burns Hits Two Homers.

Crowder would have had a shutout had it not been for two homers by Jack Burns, the long wallops driving in all the St. Louis runs. Hadley started for Hornsby, but was hammered for four runs in the first inning before he was warmed up.

After that first frame, the only run off Hadley was a homer by Heine Manush in the seventh. Burns' first homer came in the second with the bases empty and his second with Campbell on first in the eighth.

The fielding features were supplied by Bruce Campbell of the Browns. In the sixth, his throw after stopping Goslin's single, got Berg trying to score and, in the eighth, he flagged Myer who tried to score from third on Cronin's fly to right.

Every Washington player made at least one hit. In fact, Manush, with a triple and homer, was the only one to get two. Melillo and Burns got four of the Browns' six safeties.

Hadley Wild at Start.

The Senators certainly got away to a beautiful start. Myer walked and after Goslin flied out, Manush tripled Myer over. Cronin drew a pass and then Schulte singled to score Manush and sent Cronin to third. Kuhel's grounder to Scharein retired Cronin at the plate after which Hadley cut loose with a wild pitch to score Schulte and Bluege doubled Kuhel over. Hadley had to knock down a mean smash from Berg's bat to end the first inning.

With one down and no one on, in the last of the second, Burns drove into the left field seats for a homer for the Brown's first run and their only hit of the first three innings.

The next St. Louis hit was Melillo's single which came with two down and after Burns had been passed in the fourth. But, Cronin made a nice play on Hemsley's puzzling grounder and forced Melillo at second. In the sixth, the Senators got two singles and a pass but failed to score because Berg, on second when Goslin singled, was nailed at the plate on a great throw by Campbell to

Brownie Notes

MANAGERIAL plans call for plenty of southpawing around Sportsman's Park during the double-header today. Ed Wells and George Blaeholder are Hornsby's selections to pitch, while Earl Whitehill and either Walter Stewart or Bob Burke will work for the Senators. All three Washington nominees are left-handers.

If the Senators do win the pennant—and it looks like a first-class 25-to-1 shot—their victory will be a popular one. The players themselves appear to be quietly confident with the quiet equal to the confidence. For this relief, much thanks.

The Browns are not without their leaders. The team leads the league in fielding and in the number of double-plays. Jack Burns has hit more doubles than any other batter in the circuit.

Berg caught Crowder. Luke Sewell, the Senatorial first stringer, was hit by one of Chad Kimsey's pitches Friday, and has a swollen arm.

A good crowd of 7500 saw the series opener. A goodly share of them paid to get in, too. The others were women and girls, guests of the Browns.

Manush's triple in the first inning was just inches fair but hard hit between Scharein and the bag. Reynolds, with a bad leg, had no chance to field it quickly.

Hadley certainly was nervous at the start as indicated by two passes, a wild pitch, a single, double and triple in inning No. 1.

ANOTHER GAMBLING RAID AT PHILS' PARK

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Suspected gamblers at the Phillies baseball park ran afoul of a squad of police today in the fourth raid of its kind in as many weeks. Eleven arrests were made.

Police said "the gamblers were in their customary places in the stands taking bets on everything from strikes to runs."

MRS. MOODY AND MISS NUTHALL MEET IN SEMIFINAL TODAY

MISS ROUND AND HELEN JACOBS PLAY TOMORROW IN OTHER MATCH

By the Associated Press.

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 19. —Betty Nuthall of Great Britain, supplied [illegible]000 spectators at the women's national tennis championships today with a thrill that lingered on.

Miss Nuthall, along with the one and only Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, won her quarter-final match, delayed by yesterday's rain. She beat Miss Alice Marble of San Francisco, 6—8, 6—0, 7—5, while Mrs. Moody was toying with Miss Mary Heeley of the British forces, 6—0, 6—2.

Miss Nuthall, faced with defeat in the final set, came back with a grand display of courage and went on to defeat Miss Marble, regarded as the finest of this country's younger crop of players.

Miss Nuthall Near Defeat.

The drama was wrapped up in the final set, after Miss Marble had won the first, a long, bitterly fought affair, and Miss Nuthall had captured the second without the loss of a game to square the match. Returning for the third set, the tall American girl flashed a superb brand of tennis to befuddle Miss Nuthall and win five of the first six games. She was playing marvelous tennis, and she needed only one more victory to clinch the set and the match.

In the third set Miss Marble, behind her powerful service, ran the count to 40—15, one point from victory; two chances to get it. And that was when Betty chose to put on her own, private show.

The first point Miss Marble batted into the net after a long rally. On the second Betty passed her with a clean placement to deuce the game. She won the next two points as well to win the game. She won the next five consecutive games. She won the set, 7—5, and the match.

Miss Nuthall, putting everything she had behind every stroke, never considered caution for a minute, slowly cut down Miss Marble's seemingly safe lead. In the tenth game the American girl again was at match point on one occasion, only to double-fault in her eagerness. That was the last chance she had. The final game of the match saw Miss Marble turned back without a point on her own service. She tossed her bat in the air as the deciding point, a clean placement, whizzed past.

Match Lasts 90 Minutes.

The match required an hour and a half to play, compared with the 22 minutes Mrs. Moody needed to dispose of Miss Heeley. Mrs. Moody won 11 straight games before she eased up and spared her rival a white-washing. Miss Heeley's helplessness brought laughter from the crowd, and there were times when even Mary joined in the merriment.

Playing as well as ever in her career, which is to say a different brand of tennis from other women, Mrs. Moody quickly demonstrated her superiority and never was forced to extend herself. Twice, maybe three times, she consented to go to the net to return a drop shot, but otherwise she just planted herself near the baseline and let Mary do the work. And Miss Heeley was ranged No. 1 in England last year.

Today's two winners, Mrs. Moody and Miss Nuthall, were scheduled to clash in a semi-final match tomorrow. Betty's brave stand today probably just delayed her exit from the tournament. Mrs. Dorothy Round, the British Sunday School teacher, and Miss Helen Jacobs, defending champion, both of whom won quarter-final matches before yesterday's rain, will play their semi-final on Monday, setting the final up to Tuesday.

Miss Round who does not play on Sunday, listened to a lot of argument last night and today, but still did not want to play on Sunday.

Mrs. Moody Advances in Doubles.

Four teams won through to the semi-final round of doubles. The top seeded team of Mrs. Moody and Miss Elizabeth Ryan, for many years a resident of London, scored an impressive victory over Kathryn Pearson of Houston, Tex., and Eugenie Sampson of Winnetka, Ill., 6-1, 6-0.

Miss Jacobs of Berkeley and Miss Sarah Palfrey of Boston, defending champions, had a hard struggle before eliminating Peggy Scriven and Mrs. L. R. C. Michell of England, 4-6, 6-4, 9-7. Miss Nuthall and Freda James of England won from Jane Sharp of Pasadena, Cal., and Norma Taubele of New York, 6-2, 7-5.

Miss Round and Miss Heeley of England defeated Joan Ridley, England, and Mrs. Harry Brunie of White Plains, N. Y., 6-0, 6-4.

WELHAUSEN WINS MUNICIPAL CLASS A TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

Edward Wellhausen won the Municipal Class A men's singles tennis championship, by defeating Joseph Bayot in hte final round yesterday afternoon on the Jefferson Memorial courts, 7—5, 6—3, 6—2.

Bayot led, 4—1, in the first set, with Wellhausen crowding the net. Wellhausen changed his tactics, playing farther back ,and immediately took command of the situation.

favorite to win the championship, slumped in his final two rounds and finished in eighth place with 293 strokes. A stroke behind him came 24-year-old Bobby Alston, Ottawa professional and Canada's chief hope after putting together two rounds of 71, a total of four strokes under par, to lead the field at the end of the first 36 holes.

Alston blew up today with a 75 and a 77 for a 72-hole total of 294 that left him in a tie for ninth place with Horton Smith of Chicago. The only other Canadian golfer to edge into the first eleven was Willie Lamb, recently crowned Canadian professional champion, who wound up with 295.

Kirkwood's play was superb today as he launched his drive to the title from a position one stroke back of Alston at the start of the final 36 holes and never faltered in the stretch, as he has in the past when major championships were within his grasp.

His first two rounds of 71 and 72 Thursday and Friday were but a prelude to his steadily rising power and precision today. His irons left him shooting for birdies on almot every hole as he shot the first nine in the morning in 36, one over par, and then came in in 34, three under par. On the in nine he shot birdies on the eleventh and twelfth, slipped a stroke over at the fifteenth, and wound up with birdie fours on both the long finishing holes.

The climaxing burst, however, he saved for the final 18 when the field was struggling desperately to keep him within reach. He was out again even par, 35, and the closer he got to home the hotter he got. He had a birdie four on the tenth, a deuce on the thirteenth, and wound up with a triumphant eagle three as he dropped a 25-foot putt on the home green.

BURNS HITS TWO HOME RUNS, BUT BROWNS LOSE, 5-3

Hemsley. West opened the Browns half with a hit, but it meant nothing as Crowder had no trouble at all with Reynolds, Campbell and Burns.

Things therefore stayed at this 4-1 stage until the seventh when Heine Manush bounced a homer off the pavilion roof for a fifth Washington run. Again, in this inning, Crowder stopped a St. Louis threat for Melillo began with a double. Crowder did issue a pass to pinch hitter Storti but Melillo was still on second when the inning was over.

After McDonald pitched a scoreless eighth, the Browns caused some excitement by getting two runs after two were out. Campbell singled off Crowder's glove and Burns drove him over with his second homer of the afternoon—this time to right.

A double play, Campbell to Hemsley, kept the Senators from scoring in the ninth but the Browns could do nothing more against Crowder.

their stablemate by showing plenty of early speed and forcing the pace of War Glory, but that let them out, for each dropped back before the real battle began.

Comes Up on Outside.

Inlander, outrun, as usuel, in the early part of the journey, steadily worked his way up on the outside while Golden Way, the last away from the post, slipped through on the inside to challenge War Glory as the field turned into the stretch. Keep Out turned into the final straightaway in second place.

The four horses were almost abreast in the drive for the judges' stand, but Jones had the strongest finisher and Inlander pulled away in the final sixteenth. Golden Way and Keep Out staged a bitter duel for runner-up honors as War Glory steadily dropped behind.

Mrs. John D. Hertz' Contessa, a daughter of the great Reigh Count, set all the pace to win the Spinaway Stakes and its purse of $5850 from 10 other two-year-old fillies. A length behind came the Wheatley Stable's Slapdash, the public choice, with the Fair Field Stable's Sun Celtic third.

SIMONS, PUBLIC PARKS TENNIS CHAMPION, IS OHIO VALLEY FINALIST

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19.—Arnold Simons of Louisville, national public courts champion, and John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, Tex., went into the finals of the Ohio Valley tennis tournament today.

Simons defeated the apparently invincible twice-champion, Paul Kunkel, of Cincinnati, 6—4, 6—3, 6—0, and McDiarmid eliminated Paul Greenstein of Cleveland, 6—1, 6—4, 6—0.

They will meet for the title tomorrow.

SMITH DEFEATS GUS IMHOLTZ IN CLAYTON "OPEN"

By Davison Obear

The Clayton open tennis tournament started yesterday afternoon on the Clayton municipal courts at Price and Ladue roads. A number of first and second round matches in the men's singles event were decided. Pairings for the men's doubles will be made at noon today and some first-round contests may be played later in the afternoon.

Favorites advanced yesterday and only one match required the limit of three sets. There were five defaults in the first round. Gus Boehmer, defending champion, reached the third round by defeating Robert Hereford, Triple A player, 6—2, 6—3. Hereford showed an improved game and forced a number of rallies. Both players drew byes in the opening round.

McNeill Smith, East St. Louis entrant, defeated Gus Imholtz, finalist to Ted Drewes in the recent St. Louis Municipal championship, in the three-set encounter. After taking the first set, 6—1, Smith dropped the second, 6—0, and then outplaced Imholtz to win the third, 6—4.

In a second-round contest, Herbert Weinstock was given a scare by Gus Serrano. Weinstock outdrove Serrano to take the first set, 6—1, but Serrano came back and forced Weinstock to go 11—9 in the second set.

Al Rothschild won his way into the third round by defeating Edward Argo, former Soldan High star, 6—2, 6—4. Argo, who is left-handed, surprised Rothschild by his splendid returns, especially in the second set. The two players advanced through defaults in the opening rounds.

The Story of an Honest Pitcher —Out of a Job

Sam Gray, veteran American League right-hand pitcher, today is a baseballer without a team. And without a playing shirt or pants.

Last Thursday the Browns announced sale of the hurler to Washington for the waiver price. Late in the day Manager Joe Cronin, of the Senators, then in Chicago, declared the deal off because Gray, over the telephone, had informed officials of the league-leaders that he had a sore arm—might not be of much use to a club that figures to split the 1933 world series swag in October.

Honest Sam remained in St. Louis, awaiting the Washington club's coming for a series with the Browns at Sportsman's Park, which began yesterday. The afternoon saw Gray about the park in civilian clothes—denied a uniform by both clubs, the Senators contending the deal for the pitcher was off, the Browns holding they had sold his services to Washington. And so:

EAST AND WEST POLO TEAMS IN DECIDING GAME

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Intent upon protecting the cherished tradition of Eastern polo supremacy, Tommy Hitchcock and his mates will ride tomorrow against four daring horsemen from the West in the final match of the intersectional series.

In the first match, with two Texans and a pair of Californians teaming together in unexpectedly effective style, the West won, 15 to 11. Hitchcock, leader of the Eastern forces, shuffled his lineup in the second match, and pulled up even by a 12 to 8 victory, as the West lost the highly valuable services of Hubert W. (Rube) Williams, its star back. Williams suffered a fracture of his right leg below the knee, leaving the West with only four men.

When the West's hopes appeared lowest, Eric Pedley, called by Hitchcock the greatest No. 1 in American polo, was prevailed upon to leave his business affairs in California and fly East to ride with the plainsmen. He arrived yesterday, in shape for the battle, and the West was given at least an even chance of carrying the honors away.

The East was expected to send out the same smooth-working four who won the second match.—Winston Guest at No. 1, Earle A. S. Hopping at two, Hitchcock at three, and Raymond Guest at back. Michael Phipps, who played at No. 1 in the opening match, and William Post II, were available as alternates.

Manager Carleton Burke of the Westerners, had given no indication of how he would distribute his talent. Alhough famous as a No. 1, Pedley is capable of playing every position well. It was thought that he might play at No. 1, however, with Aiden Roark at two, Smith at three, and Elmer Boeseke Jr., who sarted the series at number two, moving to back.

ED HALL BREAKS OLD MISSISSIPPI VALLEY HOME RUN RECORD

By the Associated Press.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Aug 19. — Ed Hall's 24th home run of the season, for a new Mississippi Valley League record, gave Davenport a 2 to 1 victory tonight over Peoria in the opening game of the series.

Hall's homer, with Meyer on first, came in the first inning and produced the only runs of the game off Don Coulter, Peoria rookie southpaw. Bill Prince allowed the Tractors only five hits, permitting only two men to reach second in the first eight innings. In the ninth a walk, single and error gave Peoria its lone run.

HARRY DAVIS SEEKS A POLITICAL BERTH

SHIELDS VICTOR OVER ALLISON IN FOUR SETS IN FINAL AT NEWPORT

pressure at long range and he surrendered after Shields won 10 out of 15 games to take the second set and square the match.

Winner Proves Good Mudder.

During the third set, Shields regained complete control of his terrific service and Allison's deserted him. The international player had six double faults in the last two sets and every one of them cost him a service game. A heavy shower started with the third set and made conditions much worse but Shields proved himself to be an excellent "mudder" and thrived on the additional punishment.

The victor finished the match with a total of 38 placements and four service aces against 30 and five for Allison. Both just piled up errors, Shields totaling 105 to 108 for Allison.

By cleaning up Parker, Vines and Allison on successive days, Shields stretched his winning streak to five tournaments. He led the field at Providence, Huntington, Seabright and Southampton before coming to the Casino, where he encountered the first field assembled on an American grass court this season, including 15 of the country's top 17 players.

The defeat was the third title setback Allison has suffered on the Casino's famous grand stand court in four years. He was Vines' runnerup last year and in 1930 he finished second to Bill Tilden.

Few of the doubles teams got any worthwhile seasoning for next week's national championships at Brookline. The Casino team play was rained on three days and several strong teams, including Shields and Parker and Allison and John Van Ryn, who played Davis Cup doubles with Lott, defaulted to break the jam that threatened to tie up the tourney until tomorrow.

Football Season Opens Sept. 23.

University of California will get an early start on a difficult 10-game football schedule by playing Santa Clara, Sept. 23. Twenty letter men men returning this fall.

Many Heroes of Former Ruth Teams Have Been Called "Out" By Ump Tim

Seven of the 10 Players Named in 1922 No Longer Are Connected With Organized Baseball.

By Damon Kerby

Their names are blazoned in the headlines and they become established as stars, but sooner or later they drift off into the twilight of obscurity so quietly that baseball fans are hardly aware of their passing. Such is the fate of baseball players.

Babe Ruth.

This thought isn't new, but it is again brought to the surface by a glance at the makeup of all-America teams selected by Babe Ruth since 1922, when he began picking his annual team for the Post-Dispatch. In the list are many former shining lights of the diamond who are now all but forgotten.

Seven Are "Out."

Of the 1922 All-America team, for example, seven of the 10 are no longer connected with organized baseball. The 1922 team was composed of Ruth, right field; Speaker, center field; Cobb, left field; Sisler, first base; Hornsby, second base; Frisch, third base; Scott, shortstop; Schang, catcher, and Shocker and Joe Bush, pitchers.

Ruth, Frisch and Hornsby are still very much in evidence, but what of the others? Shocker is no longer living, and, incidentally, that once great pitcher is the only player named to a Babe Ruth team who has passed on. Speaker was manager of the Kansas City Blues at the beginning of the season, but is now out; Cobb, at last accoun was playing golf in California; ler is a sporting goods dealer h in St. Louis; Scott runs a bowli establishment in Fort Wayne, In Schang, when last heard fro was a farmer, and Bullet Joe Bu is coaching a college nine.

Most of the players who hav been crowded out by a younge generation are seldom heard from but one doesn't have to go as fa back as 1922 to encounter "forgo ten men" of previous Babe Rut teams, players whose exploits the diamond rang out around country.

Hack Wilson, in 1930 the terro of opposing pitchers as a memb of the Cubs, served as a warm- catcher in the bull-pen the la time Brooklyn visited Chicago, th scene of Hack's past triumphs. A if you know your Hack Wilso you know what gall and worm wood, that job must have bee and will realize to what a low state he has fallen.

Lefty O'Doul.

And Lefty O'Doul! Only la year Lefty led the Nation League in batting (.370), but un traded to the Giants from Brookl in mid-season this summer he cou only very, very infrequently the ball past the infield. Even no he is only batting around .285.

Another former Brooklynite, B Herman, of the Cubs, a mem of Ruth's team in 1929, is moan low in this year's batting rac When given an infrequent chan to bat, Herman strikes out very fectively, if inartistically.

But Herman, O'Doul and Wils are lucky. They are still in th majors. Many other former famo All-America players are entire out and forgotten—Irish Meus Eddie Roush, Johnny Mostil, Ha ry Heilmann, among heavy-hitti outfielders of their day; Jumpi Joe Dugan, Wally Gerber, Sis Scott, and Roger Peckinpa among brilliant infielders; Sch Schmidt and Hargrave, catche and Alexander and Joe Bush among famous pitchers who h dropped from sight.

But this is another season the eyes of baseball fans turned forward. What players Ruth choose for his All-Ameri team this year?

Cash Awards.

The Post-Dispatch is giving $ in cash awards to readers w come the closest in naming Rut team this year, in the batting or in which the Bambino will pl the players. Also, 25 autograph baseballs, and 25 autographed b will also be awarded t[illegible] other s cessful contestants.

Rules of the contest are publish on this page. Read them caref ly, then submit YOUR team in year's contest. Mail it to Babe Ruth Editor, St. L Post-Dispatch.

Study Averages Before Submitting Teams in Contest

BATTING, fielding and pitching averages of all major league players are carried on Page 14, Section D, of today's Post-Dispatch. Prospective contestants should study the averages carefully before making their selections for the Babe Ruth All-America team competition.

Ruth will select his players on this year's performances alone—not on past triumphs. So in order to be up to date on what the big league stars are doing on the diamond, fans should note how they stand in the averages.

Rules Governing Babe Ruth's All-America Team Competition

THE contest is open to everyone, except employes of the Post-Dispatch and their families.

Entries will close Aug. 31 at midnight, and letters bearing postmark up to that time will be considered eligible.

The contestant naming the same players in the same positions and batting order as Babe Ruth wins the first prize; but in event no contestant duplicates Ruth's picks, the one nearest will be considered the winner.

In addition to naming the players to conform to those chosen by Ruth, contestants must arrange them in the same batting order as Babe Ruth. The Babe has agreed to place his choices in the order in which he thinks they should go to the plate.

An explanatory lettter of not more than 250 words must accompany the selection and will be passed upon by the judges. This is as important as selecting the players. Babe himself will write an explanation of his choices. (Write on one side of the paper only and make your selections on a separate sheet.)

Ten players will make up the team, two pitchers and eight other players, one of each position. Only one team may be submitted by each contestant.

No corrections will be accepted once an entry has been received and filed.

Babe Ruth is not eligible. He will not pick himself.

Players must be selected on the basis of their play in the 1933 season only. Performances of previous years do not count.

A player may be placed in a position other than the one he regularly occupies, provided he has played such position in one or more championship games. Otherwise regular positions must be rigidly adhered to. For instance, a regular left fielder may not be placed in right field unless he has played there at least once in 1933.

The trophies will be $200 cash for first, $150 for second, $100 for third, $50 for fourth. There will be five of $20 each and 10 of $10 each. The next 25 winners will receive baseball bats, autographed by Babe Ruth, and the last 25 winners will be awarded regulation American League baseballs, autographed by Ruth and mounted for use as blotters.

Mail selections to the Babe Ruth Contest Editor, care the Post-Dispatch.

CHALLENGER OF GAR WOOD ON GROUND FOR TROPHY RACE

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 19.—Hub Scott-Paine, a smiling, jovial red-headed English boatbuilder, wh hopes to beat Gar Wood in Harmsworth trophy race, arrived here today to prepare for the contest that will be held in the St. Clair River about 35 miles north of here a fortnight hence.

Mrs. Scott-Paine and six engineers accompanied the strapping, curly-haired challenging pilot. They were greeted upon their arrival by Wood and a number of other Detroit sportsmen and power-boat enthusiasts.

The challenging craft, Mi Britain III., tiny in comparison t the mighty Miss America X., Scott Paine said, was expected to arriv at Algonac, Mich., shortly, an would be placed in the water fo tuning up trials as soon as possible.

"The little bus," said Scott-Paine, "will do 100 miles an hour comfortably." He did not say how much more he expected to get out of he 1375 horsepower motor. The littl craft weighs only 3000 pound against the seven tons of Mis America X.

Wood this morning had the rebuilt Miss America on the St. Clai River for a trial spin, but mad only a brief run and then returne the craft to its boat well for som mechanical alterations. He said would not take the defender again until Wednesday or Thurs day of next week.

Gilpin Victor in Final.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19.—Top seeded Samuel B. Gilpin of Merion Pa., today won the Middle State singles tennis championship by de feating Gabriel Lavine, second seeded of Philadelphia, 6—0, 4—6 6—2, 3—6, 6—3.

The Once-Great Hack Wilson Lately Has Been Serving as Warm-Up Catcher With Brooklyn.

is now out; Cobb, at last account was playing golf in California; ler is a sporting goods dealer he in St. Louis; Scott runs a bowlin establishment in Fort Wayne, Ind. Schang, when last heard from was a farmer, and Bullet Joe Bush is coaching a college nine.

Most of the players who hav been crowded out by a younge generation are seldom heard from but one doesn't have to go as fa back as 1922 to encounter "forgotten men" of previous Babe Ruth teams, players whose exploits o the diamond rang out around th country.

Hack Wilson, in 1930 the terro of opposing pitchers as a membe of the Cubs, served as a warm-up catcher in the bull-pen the las time Brooklyn visited Chicago, th scene of Hack's past triumphs. And if you know your Hack Wilson you know what gall and wormwood, that job must have been and will realize to what a lowly state he has fallen.

Lefty O'Doul.

And Lefty O'Doul! Only las year Lefty led the Nationa League in batting (.370), but unti traded to the Giants from Brooklyn in mid-season this summer he coul only very, very infrequently hi the ball past the infield. Even now he is only batting around .285.

Another former Brooklynite, Herman, of the Cubs, a mem of Ruth's team in 1929, is moanin low in this year's batting rac When given an infrequent chanc to bat, Herman strikes out very ef fectively, if inartistically.

But Herman, O'Doul and Wilso are lucky. They are still in th majors. Many other former famou All-America players are entirel out and forgotten—Irish Meuse Eddie Roush, Johnny Mostil, Har ry Heilmann, among heavy-hittin outfielders of their day; Jumpin Joe Dugan, Wally Gerber, Sisle Scott, and Roger Peckinpa among brilliant infielders; Sch Schmidt and Hargrave, catcher and Alexander and Joe Bush a among famous pitchers who hav dropped from sight.

But this is another season an the eyes of baseball fans a turned forward. What players wi Ruth choose for his All-Americ team this year?

Cash Awards.

The Post-Dispatch is giving $70 in cash awards to readers wh come the closest in naming Ruth team this year, in the batting orde in which the Bambino will plac the players. Also, 25 autographe baseballs, and 25 autographed bat will also be awarded to other su cessful contestants.

Rules of the contest are publishe on this page. Read them carefu ly, then submit YOUR team in th year's contest. Mail it to Babe Ruth Editor, St. Lou Post-Dispatch.

BADEN PITCHER HURLS NO-HIT GAME IN MUNY ELIMINATIONS

HIS TEAM BEATS OPPONENTS, 5-0; QUARTERFINALS SLATED TODAY

The quarterfinals of the Municipal Baseball Association elimination tournament will be played this afternoon with the best game probably that between the C. A. C. and the St. Agatha nines. Each survived the second round yesterday by top-heavy scores.

All games will start at 2:30 o'clock and the schedule is Arnolds against Sentinels at Carondelet No. 1; C. A. C. against St. Agatha at Concordia No. 1; Oldanis against Gateways at Fairgrounds No. 1 and Baden Chamber of Commerce against Omahas at Sherman No. 1.

C. A. C. advanced to the quarterfinals by walloping St. Agnes, 22 to 2. St. Agatha featured its 20 to 7 victory over the Celts by counting 13 runs in the seventh inning. These were the only two games in which the scores were extremely one-sided.

Pitching honors for the day went to Victor Kalinoski, drafted by the Baden nine from the St. Louis Dairys. Kalinoski shut out the Missouri-Pacific team, 5 to 0, allowing no hits and only two walks. The Baden team gave him errorless support. Only eight balls were hit to the outfield.

The winning teams and their margins of victory were Arnolds, 6 to 0; Sentinels, 10 to 2; C. A. A., 22 to 2; St. Agatha, 20 to 7; Oldanis, 10 to 5; Gateways, 14 to 1; Baden C. of C. 5 to 0, and Omahas, 6 to 2.

manufactured all day off the slants of Ray Benge. They had one other big inning when they filled the bases on two singles and a pass, but whenever danger seemed to be lurking in the offing for Mr. Benge the Redbirds obliged by hitting nice little pop flies to infielders and outfielders to help him to his eighth triumph of the season.

Jake Flowers doubled to start the fourth inning fo rthe second hit of the game off Hallahan and Jake took third on one infield out and scored on another.

Benge Drives in Tying Run.

Then in the fifth Cuccinello drew the first pass off Hallahan, only to die at third on Strip's single to right. Outen drew the second pass off Hallahan and Benge singled to right for his second hit, scoring Stripp with the tying run.

Hutcheson walked with one out in the sixth and after Hack Wilson flied out Leslie singled to left, moving Hutcheson to second, and Cuccinello slashed a double to left, scoring Hutcheson.

Brooklyn added two unnecessary runs in the eighth. Hack Wilson singled to right and took second on a wild pitch. After Leslie flied out Cuccinello was good for another double to left, scoring Wilson. Cuccinello caught Hallahan winding up and stole third and when Jimmy Wilson made a wild throw past Martin, Cuccinello continued home.

The Cardinals didn't look good at all and the Brooklyn scribes laughingly remarked that mathematically was a funny word.

Redbird Notes

DIZZY DEAN and Van Mungo will be the opposing pitchers in one game of tomorrow's doubleheader, with Walter Elmer the Great Beck due to face Dazzy Vance in the other.

The series opener attracted about 4000 customers cloudy skies probably held down the attendance.

Manager Max Carey and Catcher Al Lopez of the Dodgers, suspended for three days for a row with Umpire McGrew Wednesday, will be back on duty tomorrow.

their vaudeville tour and now each is looking out the window as the other passes.

Schacht, however, is a more important cog in the Washington baseball machine's pennant career than Nick. While both are signed as coaches, and Nick stands at first base, it is Schacht at third base who does the important directing. He is accounted one of the smart men of the game and he has materially aided three managers in handling the Senators.

Nick a Great Pitcher.

ALTROCK is now well into the fifties. Thirty years ago with the White Sox he was doing his stuff in helping to put the "hitless wonders" on the map.

In 1906 it was Altrock who, with Ed Walsh, Owen, Patterson, Doc White and "Piano Mover" Frank Smith, helped the Sox win 19 straight games for a record, and to win the world's championship from the powerful Cubs.

The quality of the pitching given the Sox is evident from the fact that the club was last in team hitting with a percentage of .228.

Nick joined the Washington team in 1909 and then went back to Minneapolis. He was brought back by Washington in 1911. Later, his comics kept his teammates and the crowd in good humor, the Washington management giving him free rein. The officials found that although his usefulness as a pitcher was waning he still was an added attraction to the baseball program.

Nick is getting past the day when he can climb many more screens and do his monkey imitation; but his comedy has helped take the sting out of many a dull afternoon, especially when the ball game went against the home fans.

No Change in A. L. Baseball.

WHATEVER the National League may do about the official baseball, if anything, the American League is going to stand pat on the ball as used during the past two or three campaigns, according to President Harridge.

Whether due to a duller elasticity or better pitching, hitting in the National League has shrunk considerably. Some of the fans who like to see long hits more than air-tight baseball are beginning to moan.

But they may continue to moan for all the American League cares. It is satisfied with the baseball now being used.

Rough on the Minors.

WHAT really should be done is to adopt a standard baseball for all leagues, major and minor as suggested in this column. The idea is being considered by writers and officials in an informal manner and there is a possibility that it may come at the joint meeting this winter.

Major league magnates should be interested because they could depend on the hitting averages based on the use of a standard baseball, whereas today, in some of the Class AA leagues, a rubber-cored baseball of extreme liveliness pads the players' averages, on which minor league owners base the prices they demand of the major leagues.

How badly it works out for the majors a scrutiny of American Association stars records after they joined the major leagues will reveal.

The Curse of Poverty.

EVEN Philadelphia fans look forward to losing Chuck Klein next year, owing to poor attendance and financial difficulties of the Phillies.

Reports say fans realize the club can not afford to carry such expensive and high-salaried stars. That makes for a bad situation since clubs rich in money are able to snap up all the stars from clubs that are rich only in talent. Strong teams grow stronger and weak ones weaker.

In the case of Philadelphia, always a poor club financially, its case now is even more galling than ever before. At the start of the current year it appeared that Burt Shotton was at least in possession of a club that was able to make a real showing.

But a bad start, both in weather and playing, put the club's customers out of patience and they stayed away in progressively large numbers.

The club needed money and it was necessary to sell some of the stars to Boston. Klein is as good as sold now, we are told. Thus much of Shotton's building and planning for seven years, work made all the more difficult because of lack of funds, has been in vain. The team, which this season needed only a pitcher or two to make it a great club, will next season need half a dozen stars.

The Case of Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, without Sunday baseball, is not so hot as a major league center. The boys around the circuit occasionally "pan" St. Louis because it is "not big enough to support two major league clubs."

At this writing it seems apparent that Philadelphia can't support one, consistently.

Population considered, Philadelphia should be a great baseball center. But the Athletics and the Phillies have taken turns at starving. In some years both starved together.

The trouble seems to be the same in Philadelphia as in St. Louis, namely, that fans won't pay to see baseball clubs lose games—they want winners.

However — no championship team in St. Louis has lost money —and they do say that happened in Philadelphia.

GRAND AMERICAN TRAPSHOOT TO OPEN TOMORROW

By the Associated Press.

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 19. — The nation's best marksmen converged on this little hamlet today, anxious to get in a few more practice shots before the opening of the Thirty-fourth Annual Grand American Handicap Tournament Monday.

They were here from four corners of North America and the Canal Zone—some 900 of them—all intent on taking home some part of the $53,000 cash award or some of the $10,000 worth of trophies which will be given away during the week.

The week's barrage starts off with the Women's Amateur Clay Target Championship of America; the Junior, Sub-Junior; the Amateur Championship of North America at Double Targets; the Professional Title at Doubles. These will all be decided at 100 targets.

Tuesday the women will decide their doubles championship and at the same time the champion of champions race will be fired. This is open only to winners of State titles. During the afternoon the annual East-West team race will be shot. Members of the team are selected from the high scorers in the earlier events.

Class Championships Wednesday.

Wednesday will see the class championships, after which the All-America trapshooting team will be selected. Members of this will be the ten high scorers on 16-yard targets during the first three days of the meet.

The preliminary handicap will be fired Thursday. Conditions for this event are exactly the same as they will be the following day during the Grand American. The preliminary is held so shooters may become more familiar with the yardage assigned them for the Grand.

It is expected that more than 900 shooters will take part in the Grand. Friday, which is decided on 100 handicap targets. A purse of $10,000 goes to the winner. Last year 817 took part in this feature event which was won by Arthur E. Sheffield, a postal railway clerk from Dixon, Ill.

Closing day on Saturday will see the Vandalia Open and the open championships contested. These events are open to both pro and amateur marksmen. The Vandalia is a 100-target event while the open is decided on 200 targets at 16-yard rise.

No Winner Has Repeated.

Although the Grand American has been held annually since 1900, no winner of the big classic has ever been able to repeat.

This year ten former winners will be trying for a second victory. The former champions already on the ground beside Sheffield are: Ev. Garrison Roebuck, Defiance, O., 1931 Winner; Rufus Kine, Jr., Wichita Falls, Tex., 1930; Isaac Andrews(Spartansburg, N. C., 1928; Otto , Newlin, Georgetown Ill., 1927; C. A. Young, Springfield, O., 1926; Mark Arie, Champaign, Ill., 1923; Mark Hootman, Hicksville, O., 1913; Harvey Dixon, Oronogo, Mo., 1911, and Fred Harlow, Newark, O., 1908.

Giants Boost Lead To 6 Games; Yanks Lose, Trail by 8 1-2

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The New York Giants increased their lead in the National League pennant race to six games today by defeating the Chicago Cubs, 8 to 4, while Pittsburgh was losing to Boston. Two homers by Mel Ott and one by Frank O'Doul helped the Giants build up an early lead.

Mel Ott's sixteenth and seventeenth homers of the season, and Lefty O'Doul's twelfth, all made off the Cubs' ace, Lon Warneke, accounted for five of the Giants' runs.

The opener of a four-game series was witnessed by 15,000 fans.

Fading Champs Lose 7-Run Lead

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—The White Sox spotted the New York Yankees seven runs through some loose playing and Babe Ruth's twenty-eighth homer of the season in the early innings today, then came back to win out in the twelfth, 8 to 7, and end their five-game losing streak. The defeat put the Yankees eight and a half games behind the league-leading Washington Senators.

A triple by Evar Swanson with the bases loaded climaxed a five-eight that tied the score. Charley Ruffing and Wilcy Moore in the eight that tied the score. Charley Devens, the young righthander who checked that outburst, was reached for the winning run in the twelfth when Charley Berry doubled and Hal Rhyne lined a single off Tony Lazerri's glove.

Ruth's homer came with the bases empty and Chad Kimsey on the mound in the third, leaving the Babe eight homers behind Jimmie Foxx of Philadelphia.

Chuck Klein Hits Three for Circuit.

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 19. — Chuck Klein's mighty bat — the bludgeon which is leading the National League in batting and home runs—poled out three four-baggers today to contribute in a large part toward the Phillies' twin triumph over the Cincinnati Reds.

The husky outfielder hammered out a pair of the circuit clouts in the opener which the Phils won, 12 to 2, with Roy Hansen pitching. In the nightcap, Klein added his third round-trip clout of the day. Austin (Cy) Moore pitched his second shutout triumph in less than a week to take that contest, 3 to 0.

Wes Schulmerich also connected for a homer, cracking one of Si Johnson's pitches in the second inning of the opener.

Mutuels paid: Signal Man, $8.58, $7. 6, $4.80; Trey, $8.26, $4.80; Penncote, $9.36.

Signal Man, having speed from the start and saving ground throughout, was lightly restrained for half mile, worked his way to front under pressure and weakened, but outstayed Trey. Latter, away fast and having fine speed, bore out badly in stretch and also weakened badly near end. Penncote, in close quarters soon after the start, moved up fast on stretch turn and, withstanding pressure gamely, was going strongest of all in closing stages. Lady Higloss raced wide and weakened after reaching the final eighth. Constant Wife had no mishap. Ding Bin dropped out of it on stretch turn. Mata Hari, sour and fractious at post, but away fast, refused to extend herself. New Deal unseated his rider soon after the start.

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Old Man O' War sent one of his grandsons out today to gallop to a surprising victory in the $5000 added Hawthorne Juvenile Handicap.

The winner was Signal Man, two-year-old son of High Cloud-Sister Ship, born and raised in the valley of Old Virginia, and owned by the Audley Farm of Berryville. Signal Man, ridden by Earl Pooy, one of the veteran jockeys of the American turf, beat his own stablemate, Trey, that set all the early pace, by a neck. Pounding along in third place was Penncote, with Lady Higloss, rated as a contender, fourth. The field was made up of nine of the best juveniles left in the West.

Signal Man raced the six furlongs in 1:14 2-5.

The surprise of the race was the defeat of Mata Hari, the famed Dixiana filly, owned by Charles T. Fisher of Detroit. Mata Hari less than two months ago was considered the most promising two-year-old in America. Today, however, she failed to show her brilliant speed and finished eighth, beating only New Deal, which stumbled and threw his jockey at the start.

Mata Hari, winner of the rich Arlington Lassie Stakes and other handicaps, was so confidently backed by the crowd of 15,000 that she went to the post along with her running mate, Constant Wife, a 6 to 5 favorite. Mata Hari's failure enriched the payoff on the horses that finished in the money. The Audley Farm entry of Signal Man and Trey paid $8.58 to win, $7.26 to place and $4.80 to show. The show price on Penncote was $9.36.

The handicap had a gross value of $7600, with $5725 going to the owner of the winner, and $1000 additional for Trey, which captured second place.

The Audley Farm pair wasted no time at the start, with Jockey Richards getting Trey away in the lead and Signal Man following in second place. They ran in that order until the stretch turn, where Trey raced wide as Lady Higloss made her move on the outside. Signal Man came through on the inside and shot into the lead, retaining it to the finish.

OUTSIDER WINS ALL THE WAY IN 'HILLSBOROUGH'

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 19.—A mild surprise marked the running of the Hillsborough Handicap, feature of today's half-holiday card at Coney Island, when Dusty Dawn, from the stables of L. J. Hickman, scored a handy victory over the public choice, the Parkview Stable's Cactus Rose. Another outsider, H. J. Conley's Silver Sun, was third.

Dusty Dawn, overlooked in the mutuel wagering despite his recent success here, made every post a winning one. The son of Golden Broom flashed into the van in the first quarter and held his advantage with ease to win by two lengths. Cactus Rose always was in closest pursuit but could not seriously menace the winner. Silver Sun closed determinedly but the first two horses easily held him safe.

Six accepted the contest, which was for two-year-olds over the three-quarter route. Dusty Dawn covered the distance in the exceptional time of 1:11 4-5, and paid $12.60 for a $2 investment.

Edgemont Plays Kirkwood Team In Trolley Loop

With St. Louis Dairys and Edgemont tied for the lead in the second half race of the Missouri-Illinois Trolley League with six victories and one defeat, each club gets a real test this afternoon when they face the Vess and Kirkwood A. C., respectively, at Belleville and Kirkwood parks.

Three games still remain on the league schedule prior to the end of the season, and a setback for either club will practically put them out of the running.

Last week saw the Dairys drop a 4 to 1 decision to the Bly-Moss club, while Edgemont was administering a sound drubbing to the Madison club.

Vess, which captured the first half race, has been setting a fast pace lately which has carried the team within hailing distance of the leaders. As a result, the Belleville squad should get plenty of opposition.

Kirkwood, although bowing last Sunday to Vess, is expected to make things interesting for the East Siders. Kirkwood has strengthened for the game. Johnny Harshany, ace hurler of Edgemont, will pitch for Manager Besse's outfit, while Bruno will probably get the assignment for the Missourians. Jess Doyle is slated to work for the Dairys, opposed by Glen Barthleme.

At Edgemont, Manager Bob Fisher's Bly-Moss team is scheduled to meet the tail end Madison Hubtowners. Fisher has selected Ray Fisher, the 17-year-old youngster who set the Dairys down with three hits last week, to take the hill in an effort to annex his second straight victory. Madison will probably send Young Lyons to the hill.

KINGSHIGHWAY AND GIDDINGS TEAMS IN CHURCH TITLE SERIES

The Church League Recreation Ball championship series will get under way tomorrow at 6 p. m., when the Giddings Presbyterian Church, winners of the West End Championship, meet the Kingshighway Baptist Church, winners of the South Side Championship, at Tower Grove Park. The same two teams will meet in a second game of the series at Forest Park drill grounds, Thursday evening.

In the girls' division, the Arlington M. E. S. Church, winners of the West End Championship, will meet the Southampton Presbyterian Church, winners of the South Side Championship, Tuesday evening at Forest Park and Friday evening at Tower Grove Park.

BOB COCHRAN GETS AN ACE AND A 68 SCORE AT NORWOOD HILLS

Bob Cochran, playing over the west course at Norwood Hills Country Club, drove his six-iron tee shot smack into the cup without a roll for a hole in one yesterday afternoon. The ace which was scored on the 170-yard second helped Bob turn in a score of 68, three under par. He was playing in a foursome with Jim Manion, Roger Lord and Ed Grubb.

Major League Averages and Other Sport on Page 14D

Fishing throughout Missouri is rapidly becoming better as summer draws nearer its close. Rains a few weeks ago flushed the streams and with cooler weather setting in fish have been showing considerably more activity toward angler's offerings.

Jack salmon and small mouth bass have been striking better during the last week than at any time all summer, reports out-State indicate. Jacks usually do their best striking in the late summer and early fall months and when they become frequent additions to the creel's contents fishermen are generally reasonably sure that the season's best fishing is starting.

Minnows are perhaps the best lure now for all the game fish, although plugs have had a greater appeal to Lake of the Ozarks fish lately than the live article. Deep running, wobbly, minnow-like lures are recommended. Fly fishermen haven't had quite as much success during the last few weeks as they did during May and June—both months when there is an abnormal glut of insects—but fly rod feather minnows have in some instances been the means of bringing to net satisfactory strings of fish.

Stomachs of small mouth bass, jack salmon and green sunfish taken during the week showed that all preferred minnows as their principal diet. No other food was detected.

All fish in Missouri waters are still eligible to a place in the creel. Trout fishing will not end until Nov. 1.

Baby Quail at State Fair.

The biggest display of wild life native to Missouri ever assembled in the State outside of the St. Louis Zoo has been provided by the Game and Fish Department at its exhibit at the State Fair in Sedalia.

The exhibit contained several hundred fish, nearly a score of mammals and many game birds. One of the displays which attracted much attention was the quail-hatching unit furnished by the Missouri Pheasantries at Windsor, Mo. E. E. Breisch, operator of the hatchery, loaned the department a brooder house filled with baby quail, an incubator in which quail were hatched during the Fair and a pair of his champion egg-producing brood stock birds.

Although no order has been placed by the State Game and Fish Department for quail this year as yet, the State Department has in the past been one of Breisch's biggest customers.

A model camp scene from a State park and a water fowl hunting scene also were shown in the exhibit.

New Waterfowl Sanctuary.

The largest waterfowl sanctuary in Missouri is now under construction at the mouth of Hogles Creek, six miles south of Warsaw, Mo., at the edge of the Lake of the Ozarks. It will contain more than 600 acres.

This new sanctuary is being provided by the Union Electric Co., developers of the power project at Bagnell and the Lake of the Ozarks. Present plans provided that the area now being flooded will be an inviolate sanctuary for migratory waterfowl.

Fifty men are now employed in constructing dikes and a dam at the mouth of Hogles Creek that a flood plain embracing approximately 600 acres can be flooded. This work will be completed before fall rains set in and should provide a safety zone for migrating birds this year. There is considerable smart weed and other natural food in the area to attract waterfowl which once provided with a sanctuary soon learn to make use of the safety area.

Excepting a few small sanctuaries maintained by duck shooting clubs along the Missouri and Mississippi rivers there are few safe resting places for waterfowl in Missouri.

The Lake of the Ozarks was surveyed by representatives of the Missouri Game and Fish Department and the United States Biological Survey, two years ago to determine possible waterfowl sanctuaries, but at that time no flood plain on the lake was found large enough to meet the requirements of the United States Biological Survey.

The Federal agency seldom establishes Government-maintained sanctuaries of less than 10,000 acres. The largest area found on the Lake of the Ozarks at that time was 6000 acres east of Warsaw. No state or Federal action was ever taken toward making this area a sanctuary for waterfowl.

Would Restore Van Meter Lake

William Steele of Sedalia, a Federal Game Warden and a breeder of wild waterfowl, is a strong advocate of the State's restoring Van Meter Lake in Saline County to its former condition for the benefit of waterfowl. Mrs. Anna Van Meter has given the farm, on which the lake lay before being drained. to the State Game and Fish Department, and Steele says the several hundred acre lake could be restored at little cost.

"A dozen men with scrapers working one day could fix that area so that the old lake—one of the biggest waterfowl stopping places in Missouri—could be restored," Steele recently told Joe Green, chief of wardens of the Game and Fish Department.

60-Day Season for Ducks.

Notwithstanding efforts of several duck hunters' associations in Missouri as well as the State Game and Fish Department, present indications are that Missouri waterfowlers will again have only a 60-day hunting season this fall. It is presumed by State officials that the Federal season will open at noon Oct. 16 and close at sundown, Dec. 15.

Missouri's laws would permit waterfowl shooting from Sept. 15 to April 30. However, Federal regulations take precedence.

Terry to Meet Allen Whitlow in Bout, Wednesday

Lou Terry, St. Louis boxer who needs no introduction to the boxing colony hereabouts, has signed to meet Allen Whitlow of Phoenix, Ariz., in the 10-round main event of a boxing show Wednesday night at the Batterey A arena.

Terry will take the place of Cecil Payne, Louisville fighter, who withdrew from the bout with Whitlow because of an injury in training. Matchmaker Jack Tippett said Payne informed him he received a cut over the eye in a workcut yesterday at Louisville.

Whitlow will be fighting his fifth bout here. He lost to Abad, drew with Terry, outpointed Johnny Nichols and knocked out Jimmy Fogerty in his previous battles here.

Joey Parks and Elmer Savage, a pair of promising local boys, are certain to be used in supporting matches. Parks scored a technical kayo over George Daw, and Savage did the same thing in his bout with Larry Dundee in bouts on the last Battery card.

HAUNSES AND LOCAL 100 PLAY IN FEATURE GAME

Four games will be played in the third round of play in the East St. Louis Independent Baseball League this afternoon. A round robin series will be played. At the present time the Haunses, Rheingolds and Local 100 are tied for first place.

SOCIAL NEWS of WASHINGTON

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.

MRS. Roosevelt returned to the White House the first of the week from Abingdon, Va., where she spent a day and night at the White Top Mountain Festival. It was 40 years ago that the local singers serenaded her father, the late Elliott Roosevelt.

When Mrs. Roosevelt was a little girl, her father, the manager of a land company in Virginia, used to write to her of the 13 Trigg children. While he was ill of Indian fever, which not long after caused his death, the Triggs, with a Negro quartet, serenaded him with old songs. In writing to his small daughter he said: "Some day you will have to come down and hear them sing."

So during the visit of the first lady in Virginia, she heard some of the Triggs sing the favorite songs of her father. She received a cup, the last of a tea set used by her father.

Mrs. Roosevelt left Washington on Thursday for Hyde Park and will not return here until after Labor day. From Hyde Park she will go to the Adirondacks to enjoy a two weeks' camping trip.

Gonzalo Zaldumbide, retiring minister of Ecuador, will sail this month for Europe to assume the double duties of Minister to Italy and Switzerland, and also to represent his country at the League of Nations Conferences in Geneva.

The new envoy from Ecuador, Bolon Eloy Alfaro, has arrived in New York from Panama, where he has been acting as minister and holding the title of dean of the diplomatic corps.

Senor Alfaro knows America thoroughly. He attended the United States Military Academy at West Point and served as a second lieutenant in the Fifteenth Hussars of the German army. Later he was assistant director of the Quito Military Academy. All this was before he decided to enter the diplomatic service. Since then he has been Minister from Ecuador to all the Central American governments and also to Mexico and Colombia. He is the distinguished son of a distinguished father, Gen. Eloy Alfaro, former president of Ecuador.

Returning to Washington to say farewell, Senora de Zaldumbide, who has been visiting her father in Paris for the summer, arrived yesterday with her small daughter, to join the minister until his departure. She is one of the most popular and charming of the diplomatic hostesses.

BUILDING AT GRAND AND HOLLY HILLS CHANGES HANDS

Combination Business and Apartment Block Is Reported Purchased by Daniel Kerckhoff.

PRICE SAID TO HAVE BEEN $200,000

Structure Has Three Large Display Rooms and 24 Apartments — Lafayette Hotel Foreclosure.

A modern three-story combination business and apartment block at the northeast corner of Grand and Holly Hills boulevards, adjacent to Carondelet Park, has been purchased by a client of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co. The purchaser is understood to be Daniel C. Kerckhoff, president of Pevely Dairy Co. Title to the property has been taken in the name of John J. Donegan of the real estate department of the Mercantile-Commerce.

The valuation established by the sale is withheld. The building, including site, represents an original investment of more than $200,000. Negotiations were handled by the real estate department of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co., represented by R. B. Gibson. Marc Perles of Perles & Stone, Inc. acted for the sellers.

The first floor of the building has three large show rooms while the upper floors comprise 24 apartments of four, five and six rooms. The Chevrolet Automobile Co. occupies quarters in the building. Construction is fireproof.

The site has 136 feet on Grand and 120 feet on Holly Hills, formerly Kansas street. Strategically situated, the block constitutes one of the holdings in the Holly Hills region.

Purchases by Kerckhoff.

Kerckhoff has been a consistent investor in St. Louis real estate for several years, his holdings including some of the most attractive in the business and semi-business centers of the city. His purchases have been inspired primarily by the future of the properties involved.

Two weeks ago Kerckhoff purchased the three-story business building, with lot 50x165 feet, at 2309-11 Locust street, for a reported price of $38,000. When conditions were at their worst, he purchased the southwest corner of Lindell boulevard and Vandeventer avenue, 100x230 feet. This site is occupied by a three-story apartment building, which he has modernized. Plans, it is said, contemplate eventually to replace it with a structure on a scale with the importance of the intersection.

The Lafayette Hotel building, at the northwest corner of Eighth and Chestnut streets, has been acquired under a $75,000 deed of trust by the State Life Insurance Co. The deed of trust was executed for a loan made by the life insurance company several years ago.

The property was owned by the Ivory Realty Co., composed of clients of the Dubinsky Realty Co. who purchased it 10 years or more ago with the intention of ultimately erecting a large structure on the site.

Another Apartment Sold.

The three-story structure has a frontage of 127½ feet on Chestnut with a depth of 50 feet on Eighth. The second and third floors are used for hotel purposes. The first floor comprises nine real estate offices or stores. The foreclosure included the site.

The site is the key to the corner. It has been involved several times during the last 10 years in pretentious hotel or office building projects. This block was one of the sites submitted as available for the new Federal Building, now under construction at Twelfth boulevard and Market street.

Sale of a four-family apartment building at 7156-58 Tulane avenue, the southeast corner of Midland, to Frank Woeltge of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., has been concluded through the Henry R. Weisels Co. Artistic and ornate in design, the building consists of five-room apartments with baths, hardwood floors and is equipped with a steam heating plant, and has a garage in the rear of the premises. It occupies a lot 68x100 feet. Annual rentals are around $3600. The purchase price was about $25,000.

FOOT COMFORT SHOPS LEASE 617 LOCUST ST.

New Quarters Provide More Than Double Space of Present Establishment.

The Dr. Scholl Foot Comfort Shops has acquired a 10-year lease on ground floor quarters at 617 Locust street through Harry Newman, Inc. The new quarters provide more than double the space of the present establishment at 503 North Sixth street.

Contracts have been let for alterations, which will include the installation of walnut fixtures, a new front and an air conditioning system, taking the refrigerants from pipes now in the street fronts of the premises.

Stores of the Dr. Scholl organization are distributed throughout the world, including more than 60 in England alone, and a relatively large number in Canada, Germany, France, Belgium, Africa, Asia Minor, Australia, Dutch East Indies and Central America. The products of this company are foot appliances of various kinds.

It was stated that a factor in the closing of the lease was the possibility of some large merchandising concern acquiring the former ground floor quarters of the Franklin-American Bank and Trust Co. at the southwest corner of Seventh and Locust streets, in the old Mercantile Club Building. The new store is situated between two large department stores, which have long term leases.

The lessor was the May Department Stores.

The Dr. Scholl Foot Comfort Shops has an exhibit in the Hall of Science at the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, where more than 3000 people daily are given emergency treatment for foot ailments.

MODERATE SEASONAL DECLINE IN BUILDING

Standard Statistics Co. Expects Public Works Program to Bring Improvement.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—The Standard Statistics Co. of New York, in a survey says:

"Current building statistics reflect a moderate seasonal decline in private undertakings. The contract valuation for all classifications, according to Dodge data, receded 20 per cent from that of the preceding month, and was 36 per cent below the level of July, 1932. Public works and utilities construction and nonresidential building showed a relative contraction of 68 per cent and 18 per cent, respectively; residential building, on the other hand, was 20 per cent above that of a year earlier.

"The direct administering of the Recovery Act is now getting under way quite rapidly. Already, many Federal emergency public works have been authorized, while the $400,000,000 made available for state highway construction has been distributed. The letting of bids for public work projects within the near future should be reflected in a sharp gain in aggregate building activity. As the Government program progresses, it is probable that aggregate building totals will promptly expand to a level well above that of last year."

NEW REQUISITION FOR SAPIRO

Date Corrected in Chicago Racketeering Indictment.

By the Associated Press.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Aug. 19. — A second requisition on Gov. Lehman of New York in which the return to Chicago of Aaron Sapiro is sought was issued today by Governor Horner. Sapiro, an attorney, was indicted with Al Capone and others in connection with alleged racketeering in the cleaning and dyeing industry in Chicago.

Gov. Lehman denied the first request for extradiction after Sapiro had shown he was not in Chicago on the date mentioned in the indictment. New indictments with a corrected date were returned and the request for extradition was renewed.

DEFICIENCY JUDGMENT RECOGNIZED IN DEAL

Sybilline Realty and Investment Co. Transfers Lot to Mercantile-Commerce.

The deed transferring 95 feet on the north side of Duncan avenue, just west of Newstead avenue, by the Sybilline Realty & Investment Co. to the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co. discloses the deed was executed in satisfaction of a judgment against the Sybilline company in favor of the Mercantile-Commerce because of deficiency at the foreclosure of the property adjoining this lot on the west, 180 by 170 feet, together with the two-story building erected thereon with switching facilities.

The latter, known as 4481 Duncan avenue, was security for a loan of $125,000 made by the Mercantile-Commerce to the Sybilline company. Following the issuance of bonds for the loan, the property was sold to the Continental Realty Investment Co. at a reported consideration of $225,000. The bond issue was reduced by payments to $97,000, but because of the loss of several tenants the new owner was unable to pay the bonds and interest as they matured, with the resultant foreclosure.

At the foreclosure the property was bid in for the benefit of the bondholders at $75,000 and in a suit against the Sybilline company, makers of the bonds, a judgment of $26,157,25 was asked for, this being difference between the price at which the property was bid in and the amount of the outstanding debt.

The lot transferred by the Sybilline company to the Mercantile-Commerce, which is acting for the bondholders, is a valuable one. It will afford trucking facilities for the improved 180x170 feet. Plans of the bondholders contemplate the erection of a building on the vacant 95 feet whenever a tenant is available. It is in the heart of the central west end industrial and warehouse district.

Recognition of deficiency judgments has been rare.

Lindberghs' Ship Returning to U. S.
By the Associated Press.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 29.—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh had lunch today on the Danish cruiser Fylla and attended a reception later given by the Danish Ambassador. Crown Prince Fredrik was present. The Captain of the Lindberghs' supply ship Jellinge said he was sailing for the United States. The Lindberghs' flight plans were unannounced, but it was considered unlikely they would fly back to Greenland without the supply ship.

TWO IN THE SHADE

An Advertisement
By WILL WYNN

It was a sultry Summer day,
Jim Swelter broiled and sighed,
He read his Post-Dispatch—therein
One of the want ads spied.

A "good car with a radio
A small cash payment down"
Said He, "I'll pick it up today
And leave the baking town."

He sought Maybelle and told her
Of the plans that he had made.

Many Persons Trade Things They Have for Things They Want

Resourceful persons do not permit reduced income to keep them from getting some of the things they need or want.

With the Post-Dispatch Exchange Columns, many persons trade things they have for things they want.

Most homes and offices have articles stored—and no longer needed. Most of these articles lose in value due to deterioration or through later models coming on the market. Articles of this kind often can be traded to advantage.

Many readers are watching the Exchange Columns in the Post-Dispatch to fill their needs. Many are using the Exchange Want Ads to tell what they have to offer.

To place an Exchange Want Ad call MAin 1111 and ask for an adtaker.

PEOPLE! READ THIS

We sell our cars with all our cards on the table. We urge you to come in and look at the car from every angle; start it, drive it; then you will know what you get for the price.

Speaking of price we want you to know that we don't sell our cars for a profit, as they are turned in on loans and refinancing deals. All we want is the balance due. It is the 1933 way of buying a car.

FOOTBALL TO GET AN EARLY START

GRIDIRON GAME CONTINUES TO 'MUSCLE IN' ON BASEBALL TIME

CHICAGO, Aug. 19.—Once upon a time the football season got started—with a few preliminary games—the Saturday after the world series was ended. But each year recently the gridiron schedule makers have been muscling in on the late campaign of the baseballers.

Next week the nation's eyes will be on Chicago for the all-star game between East and West. It is a world's fair attraction. From that date on the press will be flooded with football copy for the big teams will start their early training within the fortnight.

Early Important Games.

The early season schedule is filled with important football games.

On the last Saturday in September, when it still is very very warm down south, four of the teams which figure to go places in the South, Southwest and Far Midwest, will meet in intersectional contests.

A strong Vanderbilt team will invade Norman, Ok., to give battle to a strong University of Oklahoma team. Down in New Orleans that same afternoon Tulane will try to throw back the charge of the Texas Aggies.

Thus on the same afternoon the Southeastern Conference will have two intersectional battles on its hands, for the Texas Aggies are of the Southwest Conference and Oklahoma's Sooners hold forth in the Big Six.

The Oklahoma-Vanderbilt game came about through the fact that Lewie Hardage and Bo Rowland, coaches, starred at Vanderbilt.

The Sooners this year are formidable. One of the heaviest teams in the country will take the field against Vandy. Last year Hardage and Rowland took a squad, rated poor, and fought for a second-place tie.

This year prospects are good with Art and Bill Pansze, and Bob Dunlap, in the backfield, and such veterans as Fleetwood, Corey, Haag, Bashara and Whittington in the line. The rest of the team will be sophomore, but these sophs are rated the best Oklahoma has had in many seasons.

Texas Aggies to Play Colgate.

The Texas Aggie game is only one of three intersectional games for the Greenies. They will meet Maryland of the Southern Conference and Colgate of the East. The Colgate game will be played in New York Nov. 4.

Tulane meets this year—the Texas Aggies, Georgia, Maryland, Georgia Tech, Auburn, Colgate, Mississippi State, Kentucky, Sewanee and Louisiana State.

Hardly a pushover in that group; a set of games that will prove a severe test for Coach Ted Cox and his riddled ranks.

Tulane, however, has been short of men before, but managed to come through in a big way.

Brilliant backs have always appeared. This year the stage is set for "Little Monk" Simons, son of the veteran trainer of the Greenie athletic teams. It is up to "Little Monk" to follow in the gridiron footsteps of such heroes as Bill Banker, Nollie Felts and Don Zimmerman.

Zimmerman, the last of these heroes, will be in next week's Eastern lineup against Howard Jones' team from the coast, and he is enjoying the prospect of causing more trouble for the Far Westerners.

"Little Monk" Not So Small.

"Little Monk," despite his name, weighs 188 and is of the rugged type. He may not be so elusive as Zimmerman, but he has more power and exceptional ability to pivot and change his pace. He is a brilliant punter and equally brilliant at passing.

At the other halfback post will be Roberts with Loftin at full. The quarterback post is open.

Tulane and Vandy are teams to watch, along with Alabama, Louisiana State and Tennessee, in the South. The Texas Aggies will cut some figure in the Southwest and Oklahoma looms big in the Big Six.

The South and Southwest are coming rapidly to the front in football and these teams mentioned may rate high this year.

JUNIOR MARATHON RACE TO BE HELD SEPT. 9

A junior marathon of two and one-half miles will be held under the auspices of the St. Ritas Aid Society, Sept. 9. The event will finish at the club's grounds, 4650 South Broadway. Runners who competed in the annual Tuberculosis day run and the C. B. C. marathon have been invited to compete. The race has been sanctioned by the Western A. A. U.

Among those already entered are Raymond Maus, Lawrence Boone, David Fleming, who has placed in three runs this year; Richard Lund, Wilfried Jacobi, William Rupp, Joe Stamburski, Gregg Grierson and Ben Slumpsky, who was thirteenth in the Tuberculosis day event. All boys between the ages of 13 and 17 years are eligible. Entries can be obtained from William J. Betz, 1210 Landreth Building, 320 North Fourth street.

The course for the race will be as follows: Start at Grand and Gravois at 4 p. m.; south on Grand to Meramec street, east on Meramec to Broadway and south on Broadway to club grounds. Cups will go to the first three to finish and medals to the next 12.

SPAIN LOSES INTEREST IN RACING; BREEDER SELLS FAMOUS STABLE

ARANJUEZ, Spain, Aug. 19.—The Conde de La Cimera, the oldest and probably the best known of race horse breeders in Spain today, sold his palace, his estate and all of his breeding stock.

Among the 120 horses which went on the auction block was the famous Atlantida, which won a million pesetas during a long racing career.

It was said De La Cimera had decided to retire from the breeding of race horses since the republic, and especially Madrid, had lost interest. The Madrid Hippodrome recently quit horse racing.

UMPIRES TO OPPOSE POLICEMEN TODAY IN BASEBALL GAME

Much has been said about irresistible forces and immovable objects, but can you imagine policemen opposing umpires in a baseball game? That very thing will be done this morning and the two nines will meet at Sherman Park at 9:30 o'clock.

No statement has been made whether the policemen will hand out "tickets" to umpires who protest too vigorously; nor has it been decided whether the Municipal League umpires, from force of habit, will banish from the field those law-enforcers who dispute rulings. Anyhow, there are a good many former major and minor league baseball players in the two lineups and there should be a great deal of action.

Here are the lineups:

POLICEMEN.	UMPIRES.
Lou Niebert 3b.	Werne 2b.
Joe Matthews cf.	Jansen rf.
Paddy Burke ss.	Forest 3b.

NAZI SALUTE NO LONGER REQUIRED OF FOREIGNERS

German Ministry Makes Ruling After American Is Beaten; Apology to Be Given U. S.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—A beating administered to Dr. Daniel Mulvihill of Brooklyn, N. Y., won exemption for all foreigners today from any obligation to raise their right arms in the Hitler salute whenever they see Nazis parading with the colors.

The Ministry of Interior announced that in the future foreigners would not be expected to salute. This ruling came about largely as a result of the activities of George S. Messersmith, American Consul-General.

Dr. Mulvihill was struck on the head by a Nazi storm trooper Tuesday night when he failed to salute a Nazi parade. Karl Ernst, Nazi group leader in Berlin, announced that he would apologize for the incident to United States Ambassador William E. Dodd next Tuesday. The storm trooper involved has been arrested. Ernst decreed that any storm trooper who molests foreigners will immediately be ousted from the brown shirt organization.

"Naturally no foreigner objects to showing the mark of respect customary in his own country to the German colors passing by, Messersmith said. "But he cannot be expected to do it in Nazi fashion."

$250 A MONTH MINIMUM PAY FOR PILOTS IN AVIATION CODE

Hearings on Proposed Agreement for Industry to Be Held Thursday.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—The highest minimum rates of pay yet proposed to the National Recovery Administration were provided for today in a code for the aviation industry, on which Administrator Hugh S. Johnson set hearings for next Thursday.

The wage provision called for at least $250 a month for 110 hours' maximum flying for pilots, with a minimum of $150 and 150 flying hours for co-pilots.

The program was presented by the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce, described as representing more than 90 per cent of the air transportation industry, and called for: A 40-hour week and 40-cent rate for shop mechanics; $100 a month for 150 maximum flying hours for cabin attendants; $15 a for a 40-hour week and 40-cent 48-hour week with a minimum of $100 a month for outside salesmen.

A minimum salary of $80 a month was proposed for radio operators, service mechanics and clerks at air fields with no hours stipulated as the code explained their work was intermittent. A 40-hour week and 30-cent minimum was suggested for apprentices, washers, helpers, porters, office boys, janitors and watchmen.

By the Associated Press.

Convention officials said it would be the first organized national assemblage of the young voters of either party in the history of American politics and would "mark a new departure in the methods and activities of conducting political campaigns in the United States."

The purpose of the convention was announced "to give the young people of every political party an opportunity to learn more about President Franklin D. Roosevelt's emergency program, and second, to lay the ground work for a national education campaign in behalf of the executive's plan for national recovery." Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Corporation; Nellie Tayloe Ross, director of the Mint; Director Robert Fechner of Emergency Conservation Work and several members of the little cabinet were included among the speakers.

AGAINST HARD LIQUOR OVER BAR

Distiller Says If Tax Is Too High Bootlegger Will Return.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., Aug. 19.—W. E. Hull of Peoria, former Republican Congressman, today issued a statement addressed to the hotel men of America announcing himself as opposed to the sale of hard liquor over the bar. Hull is general manager of a distilling company which plans to build the largest distillery in the world here.

"I favor a retail sale of liquor," his statement said, "to the extent that I believe the bar should only be used for beer and light wines. Hard liquor should be sold only on tables and in rooms of restaurants and hotels. I suggest that each of you hotel men refer to your Congressman and Senator in regard to keeping the tax on liquor within reasonable limits. If the tax is too high, it quickly will encourage the bootlegger and you will have trouble with speakeasies as you have today."

$2000 A WEEK DANCE HALL CONTRACT FOR MRS. COSTELLO

Woman Recently Acquitted of Poison Murder Signs Three-Month Agreement.

By the Associated Press.

PEABODY, Mass., Aug. 19.—Attorneys for Mrs. Jessie B. Costello, who was recently acquitted of a charge of poisoning her fire captain husband, said tonight she had signed a $2000 a week contract to appear on a dance hall circuit with a Negro orchestra leader.

The lawyers who defended her against the murder charge said she would receive $2000 a week for a period of 12 weeks.

Mrs. Costello had previously been reported as having signed a vaudeville contract, but one of the attorneys said the "vaudeville angle" had been deferred for the time being.

Mrs. Costello, 31-year-old mother of three children, was acquitted Aug. 15 of charges of murdering her husband, William J. Costello, after a trial lasting more than a month.

SALESMEN WANTED

MEN

IF you are interested in making more money, increasing that income, getting into permanent independence not affected by seasons, providing properly for your family—if you are a real worker of good character, between 28 and 45 preferably—then this opportunity concerns you. We will give time for a personal interview to such men.

Our company is rapidly approaching, in this country, the complete dominance of market it has already secured in other countries, with 5 European and American factories continuously busy supplying the Electrolux unit (not refrigeration).

Men in this business, from all walks of life, are big earners. When they learned this profitable business thoroughly, their incomes ranged around $2,000.00 $4,000.00 $6,000.00, $7,500.00, and more, per year, yet they had no previous experience in this kind of work. For instance, L. Hamtil, a new man who started here the second week in August, made $43.00 his first week in our St. Louis branch; a former salesman, A. T. Hill, earned $70.00 for the week; a former store keeper made $115.00 for the week and a former auto mechanic H. Loose, earned $90.00 that same week.

However, beginners may have to be content for a while with $125.00 to $200.00 per month. You are placed on the same basis of compensation as the others, AND MAKE NO INVESTMENT OR DEPOSIT. 1933 will be our fourth consecutive record sales year.

If you measure up to these requirements—are a good learner and a hard worker, reliable, neat, business-minded—call at 561-654 Paul Brown Bldg., 9th and Olive sts., Monday morning, 9:15 to 1:15.

L. W. FAULKNER.

ALLEGED URSCHEL KIDNAPERS TURNED OVER TO GOVERNMENT

Alfred Bates Had Been Held in Denver for Colorado Bank Robbery.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., Aug. 19.—Transfer of Alfred Bates by Denver police to custody of Federal officials today opened the way for a speedy trial of six persons held for abduction of Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil man.

Urschel was kidnaped July 22 and released nine days later for a ransom reputed to have totaled $200,000. Leslie Salter, special United States Assistant Attorney-General, began preparation today of indictment forms which will be presented to a grand jury, probably next Wednesday. Fifteen witnesses have been summoned.

Federal officers said Bates was one of the two men who abducted Urschel from the sun porch of his home and took him to a three-room shack near Paradise, Tex. A nationwide search is under way for George "Machine Gun" Kelly, who, Federal authorities allege, aided in the kidnaping. Harvey Bailey, alleged "brains" of the kidnaping, and four members of the R. G. "Boss" Shannon family are held in Dallas.

Prior to the release of Bates to Federal officers, Denver police had planned to prosecute him for the $13,000 robbery of the Louisville, Colo., bank in 1932. Bates was sought by several other states. He is wanted in Colfax, Wash., and Lincoln, Neb., for bank robberies, in McPherson, Kan., as a suspect in the slaying of a policeman, and in Louisiana and Michigan as a robbery suspect. He escaped from the Paw Paw, Mich., county jail last Christmas day.

HEAD OF VETERANS' BODY QUITS, DENOUNCING 'BIGOTRY'

Assails Elimination of Guarantee Against Discrimination Based on Race, Creed or Color.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—D. George Paston announced his resignation today as national commander of the National War Veterans' Association, Inc., because of elimination from the constitution of guarantees against discrimination based on race, creed or color.

In a letter announcing his resignation, Paston said he was "reliably advised the elimination was deliberate" and said he believed work "to eradicate the bigots in the organization can be more effective from the ranks."

The vacancy will be filled automatically by John J. Collins, Jamaica, N. Y., senior vice-commander.

The announced aim of the association is to give the veterans a political voice. Its Advisory Committee is composed of Gov. Rolph of California, United States Senator Erickson of Montana, and Gen. Waller of Virginia.

MISSOURI GUARD PAYROLL TAKEN TO CAMP IN TANK

Rumor of Danger of Holdup Causes Extra Precaution on Last Day of Encampment.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEVADA, Mo., Aug. 19.—As a result of rumors that gangsters planned to steal the $68,000 payroll of the Missouri National Guard, an army tank carried the money from this city to Camp Clark today. A machine gunner guarded the money in the tank which was escorted by three State patrol cars and Adjutant General H. W. Brown's automobile.

The annual two-weeks' summer training encampment attended by three regiments of Missouri's National Guard, the 110th engineers of Kansas City, 138th regiment of St. Louis and the 140th of Southeast Missouri came to a close today.

The first of the ten troop trains left Camp Clark this evening at 6 o'clock. The last train will leave at 11:20 Sunday morning.

SAYS RUSSIA HAS NEITHER CANNIBALS NOR CARDINALS

Soviet Foreign Office Official Replies to Statement by Austrian Churchman.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Aug. 19.—Denying the charge by Cardinal Innitzer of Austria that millions have died of starvation in Soviet Russia in the past few months, a foreign office official tonight said "there is no cannibalism and, I may say there are no cardinals in Soviet Russia."

He described Cardinal Innitzer's report of starvation and "accompanying horrors of infanticide and cannibalism" as "pure fabrication."

It is generally known, however, that there has been some suffering in Russia even to the extent of malnutrition in many cases because of last year's poor harvest. This year's bumper crop is expected to alleviate conditions.

Dirigible Safe as Steamship, Rosendahl Says, Citing Airship Performances in Bad Weather

Thinks Rocks and Shoals of Air Must Be Overcome Just as With Liner—Knowledge Key to Safe Operation—German Success an Example.

By CHARLES E. ROSENDAHL,

Lieutenant-Commander U. S. Navy, Former Commander of the Airships Los Angeles and Akron, Survivor of the Shenandoah Disaster and Noted Expert on Lighter-Than-Air Craft.

HOW safe is the Zeppelin type airship?

With comparable shore support, such as the steamship has in its harbors, docks, lighthouses, radio compasses, marine information and the like, and with even a relatively comparable experience in officers and crew, the airship can be operated just as safely and efficiently as the steamship.

There are rocks and shoals along the courses of each. But these are marked and are definitely recognizable whether on weather maps or ocean charts and the experienced mariner will in each case give them wide berth. In their skillful avoidance lies safety.

Weather, bad landings, structural failure—most people think of these as the rocks and shoals of airship navigation. Let us examine them.

Airship and Elements.

Rain makes an airship slightly heavier, but sun and wind dry it off quickly. Airships have flown easily through torrential showers of the tropics.

Snow, too, blows off. If the ship is at its anchorage, the mooring mast, it may be necessary to take off and fly a short time to blow it off. Wet snow can be avoided by a slight change of altitude. Sleet formation can be avoided in the same way. The temperature range at which sleet forms is narrow.

HAIL. No case on record of any damage.

LIGHTNING. During the World War a hydrogen filled airship caught fire in the air, presumably because the captain, inexperienced, was trying to fly over a storm, and went above "pressure height." That is to say, his hydrogen gas, expanding as the ship rose into the reduced pressure in the higher altitudes, completely filled the gas cells and was pouring out through the automatic valves on top when the lightning struck. Hydrogen is inflammable. Helium in a similar case would not have caught fire.

There are a number of cases, fully authenticated, where even a hydrogen filled airship, was struck [illegible] lightning, without damage, the perfectly banded metal framework acting as a conductor, so that the current passed off harmlessly.

Little Fog Hazard.

FOG AND LOW VISIBILITY, while a real hazard to the airplane, is comparatively little hazard to the airship. Dr. Eckener flew blind two-thirds of the distance across the Pacific, flew by dead reckoning, often unable to see either the surface below, or sun, moon or stars overhead. Nor did he feel his way along cautiously, at reduced speed. He made the crossing from Tokio to the Golden Gate of San Francisco in less than three days. A steamship normally takes that many weeks.

HEAT AND COLD. Airships have crossed the equator many times, have flown into the Arctic Circle.

WIND. There is nothing mysterious and certainly nothing arbitrary about storms. The atmosphere is constantly in motion, due to variances in temperature, pressure and density. Major air mass movements follow laws of nature. Their course and progress can be charted from day to day, country wide and are so charted regularly on weather maps. Their characteristics are indicated to some degree as well by cloud formations and other phenomena.

The airship is less sensitive to wind than objects on the ground, which are rooted to one spot. Houses are built to resist storm. The airship flies with them, is a part of the atmosphere.

Tactics in Storm.

Certain types of storms should be avoided. These are the true shoals and rocks of aircraft operation. Typhoons and tornadoes certainly, violent wind shifts, line squalls—such areas of highly unstable air.

An airship doesn't necessarily run away from storms. Sometimes it flies into them to get the help of its favoring winds. I recall that Dr. Eckener drove the Graf Zeppelin into the favorable side of a typhoon to increase his speed around the globe.

The main thing is to know where the storm is, in which direction it is moving, what are its characteristics and what it will probably do.

The science of meteorology, which, incidentally, has little to do with meteors, is still rather new and capable of much greater development. We do not know all we want to yet about the weather, but our knowledge is growing, and our facilities for getting and interpreting the information are improving vastly.

Meteorology's Place.

Most important of all, we are coming into a better recognition of importance of meteorology. Since the airship in its proper sphere of long oceanic journeys flies by the weather map rather than by certain fixed and marked paths, meteorology very largely determines not merely the ship's course, but its speed, its altitude, its preparations for landing and takeoff. It is the essence of the ship's navigation.

Snow and rain and fog and the rest, while not dangerous, had rather be avoided than met. The captain picks the course that will offer freest, fastest travel and greatest economy of fuel. Weather itself is neither an obstacle nor a hazard to the airship, but a thorough-going and up-to-the-hour knowledge of weather phenomena ahead and the correct interpretation of these phenomena is the key to safe and successful operation.

The landing and taking off of an airship offer some difficulties, just as the docking of a big ocean ship requires experienced seamanship. And just as navigational aids have been developed through scores of years for the steamship, such as tugs, buoys, lighters and so on, so the airship is beginning to develop safeguards in ground handling equipment, such as the mobile mast, and other mechanical aids.

Facilities Like Liner.

The airship has the same facility as the steamship to heave to in extremely unfavorable conditions and wait for these to improve.

The Graf Zeppelin is smaller and slower than ships of the Akron-Macon type. It has a less effective aerodynamic design, since Dr. Eckener had to fit his ship to the size of his construction dock. Maintenance facilities were not as good as the U. S. Navy could furnish. As a commercial ship it had to follow a tight schedule set up months before.

That the Graf still was able to carry out its schedule of nine round trips across the Atlantic in one season would indicate that the difficulties of arrival and departure are not insuperable. Its present regular spanning of oceans between Europe and South America is further corroboration.

With good craft, well navigated, the airship can give an account of itself comparable to that of the surface ships. This is my contention. But the necessity of training and experience cannot be over-emphasized. There are short cuts in overcoming material difficulties. If a duralumin joint fails, put in steel. There are no such short cuts in the training of personnel, no substitute for grinding years of experience.

Experience is Key.

The captain of such ocean-going surface giants as the Bremen or the Leviathan is a man of 50, who went to sea perhaps when he was 15 and has gone up through the various grades. Just as airship training starts with blimps and free balloons, the seaman must know how to handle small boats, under sail or oars or power, how to handle them in rough water and smooth, open boats at sea, at the dock, alongside ships in rough water, alongside derelicts, or ships in distress.

The "air seaman," no less than the salt water sailor, if he is to operate successfully, should have plenty of experience, should preferably have been watch officer, navigator, engineer officer, material officer, executive officer before he comes into command. He should know the handling of airships on the ground, their maintenance and supply, the handling of gas and gas cells. Above all he should know meteorology. I am inclined to think the captain of an airship should be a better meteorologist than anyone in his crew.

This accumulation of experience cannot be obtained quickly. The airship is little more complex than the surface ship.

Factors of Safety.

Structural failure, I think, we in this country may largely dismiss. The airship has many safety factors inherently. Its lifting gas is carried not in one container but in many. It has two sources of lift— static and dynamic. It is powered not by one motor but by many motors. Failure of one or

World Conferences, Pacts and Pledges Worthless, Says Lloyd George, While Nations Regard Each Other as Rivals, Not Colleagues

By DAVID LLOYD GEORGE,
Former Prime Minister of Great Britain.

LONDON, Aug. 19.

"Double, double, toil and trouble.
"Fire burn and cauldron bubble."
—Macbeth.

THE present state of the world, especially of Europe, reminds me of the very common experience through which all citizens of London passed during the war.

On nights which were propitious for an air raid, there was a general sense of apprehension that attack would come from some quarter of the sky and there was anxious scanning of the firmament and straining of the ear to catch the first whir of terrifying attack.

The whole of Europe seems to me today to be in exactly that state of nervous dread. When war broke out 19 years ago, it surprised a world where the mass of the people in every country not only desired but expected peace.

Today, however, as strong as is the desire for peace, there is among the vast masses of people on the continent of Europe an uneasiness and in some countries a definite apprehension of war. I cannot believe it will materialize—certainly not for years. But neither did I think so in the early summer of 1914. When these calamities are impending, we know neither the day nor the hour when they will come.

Rivals Not Colleagues.

Conferences have indeed served only to accentuate and emphasize the differences between the nations. The world economic conference demonstrated that countries would not combine to solve their financial and commercial problems because they regard each other not as colleagues but as rivals.

The disarmament conference failed to produce disarmament because it was there made clear that no country feels secure or trusts its neighbor. The pacts and pledges of non-aggression which everyone has been signing and nobody trusts are so many witnesses that the nations are living in hourly fear of an outbreak of hostilities.

All these treaties and discussions have achieved less than nothing toward clearing the air or leading the world into a better spirit of good-will, comradeship and peace.

Nazi Bullying in Austria.

Prominent among the latest symptoms of European unrest have been the efforts made by Germany to thrust Nazi propaganda upon Austria. The revolutionary Nazi organizations in that country have been encouraged by Germany. Nazi pamphlets have been scattered by airplane upon Austrian crowds. German broadcasting stations near the Austrian frontier have filled the ether with war cries and incitements to their neighbors across the border. There have been shooting incidents and other acts of violence. In one of the more recent an Austrian patrol was ambushed by uniformed German Nazis and one policeman was shot dead.

The spectacle of this little country, which, under its winsome, popular Chancellor Dollfuss, is making a brave struggle against economic and social difficulties, being bullied by its Northern neighbor naturally excites a good deal of lively sympathetic feeling among onlookers.

Britain joined with France in making representations to Germany about the unwisdom of her actions, pointing out that such deliberate disturbances to the peace of Europe are not in conformity with her pledges under the four-Power pact which she signed the other day.

Germany's answer to this protest was blunt and uncompromising. She denies that the pact has any application in this case and reserves herself complete freedom of action so that she can upset the existing regime in Austria and encourage a Nazi government to take its place.

Hitler's Ambitions.

This incident supplies a fresh commentary upon the holding power of pacts and covenants when they conflict with national ambitions. But no other response could be expected. For it is the avowed aim of the Hitler Government to weld together all peoples of German race in Central Europe in a powerful Nazi confederation.

Hitler does not at the moment suggest annexing Austria, or even reviving the proposal for a customs union with her, such as was recently banned by the other Powers. A subtler, more effective alliance will be created if Austria "goes Nazi." The adhesion of Austria is crucial for the success of his policy. And, as the present Austrian Government is opposed to Hitlerism, its overthrow becomes the first object of his campaign.

He cannot contemplate failure here; and the record does not suggest he will easily be turned aside from his purpose. He has behind him a nation that has been hammered by defeat and adversities into a dangerous temper and his rhetorical genius has wrought it to a passion of patriotic self-assertion.

Germany's Aggressive Ideals.

Its ideals today are military and aggressive with all the vigor of narrow, fanatical nationalism. One cannot be surprised that its neighbors are nervous over the outcome. All the same, Herr Hitler, who is not without that practical shrewdness which knows when it is wiser to hold your hand as well as when to strike, must know that a premature move means calamitous failure. He is not now dealing with the League of Nations but with two or three powerful nations.

Central Europe is not the only region of trouble. The Balkans are an armed camp. None of the Balkan countries accepts the existing frontier lines. Raids, plots, and counter-plots, are endemic. Trains are held up and searched for bombs. There are irredentist agitations, secessionist movements. Open warfare has not broken out, but it is taken for granted among the people that war must happen before long.

What is the cause of all the turmoil, terror, upheaval? Bluntly, it is the concentration of peoples' minds upon ideas of national power, prestige and expansion. There are material causes for their obsession with these ideas.

Sources of the Trouble.

The treatment meted out alien minorities by the Government under whom they were placed at the peace settlement has in some cases been harsh and oppressive, provoking them and the countries from which they have been severed with a desire for revision of frontiers.

The dislocation of trade and the steady march of commercial depression, resulting from a multiplying of customs barriers along the new frontier lines, added to the drag of post-war indebtedness, have bred poverty and hardship that provoke the wish to sweep aside these hindrances and to expand the national dominion over an area large enough to serve economic prosperity.

And the fear of strongly armed neighbors who have similar ideas of extending their frontiers and widening their economic field gives practical ground for thinking in terms of armaments, fighting power, and organization for war. Injustice, poverty, fear—these are the causes of Europe's preoccupation with the notion to plunge into renewed warfare.

America's Economic Pioneering

To the people of the United States of America, these ideas no doubt seem remote—all but incomprehensible. For the American people, untroubled by questions of national sovereignty, are busily concerned with the entirely practical problems of restoring their own domestic trade and industry, finding work for their unemployed, and creating conditions of prosperity, comfort, and general well-being.

To achieve these ends, they are exploring and pioneering through new regions of economic experiment where we onlookers watch their progress with keen and sympathetic interests, cordially wishing them success.

When national grievances—real, not imaginary—are cleared away, we cannot only hope for disarmament but for healthy economic relations. Here we watch with special interest the immensely important experiments of the United States. Maybe it is necessary that the early stages of these experiments be carried out within the national, self-contained framework. But it will be a tragedy for America and the world if she seeks to remain ultimately in a hermetically sealed casing.

Pan-American Conference.

The thoughts of the Western Hemisphere have not yet turned toward the Pan-American conference which is to take place in a few months. They have not yet grasped its significance. The character of the agenda and the fact that all the countries of North and South America, except Canada, were represented at its preparation, demonstrate its possibilities.

It is to discuss, among other points, organization for peace, including arbitration, the Briand-Kellogg pact, procedure of conciliation, customs, tariff barriers and quotas—a very comprehensive and far-reaching program.

If practical conclusions are arrived at, America may lead the world out of its present tangle. The tragic example of Europe should help the countries represented at that Congress to see the folly of national policies which aim at exclusiveness of power and national prestige.

Let America show Europe the "more excellent way" of kindly, beneficent progress, achieved in a spirit of brotherhood with her continental neighbors and the whole world. No lesson today is more urgently needed.

England Abandons Public Works As Cure for Unemployment; Tried Plan and Found It Failure

World Economic Parley at Least Cleared Up Policy of Government On Such Expenditures For Relief.

By CHARLES G. ROSS,
Chief Washington Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Aug. 3.

AS IN the United States, opinion in England is sharply divided on the subject of public works as a means of curing unemployment. There the likeness ends. The American Government has adopted the public works formula as a part of the industrial recovery program, whereas, the British Government, after some backing and filling, has gone in the opposite direction. Unimpressed by the arguments of the school of thought conspicuously represented by J. M. Keynes, the Cambridge economist, the British Government is saying that the policy of large capital expenditures on public works for the purpose of making employment has been given an adequate trial and has failed, and that the Government will have no more of it.

The late unlamented World Economic Conference brought forth, as an interesting by-product, a clarification of the present British policy. Until Walter Runciman, the president of the Board of Trade, made his blunt statement before the conference that Britain was definitely against a large public works program, there had been considerable doubt as to where the Government stood.

On Feb. 16, it is true, Neville Chamberlain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, had proclaimed the "deliberate opinion" of the Cabinet that the public works policy had failed and must be ended. But in April Prime Minister MacDonald had aroused the hopes of the public works advocates by his joint statement with President Roosevelt, at Washington, to the effect that governments could contribute to economic recovery by "appropriate programs of capital expenditure."

Moreover, Chamberlain at the opening of the World Economic Conference had said: 'The question whether governments can actively assist in this matter by schemes of governmental capital expenditures will also require consideration. The United Kingdom delegation will be very ready to examine with other delegations how far employment can be stimulated by such action."

Speech by Runciman.

Then came Runciman with his brief and forcible speech. I do not know how much of this has been printed in the United States, but in any event it is worth reproducing here in full because of the light it sheds on the British policy. In the discussion of a French proposal that public works should be undertaken to relieve unemployment, the president of the Board of Trade said:

"In dealing with this subject we speak not as those who have great plans for the future but as a country which has some recent experience of dealing with the unemployment problem by way of capital expenditure. We all have our unemployment problems in some shape or other, and far be from us to depreciate any scheme which may be undertaken for the purpose of getting employed men who at present have neither work nor wages. The question in our view is one for each country to decide by itself. We have formed our opinion, and it may be of interest to the Commission to know why we hold the view that at present nothing would be gained in our attempting to extend our public works program.

"We have in recent years devoted £100,000,000 to schemes of this kind. The result has been that on the average for every million sterling expended we have employed 2000 men directly and 2000 men indirectly. From that you will observe that this method of dealing with the problem is expensive. In our view it is unduly expensive, and it is an experiment which we are not going to repeat. We have terminated our scheme for dealing with the unemployed by way of capital expenditure works, and we shall not reopen these schemes, no matter what may be done elsewhere.

"Having said that with regard to our home position, I do not wish to intervene in the policy of any other country. I can say emphatically that for our purposes we are abandoning this policy once and for all, and we do not think we can usefully participate in any international scheme of a similar nature.

"In saying that I am not making any new statement. There are two ways in which a country can participate in these international schemes. One is by producing plans for the development of their own resources or their convenience, and the other is by lending money for production development purposes in other countries.

"If we are asked whether we would participate in any schemes for international public work I can say that, so far as the schemes are concerned, they are the affairs of each individual country. But if we are asked as a capital market to provide money or raise loans for this purpose, I think it is only right that I should inform the Commission that we could not do so.

"With the experience behind us of the last few years we have come to the conclusion that, whether in our own country or elsewhere, schemes of this kind of international public works are the most unremunerative way of dealing with the unemployment problem.

"Holding this view, it is just as well that we should let it be known that if a committee is set up we could not participate in its deliberations, and if we were asked whether we would lend any money for the furtherance of these schemes the answer must be in the negative."

Letters to the Editor.

Both inside and outside of the conference, the forthright statemen of Runciman created a terrific pother. As always when a controversy rages in England, letters poured in to the Times. In one of these Keynes said that Runciman made no allowance for the men employed as an indirect result of expenditures on public works. If the remarks of the president of the Board of Trade represented the considered decision of the Government, said Keynes, they "made nonsense" of the alleged intention of the Government to raise prices. A correspondent on the other side went after Keynes and demanded an answer. He observed, however, in obvious reference to Keynes' recent switch from the free trade doctrine to economic nationalism, that the economist probably was "much too busy answering himself to be able to spare time to answer anybody else."

The Times itself said editorially that there was no reason why anybody should have deduced from the Roosevelt-MacDonald communique that England was ready to revive "the costly and disappointing experiment conducted by the Labor Government between 1929 and 1931."

"In the House of Commons," said the Times, "Ministers have always made it clear that the present Government would not countenance the readoption of the exploded theory that a vast expenditure upon public works could have any permanent effect—or on balance any favorable effect at all—upon unemployment."

The Times said it had been shown that during the lifetime of the Labor Government schemes estimated to cost about £200,000,000 were approved, that the number of men employed thereby never at any time exceeded 114,000, and that the number of unem-

A Plan for St. Louis.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

AFTER visiting the World's Fair and seeing Chicago in general, I should like to express my idea of a plan for St. Louis, in the way of continuing progress.

1. A sesqui-centennial of the Louisiana Purchase in 1953.

2. A 20-year program for construction of a super-river front park, continuous from Chain of Rocks to Jefferson Barracks, featuring: (a) A concrete tunnel for the Mississippi (a la Boulder Dam) between the above points, marked by dams which would turn the Mississippi into a clear lake, dredged to depth for steamers and private yachts; (b) a concrete platform built above the railroads and present river front and covered with parks and public buildings.

3. An immediate program for the following: (a) A public building housing a planetarium and an astronomical museum and a library of astro-physics, this building to be located on the river front park or at the plaza; (b) complete surrounding of the plazas with new buildings, whose architecture shall make them worthy of the location; (c) community houses or model tenements such as those described in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine some months ago; (d) a large aquarium, such as the one in Chicago; (e) an outer park system and improvement of waste lands in Forest Park by constructing scenic esplanades, rows of fountains, monumental entrances, etc.; (f) extensive construction of subways for vehicles and pedestrians; (g) abatement of the smoke nuisance for all time; (h) a State park within the city, modeled after the Illinois Fort Chartres State Park, consisting of a reconstruction of the original fortifications of pioneer St. Louis; (i) extension of city limits to include county; (j) nominal fees of admission to above and other public buildings, to create a perpetual destitute relief fund.

W. F. S.

P. S.—The Chicago Museum, Aquarium and Planetarium were financed through endowments by citizens. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Tending Toward Socialism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

JUST what do you mean by your cartoon of Aug. 16 (showing the figure of Greed at bay)? You are vague and ambiguous. If business cannot succeed how are you going to give employment to labor? Have you ever tried to run a business? If you and the union laborites who are striking can run business, why not take it over and see what kind of a job you can make of it?

To my mind, Mr. Roosevelt and you are tending towards Socialism. If you want to take that attitude, take it. This is personal and not as an official in my company.

J. H. JONES.

Another Job for F. D. R.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOU recently published a letter from E. B. McCalla of Pomona, Ill., who describes himself as a "forgotten man." This is just a line to say that I am in sympathy with everything he says. The big packers are one branch of industry in this country which need a little, or, perhaps I should say, a lot of Government supervision.

Your correspondent sold his heifer for $2.50 per cwt. True, she possibly was not in shape to top the market, but considering the price the consumers pay retail for their beef, any animal almost is worth more than 2½ cents per pound.

I sent in 18 head of steers, all young stuff, not in finished condition, but the price they brought was ridiculous. They were good enough to be bought by a packer and were not sold as feeders. The whole bunch, after hauling and commissions were paid, netted $85.05. The entire lot weighed 5400 pounds.

I went to the packing house and inquired the price of beef (wholesale), and the cheapest price quoted was 5 cents per pound for melts. This is the spleen and is the cheapest meat in the animal. Hearts, kidneys and trimmings are selling for 6 to 8 cents per pound.

Our good President has his hands full, but as soon as he can get to it, I think some investigation into the practices of profiteers and racketeers in the packing industry would keep an efficient investigating committee busy for quite a while.

A FORGOTTEN MAN'S FRIEND.

Identification of Dutch Elm Disease.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE several fine elms which are showing the symptoms described in your editorial on the threatening of American elms by the Dutch elm disease. Whom shall I notify?

COUNTY RESIDENT.

Charles Lathrop Pack, president of the American Tree Association, has announced that twigs may be sent to Dr. R. P. White, Department of Plant Pathology, New Jersey Agricultural Experiment Station, New Brunswick, N. J., or to the Dutch Elm Disease Laboratory, Wooster, O. Identification of the disease is established by making cultures of the sapwood fungus.—Editor's Note.

America in Transformation

That America is moving into a new scheme of existence can no longer be doubted. Every foreign observer is impressed by it. Harold Nicholson, an English writer just home from the United States, says: "The America of this moment is in a stage of potent transition. As such she is an enormously significant unreality."

The most interesting thing about it is that what is commonly termed the American revolution is exactly what Europe expected of America. The Austrian philosopher, Rudolf Maria Holzapfel, said a decade ago that America was the hope of the world. He predicted that what he termed "those utilitarian instincts which suppress and confine the soul" in America would be overcome by a nobler concept of life, immensely to influence all civilization.

This has also been substantially the judgment of all the European intellectuals. As Andre Siegfried and H. G. Wells saw it, the effect of collecting so many peoples and cultures together in what approximated a pure state of freedom could not be anything else. Not one of those men, excepting Spengler alone, believed that what has been designated a push-button civilization would in the end destroy us. Wells foresaw "a New World of Ideas" as well as a new world of geography.

They thought our amazing invention would in time ennoble us, as we in turn would ennoble it. Siegfried says that when he was last over here he was less impressed by our material prosperity, our vacuum cleaners, automobiles, hot and cold water, etc., than by a "singular inquietude" among us. "Something else is needed," he wrote. "The life of the individual is powerfully enriched and ameliorated by these material comforts. They give ease and dignity to existence, but the raison d'être of the individual lies elsewhere." John Galsworthy called our material America "an utter negation of human nature."

The America that is passing reached its apex in the Chicago Fair. Entitled "A Century of Progress" it is, as pointed out in the New Statesman and Nation by William A. Robson, a British publicist, an expression of America itself. He says:

> The exhibition reveals the characteristics of the American people to a quite remarkable extent. It shows their courage, their optimism, their exuberance, their belief that nothing is impossible, their unlimited confidence in the future. It shows their intense interest in applied science, their outstanding ability in the sphere of engineering, their cleverness in developing mechanical devices. It shows their adoration of power over nature, as something to be admired in itself. It shows the tremendous concentration of their potential artistic ability into the channels of group and commercial enterprises, and the consequent stultification of individual esthetic effort. It shows the extraordinary extroversion of their minds, and the absence of anything approaching a philosophic outlook.

The Spanish philosopher, Jose Ortega y Gasset, says United States history has not begun. We are, he says, a shell that is showy without and hollow within. Not that these men do not see much to admire in the United States. They all grant that it is the precursor of things far exceeding the dreams of either Europe or Asia. Siegfried says:

> In the future, one will speak, perhaps, of the American Age, as one says, in relation to certain epochs in the past, the Stone Age, or the Bronze Age. The American Age will be the one in which humanity conceived production as a collective enterprise, in which, by means of a reasonable technique, each individual's effort is utilized in such a way as to give maximum production. Formidable possibilities for human well-being are implied therein. As a material civilization, there is no doubt that America leads the world, and leads it efficiently, victorious in the fullness of its realization.

What is the American Age to be like? Long ago Israel Zangwill likened America to a melting pot whose amalgam should be a new people. This is, of course, what Rome was. Speaking before the British Classical Society, Stanley Baldwin reminded the English of their debt to Rome. "She gave us civilization," said the ex-Prime Minister. "She gave us our laws, our architecture, our arts. In the 400 years the Romans were here they transformed us from a semi-barbarous people into a civilized people."

To ascribe the American revolution to the Brain Trust is a political jest. With the passing of the World War and the great splurge in which we tossed about the billions of dollars spent over here by the warring nations of Europe, a new spirit came over the American people. By the time the presidential campaign of 1932 came along, the people had made up their minds. Frank R. Kent, a political writer for the Baltimore Sun, says President Roosevelt is no more than a very able man availing himself of his opportunity. That is true. Things had reached a pass where the Republican progressives in Congress were out of the party. They allied themselves with the Democrats as a means to an end. The country needed a new deal. In the words of the President, it was "dying by inches." Heroic treatment was necessary. The will of the people became paramount. Thus the special session of Congress and that flood of liberal legislation without precedent in our history.

Maxim Gorky says the need of the world is the development of man himself. He points out that we have conquered nature in a thousand ways, without having improved ourselves one whit over the men who made the glory of Greece. Is America to bring man abreast of his own achievements? Stranger things have happened. Men like the late Robert La Follette gave their lives to the ideal of a rationalized America, an America in which the sole struggle for existence should be that imposed by nature instead of the ages-old struggle with predatory man for bread. How little any of them imagined that almost overnight this ideal would assume the Government, with the tacit consent of men in all walks of life! How far they were from realizing that when the night was darkest the dawn was nigh!

It is a time in which we need not only courage, but patience. James Harvey Robinson, one of the ripest of American philosophers, says the tendency of the idealist is to destroy himself with impatience because the mass moves too slowly. The transformation of America from a land of ruthless and brutal individualism into a regulated and co-operative capitalism, if that is what it is to be, cannot be perfected over night. Not from one sun to another, while we thoughtlessly sleep, can America, in the fine phrase of Siegfried, step out of her swaddling clothes and come of age.

We must first merit the things which Harold J. Laski has said that only courage deserves. Make no mistake about the battle ahead. Dean Inge has said: "When Lazarus comes to grips with Dives in America, they will not fight with kid gloves." The test of strength between the Government and the Steel Corporation is epochal. Merle and Means tell us in "The Modern Corporation and Private Property" that the corporation, already sharing power with the state, may in time supersede it as "the dominant form of social organization."

A vital contest, truly. If we are to have a greater diffusion of wealth through the masses to support what Bertrand Russell calls our mechanistic civilization, we must curtail individual profit. That is a revolutionary thing, a volte face for capitalism that can be peacefully brought about only by the interposition of enlightened self-interest. If we are to plan industry and agriculture, establish minimum wages, outlaw sweatshops, shorten the work day and the work week, abolish child labor, and grant the principle of collective bargaining, we must have patience and wisdom. We must recall that even highly civilized nations such as England have not accomplished these social advances in literally centuries of effort to do so.

The Government will make mistakes. We will all make mistakes. That is of no importance. Only one thing is important: that we shall have the will to do what the world expects us to do. We must think. We must be patient. We must be stanch. Thus, and only thus, can we usher in the American Age.

John D. Jr., New Dealer

John D. Rockefeller Jr. has joined the order of the Blue Eagle and, it is announced, will make an NRA radio talk next Saturday. This news will please, but not surprise, the country. Consciously or unconsciously, Mr. Rockefeller has for some time been headed in the direction of the New Deal. He was a New Dealer, even if the phrase had not been coined, when he led the fight to oust Robert W. Stewart from the chairmanship of Standard Oil of Indiana, when convinced from the testimony before a Senate committee that Stewart was one of the beneficiaries of the notorious Continental Trading Co. Mr. Rockefeller was again a New Dealer when, persuaded by the record that constitutional prohibition, which he had substantially supported, was a failure, he declared for the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Whether Mr. Rockefeller personally intervened in the recent row in the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, which flamed into headlines with Mr. Moffett's resignation as vice-president, is not definitely known, but Mr. Teagle's quick change of front has, inferentially, been attributed to the Rockefeller influence. Now he is to speak for NRA, by which act he will emerge from passive approval to positive advocacy. That's the story. And if someone proposes it, most of us will join lustily in three cheers for John D. Jr., N. D.

The Japanese Population Problem

Over a century and a quarter ago, a young English theologian named Malthus became famous overnight through the publication of an essay on population. In this he prophesied that a large part of the human race was forever condemned to live in dire poverty, because, as he claimed, the power of mankind to increase was so much greater than the capacity of the world to produce food, that population must always be pressing on the means of subsistence. Developments in the Western world since Malthus have shattered his gloomy predictions; in part because of a decline in the birth rate, in part because inventions and the opening up of new land areas have increased tremendously the food resources of the world. Yet, in Malthus was one truth that was not fully appreciated before his day: Mankind has a potential power of increase that, if not unchecked, could overrun the world in a few generations. Had the natural increase of population in the United States continued at the rate of colonial days, we would today have over half a billion people in this country.

Recent news from Tokio brings to mind the writing of Malthus. The population of the Island Kingdom increased by over a million in 1932, setting a new record both for total increase and for total births. This rapid increase in numbers in Japan has been a disturbing factor in international affairs for several decades. The action of the United States and the British dominions facing on the Pacific in refusing to admit Japanese settlers was criticised on the ground that an outlet must be found for this expanding population. The recent expeditions into China have been defended by Japanese spokesmen as necessitated by the needs of the country for more territory to support its growing numbers.

Yet, as long as the present rate of increase continues in the home country, settlement abroad can do little to relieve the situation. The total Japanese population in the continental United States, at one time the cause of so much friction, is less than the increase of two months in Japan. If recent developments in Japan continue, the population increase of that country will in seven years be equal to the present population in our three Pacific coast states; another 15 years will bring an increase equal to the present population of New Zealand, Australia and Canada.

It is sometimes assumed, both in Japan and abroad, that this population increase is inevitable, but the facts of Japanese history do not support this view. For over a century before Japan was opened to world commerce in 1853, the country had an almost stationary population, with a lower birth rate than at present. Since then, the population has more than doubled. This increase is partly due to the development of the productive capacity of the country, but it has also been the product of the philosophy that, in order to make herself a force in world affairs, Japan must have an abundance of man power.

Prof. Orchard of Columbia University, a close student of Japanese problems, a few years ago wrote that "to all except the most liberal minded, the large family has become a sacred institution." It is evident that under such conditions emigration is no solution of the population problem, and that it is out of the question to expect other countries voluntarily to make room for a politically-inspired population increase. Those Japanese who have the welfare of their country at heart might well glance through the pages of Malthus.

Priming the Pump

A PRIMER OF NEW DEAL ECONOMICS. By J. George Frederick. (The Business Bourse, New York City.)

THIS may well be, as the publishers claim, the most comprehensive exposition of the "New Deal" thus far offered in a single volume; and that it is authoritative cannot be doubted. There are chapters by Gerard Swope, Bernard Baruch and Donald Richberg; and nearly all the principal "New Deal" officials, from the President down, are freely quoted in support of the author's presentation of the facts.

As for the author's philosophical view of the matter, it is certainly not lacking in enthusiasm and should entitle him to wear a very large blue eagle. In fact, he seems almost to envisage the New Deal as a cosmic matter, his first page being devoted to an archeological chart showing the various stages of man's ascent from the eolithic period to the "New Deal control period."

"We," he elucidates, "measure the changes in the earth by eras or periods. . . . Once the Gobi desert was a green and fertile land of milk and honey for millions of living creatures. Now it is a sandy waste. When this great change arrived, all who lived on that spot of the earth died or left or changed." Just so we, who have survived into the New Deal period, must either die or leave or change. "It is most enlightening," the author observes, thus "to cast our eyes backward."

Once out of the philosophical woods, the author is less entertaining and more instructive. The 12 principles of the New Deal are stated and explained; the "Brain Trust" is discussed; chapters are given to "the practical economics of the Industrial Recovery Act," the "priming of the prosperity pump" with a vast public works program, financial reform, the management of purchasing power, examples of industrial codes.

Donald Richberg, general counsel to the NRA, defines the new governmental relation to business. Gerard Swope, president of the General Electric Co., writes on "Industry Control Through Trade Associations." Bernard Baruch contributes a paper on "The Ending of Economic Impotence." A chapter is given to the President's utterances on the New Deal, and another to the statements of various high officials and members of the "Brain Trust." The volume ends with a list of questions that patriots may be expected to ask, together with approved answers.

Within the social framework to which it pertains, and which it is obviously designed to preserve, the scheme as outlined should impress even the radical as admirable. It would be the social framework that men, for instance, like John Dewey in America, or Strachey in England, would insist upon discussing by way of revealing certain fundamental contradictions that they see.

Such men would seek in vain through the concluding list of properly answered questions for what they would regard as the one vital question, which would be concerned with the possibility of making the aggregate consuming power of wages equal the profit-plus price of the aggregate product; also with the disposal of the surplus product (a prime essential to the survival of the owning minority everywhere) to other highly industrialized nations similarly embarrassed, as the ominous growth of economic nationalism too clearly attests.

Such critics would wonder further how consumption and production can be balanced so long as such fortunes as those of the Mellons and Morgans, et al., must be supported; seeing that such fortunes are not self-existent, concrete entities, but far-reaching credit schemes exacting heavy tribute from the social flow of wealth. In short, such critics would ask how the "pump," being ever so industriously "primed," can continue to pour out water in life-giving quantities while there are so many gaping leaks in the cistern.

The reader judges, from certain casual remarks of the author, that the "Brain Trust" does not lack members who are asking the question in private. But, however time may answer the question, in this transitional moment of tentative endeavor it need be out of no sense of patriotic duty that an administration so thoroughly alive and eager to achieve should enjoy the good will of citizens.

LAW AND PRACTICE OF MUNICIPAL HOME RULE, 1916-1930. By Joseph D. McGoldrick. (Columbia University Press, New York City.)

INTENDED to supplement Howard Lee McBain's work, "The Law and the Practice of Municipal Home Rule," published 17 years ago, showing what has resulted from the home rule movement, which is now, according to the author, in "the period of dying enthusiasm and unheated argument."

THE BETTER PART. By Lyman P. Powell. (Bobbs-Merrill Co., Indianapolis.)

THE author, an Episcopalian minister, now rector of St. Margaret's Church in the Bronx, is widely known for his "Mary Baker Eddy: A Life-Size Portrait," which appeared three years ago. In the present volume, which will give courage to many, he sets forth his reasons for believing that "the only permanent remedy for us in our plight is a change of heart."

He contends that "a spiritualized democracy is on the way. It, in fact, is here. It knocks on every door. It is a Christianity made up, as years go by, of men and women into whose lives the Christian essentials have emerged, who in consequence live every day a personal religion, share every day, with all who need, the better part." The book does great credit to its author's heart.

BAD PENNY. By Samuel Merwin. (Robert McBride & Co., New York City.)

THE boarding-house arm of coincidence has long been employed by melodramatic fictioneers in lieu of inventive inspiration; but it seems to have remained for Samuel Merwin to discover that life itself commonly employs that discredited agency in shaping human stories. Here, then, is a tale based frankly and wholly upon coincidence.

In his foreword, Mr. Merwin says: "Life to me—and I've watched it swirling past for a fairly long time—is anything but an orderly arrangement. Life is like a voyage to some wholly unexpected port. Or to none. Virtue seldom triumphs. The pattern is about that of a crazy quilt."

It was indeed a clever idea to construct a romance almost wholly out of apparent coincidences, and the tale moves with an exhilarating tempo.

NO MATTER WHERE. By Arthur Train. (Charles Scribner's Sons, New York City.)

A FEW years back, when the drift of population was still cityward, "realistic" novels, written in detraction of country life, were fashionable. The "sophisticated" zeitgeist was throwing bouquets at itself. Now that millions of luckless city dwellers have begun to long for the country, the literary dopesters foresee a complete reversal of that fashion. They point out that the new vogue for speaking highly of our common mother, Earth, is already established, and they cite the conspicuous success of several novels, notably "As the Earth Turns," by way of proof. Also, several highly successful writers are known to be working on farm novels of the latest model.

Evidently Arthur Train has sensed the new trend. "No Matter Where" is the story of a New York stock gambler who, before the crash, is about to wed an extremely expensive society woman. Finding himself practically penniless, he decides to begin life anew on a Maine farm that had been the home of his pioneering ancestors.

His expensive fiancee cannot, of course, see herself plunging into the primitive, but she hangs on, nevertheless, in the hope of getting the hero back into the big money. The hero, however, meets a sterling young country woman, a paragon of rural virtues, while rusticating in Maine! She saves him from drowning, and after that the simplest reader knows the upshot of the tale. When last heard from, the happy couple had just reached New York, where the hero had succeeded in landing a very good job.

Apparently, "No Matter Where" represents a transitional stage between the old and new models of fashionable rural fiction; for, while the hero finds the better wife in rural parts, the better life is urban still.

Those who fall easily for artful book promotion campaigns may be especially interested in the first chapter of this novel, wherein the author describes a party "pulled" by a certain notably successful publishing house for the big shots of the dominant literary gangs. Writes Mr. Train:

"It was a big night for the New York intelligentsia, for Radford & Jones, those up-and-coming publishers of exotic literature, were giving a party for one of their semi-annually discovered authors. As Oscar Mandelbaum, their publicity agent, so emphatically declared: 'There's no use pulling a party, boys, unless it's a hot one. You got to spill a lot of hootch these days to induce the critics even to read a book, let alone give it a decent review!' And since friendly co-operation is as necessary to success in art and letters as in agriculture or business, Radford & Jones had taken advantage of the aridity caused by the depression to stage a real 'wow'."

Norman Thomas Says New Deal Leads to One of Three Things—Disaster, Fascism or Socialism

Gives Credit to N. R. A. for Accomplishing Some Good, but Says Its Chief Aim, Restoration of Individual Capitalism, Is Doomed to Failure

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Characterizing the workings of the "New Deal" as a "revolution," Norman Thomas, nationally known Socialist, said today that it leads to one of three things—"disaster, Fascism or Socialism."

Speaking at Chautauqua Institute, Thomas paid tribute to the manner in which the people had accepted the NRA, saying, "If anybody in the tinsel and gilt of Coolidge prosperity or Hoover adversity had prophesied such vast extension of governmental power over agriculture and industry as has actually occurred, he would have been hooted off the streets."

But, he added, its chief aim, the restoration of individual capitalism is doomed to failure.

Remarkable Power Grant.

Thomas spoke in part as follows:

"If anybody in the gilt and tinsel of Coolidge prosperity or the tragic years of Hoover adversity, or even as late as during the last presidential campaign had prophesied such a vast extension of governmental power over agriculture and industry as has actually occurred, he would have been hooted off the streets or told that such a revolution could not be achieved without violence. Yet today the Blue Eagle flies high and Gen. Johnson with the aid of public opinion is introducing and trying to enforce a blanket code going far beyond the limits of the licensing power given to the President in the National Industry Recovery Act. Secretary Wallace has more power over agriculture than any single official anywhere in the world. I do not think any single official has equivalent power even in Soviet Russia. What is more remarkable is that all this has been done without any serious opposition as yet, and apparently with the approval and co-operation of business men and old time liberals and progressives who have not been together on anything since the war which supposedly was to make the world safe both for democracy and profits.

"That such a revolution—for revolution of a sort it is—has occurred, is a tribute to the capacity of the American people under effective leadership to act vigorously without too much regard for precedent on the basis of their hopes rather than their fears. Still more it is a tribute to the vigorous and astute leadership of the President and his Administration. Most of all it is proof of the tremendous gravity of the emergency which led the President to take action which there is nothing in his record of his speeches to show that he contemplated until the magnitude of the crisis forced it upon him.

Certain Things Achieved.

"Unquestionably this revolution has already achieved certain things. It has re-established a banking system when it was on the verge of complete and utter ruin. It has given hope and some more substantial advantage to farmers and workers. It has ended or gone far toward ending child labor and the long working day in the textile and other industries. It has given new life and vigor to the organized labor movement at a time when it was at low ebb.

"All these things a Socialist sees and admits at the same time that he insists that these things do not constitute Socialism, but state capitalism, although a kind of state capitalism unquestionably influenced by Socialist teachings and agitation. Neither do these things bring any sure hope of escape from the perils of the hour. They have been attended by a tightening of the national consciousness and the national machinery in this country and in the whole world. The failure of the London Conference has either gone unnoticed or been hailed with approval in America. Yet that failure unquestionably increases the danger of maintaining peace as well as true prosperity in our interdependent world. It is a failure which was made more complete and devastating because of the President's switch from his early though rather vague internationalism to an absolute refusal to consider any sort of agreements which might have lessened the war between currencies in the world.

Ships and Slums.

"Promptly the failure of London was followed by the administration's decision to use some of the money intended for industrial recovery to build to the full treaty strength a navy which is utterly unproductive. We can build fighting ships though we have not even begun to solve the problem of housing our people now living in slums and shacks! History may yet record that this shift of the Roosevelt administration to nationalism set in train events far more powerful for evil than the provisions of the industrial codes for good.

"In this address I cannot enter upon that speculative field, but shall confine myself to point out that even within national limits the revolution which has occurred since March 4 merely gave a death blow to a laisse-faire individualistic capitalism which had long been sick unto death. It avoided catastrophe by setting up, not Socialism, but a somewhat liberal state capitalism.

"Its avowed purpose was not to banish absentee ownership of land, natural resources, and the great means of production; not to substitute production for use for production for profit, but to stabilize the profit system, to set up a kind of partnership under which somehow or other landlord and tenant, mortgagee and mortgagor, stockholder and worker, speculator and producer would be fed out of the same dish and all grow fat. It is an impossible task. What gives value to the New Deal so far as it has value is not its purpose or vision, but the machinery it has set up for sweeping away some of the debris of individualistic capitalism and for giving the workers a chance to go forward in orderly fashion. If they do not go forward, inevitably we shall all go backward.

Three Possibilities.

Broadly speaking, there are three possibilities and three possibilities only which arise out of the working of the National Recovery Administration and the Agricultural Act. The first possibility is new collapse and worse disaster than we have known. The second is some form of fascism which inevitably will lead to tragedy. The third is a steady approach to the Socialist idea of the co-operative commonwealth, or, better, a federation of co-operative commonwealths. Let us examine these possibilities.

1. Disaster. There is no chance for even a temporary success of the Goddess NIRA as her wiser devotees admit, unless under her dispensation the total spending power of the masses is greatly increased. If production increases faster than re-employment and purchasing power, or if prices outstrip wages, we are doomed. At present there is no such increase in spending power as the situation requires, and the rate of increase was checked in July. The business of the great chain grocery stores actually fell off. Possibly the elimination of waste, the correction of some of the worst abuses of the older capitalism and some curtailment of profits may temporarily enable NIRA to do the trick. This is not certain as yet even for a short period. It is impossible over any long period, if we keep the profit system.

"I am not quite prepared to accept the extravagant praise Mr. Stuart Chase has recently given Bassett Jones' abstruse and difficult mathematical formulae in his new book on "debt and Production." I am not sure the situation admits the rigity of mathematical analysis and conclusion which Mr. Jones gives us. But what he says only emphasizes what others have been saying in different form, namely, that the rate of production is slowing while the rate of debt increases forges ahead. This means that we cannot produce enough to pay our debts under the present system of debt, prices and problems. It is an ominous fact that even now the debts pile up and that the Government is getting its money for public works by borrowing without resorting to the capital levy which I have diligently advocated or to any other device for wiping off this mounting indebtedness. Our credit is still being manipulated for speculative ends as the stock market records abundantly show. Brokers' loans, Prof. Rautenstrach has recently pointed out, have increased about $500,000,000 in 10 weeks. This means a diversion of credit to speculation with no corresponding increase in purchasing power at a time when credit should have been used for the movement of goods into the hands of the ultimate consumers.

"Moreover, if we turn from the industrial to the agricultural picture there is nothing to increase our optimism. Farmers still feel themselves driven to strike to get even the cost of producing milk, although its price in the cities is beyond the reach of those who need it most. Our method of agricultural recovery is to subsidize an artificial shortage in the hope of stabilizing a chaotic and unsound agricultural system without as yet striking at any of the fundamental evils of tenant farming, taxation, and the like.

No Worse Commentary.

"There is no worse commentary on our capitalist system than that in an ill clad world farmers must make money by ploughing under cotton and in a hungry world by reducing the acreage of wheat. Certainly none of the terms of the New Deal warrants hope of anything more than a temporary and precarious recovery during which we shall gain energy to go further. What will be the next step? This brings us to our second possibility.

2. Fascism. Fascism is a somewhat complex phenomena differing in Italy and Germany. Its economics, however, so far, are the economics of state capitalism and as Mussolini has pointed out, Roosevelt has gone a considerable part of the way towards them. Roosevelt has not, however, given us in any true and objectionable sense a dictatorship. Nor has he tried to make us drunk or crazy with Fascist national emotionalism. The question is, however good his intentions, whether we can escape these things under state capitalism. Sooner or later the workers are likely to ask if the Government has to stabilize capitalism and protect absentee owners why should the Government in the name of society not end absentee ownerships?

It is easier to divert the workers by some tribal emotionalism than to answer this question. It is easier to give some concessions to organized workers and to deal with docile unions than it is either to fight concessions or to deal with an aggressive movement of the workers who want Socialism. Our American ultra-nationalism, our racial prejudices, our present superficial contempt for what we have called democracy, and the state of our labor movement, all make the fear of Fascism far more than an idle dream. It is logically and emotionally, as the world is now, showing the only way to stabilize things even temporarily without accepting Socialism.

The Great Hope.

3. Socialism. The great hope of the New Deal is that it may make it a little easier for the masses of true workers in farm, mines, factory, school, laboratory, office and wherever the honest work of the world is done to advance toward a truly Socialist society. Such a society is not a society without private property. Thanks to our great productive power Socialism will give us more property in consumption goods and more secure tenure in our homes. Rightly understood and applied it will give us more individualism than the slavishness which modern capitalism and Fascism inculcate. Socialism destroys no homes and no religion. It gives them a better chance to flourish in a co-operative commonwealth, where the workers co-operatively and through the machinery of the state own the natural resources and the great agencies of production and distribution and administer them according to plan for the good of the whole company of human beings. Now that the age of individualistic capitalism with its belief in automatic control of markets is over, surely you will see that it is much easier to plan production for the use of everybody than to plan to maintain an impossible balance between profit, rent, interest, wages and return to working farms.

"Even the most fervent admirer of the New Deal must occassionally admit that it is strange business for the Government to save the banks only to turn them back to the bankers to see if they can do it again, and equally strange to try to rehabilitate that utterly discredited soft coal industry foo the benefit of absentee owners who have mismanaged it, or to put the railroads on their feet again only to make it more expensive to acquire them later on as unquestionably we must.

"Our Inadequate Philosophy."

"It is in what the Government has not done in regard to banks, mines, railroads that the inadequacies of the New Deal are most apparent. Yet for that I do not so much blame the Government as I do ourselves, our own inadequate philosophy, our lack of program, and our failure to build strong organizations of farmers and workers on the economic field or the kind of party of the producing masses which can intelligently and effectively transform our democracy. The best that can be said of the New Deal is that it may give us a new chance in orderly fashion to press forward.

"We shall not take that chance if we keep our racial hates and discrimination between white and colored workers, or do not check bootlegging under the codes, or build our own organizations firm and strong. The New Deal is good only as it paves the way for the new philosophy of the fellowship of free men who own and control together the means of life and that machinery which may either destroy us in the holocaust of war or emancipate us once and for all from poverty and exploitation.

England Abandons Public Works as Employment Aid

ployed rose during the same period by 1,600,000.

On the other hand, the New Statesman and Nation, harking back to earlier statements by Cabinet members on public works, accused the Government of doing a "double shuffle." There was no doubt, said that journal, that Runciman correctly spoke the real mind of the Government. The New Statesman and Nation was convinced that he was economically wrong, and convinced also that the "great mass of informed opinion" in England was against him. But the Government today, with parliamentary methods in abeyance, could do what it liked without paying the penalty, and MacDonald, instead of being forced out, would "continue, in the grand manner, to wear his fool's cap as if it were a halo."

In similar vein, the "Spectator said that Runciman's speech "eliminated the last chance of some useful agreement being rescued from the wreck of the conference," and called on the Government to say whether it agreed with his views.

The subject was threshed out in the House of Commons near the end of July. If there was dissension within the Cabinet regarding the public works policy, it did not come to light. Chamberlain said the Cabinet was united on the question and no one disputed him.

"Do let us," he said, "have some regard to the size of the problem. Take, for instance, the situation in the United States. The House knows the extent of the drop of national income in the United States. In two years it has fallen from 85 billion dollars to 40 billion dollars, a drop of 45 billion dollars. What is the great program of public works contemplated there? Three thousand million dollars. It is a mere drop in the bucket."

It was not true, he said, that Great Britain was doing nothing in the way of public works. It was spending large amounts on roads, telephones, etc., but it would continue to be governed by "the practicability and business-like character" of the works proposed. It would pursue its own course regardless of what other countries might do.

Experience of 13 Years.

Amplifying the views he expressed before the economic conference, Runciman said the capital expenditures of the last 13 or 14 years had made little impression, and certainly no permanent impression, on the problem of unemployment. It would be foolish, he said, to ignore experience gained at such great cost. He added that the Prime Minister agreed with him on these points.

"Capital expenditure schemes," continued Runciman, "are the most expensive way of dealing with unemployment, and they have been found in practice to be a failure. We in this country have had more experience of this method of dealing with economic problems than any other Government in the world, and it would have been treacherous to the conference not to give it the benefit of our experience. When I did so, I did it in the plainest possible language."

He said that since January, the number of employed persons in Britain had increased by 500,000, whereas the maximum ever employed on public works schemes had been 114,000. He believed that the improvement denoted by this increased employment was going to continue.

"In the recess," he concluded, "the Government will continue along the lines of policy that have brought these results."

Airship Can Be Safe as Steamship Rosendahl Says

two units would not be dangerous. If its motors all fail the ship need not crash but can float as a free balloon. American airships have the safe helium gas as their inflation medium.

The newest U. S. airship, the Macon, is an improvement over past ships. It can be driven vertically upward or downward by its motors alone. It is larger and faster than any airship ever built and has better flying characteristics.

It is also definitely stronger. Meticulous tests in the material shed, on the assembly floor, in the construction dock and in full flight, tests mathematically and scientifically made, at hundreds of points, wherever strain might be encountered, prove it definitely strong enough to resist whatever buffeting it is necessary to encounter in flight operations.

We don't build surface ships strong enough to resist impact with rocks or icebergs. We build them strong enough for normal operating conditions and then navigate them so as to avoid rocks and shoals. Applying this analogy to the ill-fated Akron, we may say that it didn't break up in a storm, but that it struck an aerial shoal.

Water is incompressible. The ship, we must believe, was flying lower than its altimeter indicated. The impact of the great mass of the Akron against the water, as motors and a following wind drove it at full speed, with stern depressed, drew as little cushioning from the water as the Titanic encountered when it struck a submerged iceberg years earlier.

Airship crews want their ships built as strongly as possible. We look for further improvements in succeeding craft. But we in America cannot fairly point to imperfect construction as one of the hazards to successful operations.

Airship disasters have been few in number, but each one has had spectacular qualities that inclined us to forget that the railroad, the steamboat, the airplane and even the accepted family automobile have totaled vastly heavier penalties in human life and in treasure, have made us forget that accident and loss are inseparable to progress.

Can It Be Done?

It is not easy to accept this fact. The men who went down in the Shenandoah and the Akron were gallant men carrying on unbroken the highest traditions of our navy. They were also personal friends, shipmates, respected, beloved. It is an affront to their memory and a heartless disregard of their sacrifice to suggest we should hoist the white flag and say "it can't be done." We must carry on.

Can it be done? The amazing career of the Graf Zeppelin, atop their accumulated experience with other ships, would indicate that the Germans, at least, can fly airships safely.

I have no hesitancy in saying that Americans can fly airships equally safely. If we have erred it may be that we have concluded a little too quickly that the problems of ships were all solved, that we underestimated the difficulties which the comparatively new airship art must overcome to achieve its full usefulness.

But the potentialities of the rigid airship as a speedy long-range oceanic carrier—naval and commercial—are still inescapable. No other type—air or surface—can perform its legitimate functions.

It would be an irreparable world loss to fail to develop the airship to a successful degree. And I feel sure that Americans will continue to support this project as they have many other pioneering efforts, to their everlasting glory and success.

St. Louisan Wins National Contest

Charles W. Roth, salesman for the Western Automobile Co. of St. Louis, and the $3500 12-cylinder Pierce-Arrow car which he won as the grand sweepstakes prize in a country-wide sales contest held by the Pierce-Arrow Motor Co. in June and July. The car has in it the same type of engine which powered the Pierce-Arrow that Ab Jenkins recently drove 3000 miles at an average of 118 miles per hour on a desert course in Utah, setting a large number of world's records.

Ford Sales Reported as Leading in Wayne County for 5 Months

Ford sales in Wayne County, Mich., in which Detroit is located, totaled 8590 in the five months through March and July, which total exceeded the next two highest in sales added together by 793, M. N. Johnson, St. Louis manager for the Ford Motor Co., was informed yesterday.

"Ford V-8's have been sold in ever increasing volume all this year," Johnson said. "The figures from Detroit show that 604 were sold in that city in March," 1182 in April, 2045 in May, 2555 in June and 2204 in July, the latter normally a weak month for automobile sales."

"Daily reports of new economy, speed and endurance records reveal better than 18 miles to the gallon of gasoline, no oil added between changes, 85 and more miles per hour and 10,000 mile runs at top speed. The dealers in Central Illinois last Friday started a 10,000-mile endurance and economy run in which they expect to prove that a Ford automobile will average better than 18 miles to the gallon of gasoline for that distance in 12 days."

Tear-Proof Tube For Balloon Tires Developed by Goodrich

A new type tearproof inner tube designed for low pressure balloon tires has been developed by the B. F. Goodrich Co., Akron, O.

Two different stocks are used, the inside periphery of the tube being manufactured to reduce abrasive action caused by rims and the outside to resist tears even in case of flat tires.

Another feature of the Goodrich tube is the valve assembly, which may be inserted through the hole in the rim and the tire mounted without removing any part of the valve.

The rim nut is eliminated. In case of a flat tire, the valve pulls into the rim well and prevents the unit from being torn from the tube. The tube will turn with the tire until the car is stopped.

The new tube was placed on the market Aug. 1.

Queen of Greece Buys An Auburn "12"

Queen Elizabeth of Greece has purchased an Auburn salon 160-horsepower 12-cylinder sedan, equipped with dual ratio, it is announced by R. S. Wiley, export manager of the Auburn Automobile Co.

She ordered a regular production model with no special equipment other than chromium plated tire covers and radiator shell. The car has all black fenders and body with white striping, and six white wire wheels with white side-wall tires.

The Queen's brother, King Carol of Rumania, owned a Cord. Another brother, Prince Nicolas, drives a Duesenberg and a recently acquired Auburn salon 100-horsepower straight-eight cabriolet.

Singer Motor Co. In New Quarters

The Singer Motor Co., recently appointed a Chrysler and Plymouth dealer, has moved into new quarters at 236 Lemay Ferry road. Its new showroom is a wing of the Singer Service Station which has been at that location for several years. The display room is 30 by 30 feet. Complete service for all makes of autos is provided.

N. A. Singer, head of the firm, has been in the automobile business for four years and in other businesses here for 25 years.

Pierce-Arrow Raises Pay of Its Workers

Wage increases amounting to 15 per cent for Pierce-Arrow factory employees and office workers, except executives, are announced by A. J. Chanter, president of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co., in line with the administration's industrial recovery program.

'Combine' Harvester On Pneumatic Tires Designed for Farmer

Pneumatic tire efficiency provided for tractors last year has been extended to farm machinery.

Introduction of a new combine harvester, which cuts and threshes grain in one operation and is designed for use with Goodyear tires, is said to forecast a revolution in farm machinery design.

The low pressure tires on which the combine is mounted minimize shocks to such an extent that the old speed of harvesting machinery is stepped up considerably and the capacity of the machine is increased, according to engineers of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

In addition, use of pneumatic tires plays an important part in reducing its cost to a figure appreciably lower than that of larger combines.

Increase in Plane Traffic on TWA Lines Up 54 Per Cent

St. Louis traffic on planes of Transcontinental Western Air in July increased 51 per cent compared with June. Over the entire system the increase in passenger traffic amounted to 54 per cent in July compared with June.

In the first seven months this year 30 per cent more tickets were sold by TWO ticket offices than in the first seven months last year. Revenue from tickets sold shows an even greater increase, indicating an increase in the length of the average passenger trip. The average passenger trip is now 701 miles.

The increase in express traffic in the first seven months this year amounted to 450 per cent compared with the same period last year.

Chevrolet Sales 67,820 During July

Not since 1929 have July sales of new Chevrolet cars and trucks equaled the figure attained last month, when dealers reported delivering to consumers 67,820 new units, H. J. Klingler, vice-president and general sales manager, announces.

This represents a 155 per cent increase over the same month last year, Klingler said. Only three times in the 21-year history of Chevrolet have July sales gone ahead of this year.

Chevrolet sales in the first seven months of this year totaled 372,772 new cars and trucks as compared with 279,772 in the comparable period last year.

Insurance Bureau Backing Campaign For Safety in Tires

So important is use of safe tires considered by the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, says George H. Hurwich, of Stix-Baer & Fuller, the department store distributor of Kelly-Springfield tires, that it is using a special poster to emphasize the necessity of good casings.

The bureau, with nine large oil companies, is backing a safety campaign in 14 states and the District of Columbia.

The poster, which is displayed in 10,000 service stations, Hurwich says, shows a man and his daughter standing near the wreckage of a car which has crashed into a pole. It is evident that the accident was caused by smooth, unsafe tires.

22 Ford V-8 Cars Entered in Road Race

Next Saturday will see the revival of the Elgin road race for stock motor cars with automobile makes limited to five each.

M. N. Johnson, St. Louis manager for the Ford Motor Co., is informed that 22 Ford V-8 owners have stated that they will attempt to qualify for entry in this road race.

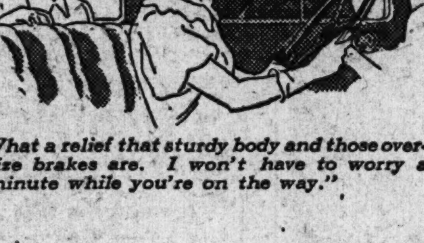
If your elephant wants to ride on top

IT'S ALL RIGHT WITH A CHEVROLET



"What a relief that sturdy body and those oversize brakes are. I won't have to worry a minute while you're on the way."

"Fisher Ventilation to make a breeze, Fisher body quietness to soothe the nerves. Isn't that a perfect hot weather combination?"

CHEVROLET

We didn't actually plan on elephants when we chose the bodies for the new Chevrolet. So few people can afford them nowadays. But we did choose bodies rigid enough, and strong enough, to support six tons of elephant, of pressure, of anything else you can name. In fact, we chose the strongest bodies built today . . . Fisher bodies . . . steel bodies plus a hardwood frame . . . exactly the same type of bodies used on all 12 and 16-cylinder cars. Steel alone, we proved by test, is not enough to make you as safe and secure as we want you to be in a Chevrolet. Under certain conditions steel alone will bend. So we add a stoutly braced frame of seasoned hardwood. A steel body, welded into a solid wall of protection. Resilient hardwood reinforcing to take up stress, absorb shocks and prevent the steel from following its natural tendency to buckle under pressure. There's the formula for the sturdiest body of all—the kind of body used on the Chevrolet, and on no other low-priced car. So put this fact away for ready reference when you set out to buy a car! If you buy any car priced from $445 to $565, you pay for the super-safety of a steel body plus a hardwood frame, but you don't get it unless you buy a Chevrolet Six, the world's most popular car.

"What gives you the biggest kick—its Starterator, Cushion-Balancing, Octane Selector, or its comfort and style?"

"Economy is first with me. Here's everything I want at a lower cost per mile."

"John, why bother with fixing that old car any more? I've just figured how easy it is to meet the payments on a smart new Chevrolet."

Fisher Craftsman's Guild Competition Awards Announced

John R. Pardue of St. Louis, Winner of Junior Honors for Missouri.

John R. Pardue, 6205 Lenox avenue, St. Louis, won first junior honors for Missouri in the third annual competition of the Fisher Body Craftsman's Guild, which closed its five-day meeting in Chicago Thursday. First senior honors for the State went to Bert Marvin Jr., 2319 Ward avenue, Kansas City.

These boys and about 120 others, aged from 12 to 20, were in Chicago as the Guild's guests. At a banquet, they were highly complimented on their skill as builders of model coaches by a group of representative educators and industrial leaders.

W. A. Fisher, president of the Guild, announced the names of the seven national winners in the competition, which was entered by some 496,000 boys. Four of the winners were from the United States and three from Canada.

Scholarship Winners.

The four scholarship winners in the United States were Jack W. Wicks, St. Paul, Minn.; Charles Gadd, Spokane, Wash.; E. Stanley Knochel, Baltimore, Md., and Myron O. Webb, Arkansas City, Kan. The three Canadians were David Tennent, London, Ont.; Joseph Olafson, Leslie, Sask., and Richard Guthrie, London, Ont.

Each national award entitles its winner to four years in any university he selects. He will have the benefit of the advice of the Guild's board of honorary judges, which includes 14 of the leading scientific educators of Canada and the United States.

Winners still in high school will be credited at once with the $500 award, and will receive the interest as well as the principal to defray their university costs. Any money remaining upon completion of boy's higher education will be paid to him in a lump sum.

Competition Close.

Those awarded scholarships were seven of the 120 state and district winners whose entries survived the preliminary scoring last month. The models they build have been on display in the General Motors Building at the Chicago Fair since July 25 with 200 other first and second place winners from all over the continent.

Twelve experienced craftsmen, acting as judges, scored each coach, checking and recording 230 dimensions with special gauges and templates as a basis for making the scholarship awards. The decision between the higher-scoring entries was so close as to necessitate re-judging some of the models as many as a dozen times.

Medart Co. Continues Clinic for Motorists Throughout This Week

Stromberg Motoscope Engineer Gives Free Tests of Caburetors and Engines.

L. J. Lyons, factory engineer for the Stromberg Motoscope Corporation, will be at the Medart Auto Electric Co., Inc., 3134 Washington boulevard, all this week continuing the free clinic for motorists on carburetor adjusting and engine testing that has been a feature of interest for car drivers for the past two weeks.

The Medart Co. said that the clinic was being continued because of the large number of motorists whom it had been obliged to turn away.

Lyons has been holding similar clinics for car owners in large cities all over the country for several months.

He tells and shows what causes excess gasoline consumption, hard starting, slow get-away, overheating and other engine ailments, and explains how to get the utmost in car performance and economy.

During the first week of the clinic he tested 604 cars, using the new Stromberg Motoscope, an ingenious device for discovering whatever is wrong with the operation of an auto motor.

Motorists have been finding the clinic not only valuable from the viewpoint of their own cars' performance, but also interesting as a mechanical demonstration.

During the clinic S. J. Ward has been demonstrating the Marvel mystery inverse oiler and oil for autos.

The Medart Auto Electric Co. has signed with the NRA, and has added five highly trained special service men to its organization, which now numbers 31 persons.

The Medart Co. is sole distributer for the Electric Auto-Lite Co., Prest-o-Lite and all standard carburetors in this territory.

Motor Vehicles Increasing.

There are more than 24,000 motor car registrations in New York State than were listed for the same period last year. Many registrations are new and many are made by motorists who obtain their plates at the half-year rate. Seven thousand are for commercial vehicles.

Goodrich Added 1591 Workers to Its Payroll During July

Factory employment figures for July in the Akron (O.) plants of the B. F. Goodrich Co. shows that 1591 workers were placed on the rolls during the 31-day period.

It was reported by officials that 4667 persons had been added to the factory personnel of Goodrich since March in the Akron plants with corresponding additions to the rolls in the company's subsidiaries.

"The employment program in its later stages was operated in anticipation of the major provisions of the National Industrial Recovery Act and at the present time our schedule for factory hiring is practically completed," says A. C. Sprague, Goodrich employment manager.

Flight of 53 Seconds Wins Model Airplane Race Before 20,000

William T. Pascoe Jr. First With His "Bluebird" in Jimmie Allen Club Contest.

Approximately 20,000 people saw 17-year-old William T. Pascoe Jr., 4019 Miami street, win a trip to the "Century of Progress" Fair at the Jimmie Allen Model Airplane Races held last Sunday at Parks Airport. His plane, one of the official "Bluebird" models which each contestant constructed himself to enter the race, stayed in the air the longest time—53 seconds. In addition to the trip to the World's Fair for himself and one of his parents, he received a beautiful trophy presented by the Skelly Oil Co.

The second prize winner, William Ehrhardt, 7020 Wise street, kept his plane in the air 52 seconds and gave Pascoe the keenest competition. Ehrhardt established his flight of 52 seconds on his first official trial, while Pascoe's first official flight fell far below this time. However, on his second chance Pascoe got his plane in the air for 53 seconds, just one second over Ehrhardt's previous time. The crowd watched tensely while Ehrhardt's plane continued through its second trial. But it dropped to the ground at 42 seconds and Pascoe was the winner. Ehrhardt received a loving cup.

Officiating for the Skelly Oil Co. were C. E. Ball, advertising manager; John R. Bailey, salesmanager, and T. S. Mann, of the advertising department.

In addition to Pascoe and Ehrhardt, who won first and second prizes, respectively, the following boys were winners: Ewing Dryden, Harvey Brown, Albert Courtail, Roy Kuemmerle, Scott McLean; William Malinsky, of West Frankfort, Ill.; Jack Radcliffe, of Jefferson City; Eugene Stevens, of Jefferson City; Billy Schierholz, Charles Bleitner, Donald Barger, J. H. McCarthy, Wesley Bandau, of Ferguson; Walter J. Goehausen Jr., of Webster Groves; Carl Wagner, of West Frankfort, Ill., and Billy McDonald, of Louisiana, Mo. All received valuable prizes.

Breaking all precedent for August sales, the Plymouth Motor Corporation reports that retail sales of Plymouth cars by dealers in the week ending Aug. 5 totaled 7413 units, a 7.3 per cent gain over the previous week and almost four times sales in the same week of last year.

This was the highest week's sales in August in the history of the Plymouth Corporation, and was within 112 cars of establishing an all-time record for a week's sales of Plymouth cars. The week ending July 1 last was the all-time peak week in history for Plymouth, when 7515 cars were delivered at retail.

Municipal Opera's Finale

Season to End Next Sunday Night With Last Performance of "The Desert Song," Which Opens Tomorrow Evening With All of the Stars of the Summer Together for the First Time in the Cast—World Premiere of "Where the Lark Sings" Shelved in Favor Of a Tried and True Popular Box Office Success.

THE Municipal Opera tomorrow night goes into the final week of its fifteenth year in Forest Park with the presentation of a tried and true success, "The Desert Song" and for the wind up of the summer season will present all of the stars of the organization together in the same cast for the first time. Leonard Ceeley will appear in his original role of The Red Shadow which he played when the piece was first produced in New York, and among the other favorites who have distinguished themselves in "The Desert Song" in past years will be Allan Jones, whose soaring voice conferred distinction on the role of Sid El Kar last season; Clifford Newdahl, whose fine presentation of the subtle villainies of Captain Paul Fontaine was combined with his splendid singing in that role last year and Doris Patston and Jack Sheehan, respectively, as the flighty and adoring Susan and Benjamin Kidd, the society correspondent, who found himself in the midst of a war, and whose contribution of fun to the 1930 production is still remembered. Frank Horn and Victor Casmore are others who will play roles this week in which they have won high favor both in 1930 and 1932.

In addition to this group of veterans the roster of artists for "The Desert Song" includes Marion Claire who appears as Morgot, the French girl whose romantic adoration of The Red Shadow motivates the action of the stirring drama which accompanies Sigmund Romberg's tuneful score; Nancy McCord, appearing as Azuri, the betrayed and abandoned native girl; George Hassell as the General Birabeau; Joseph Macaulay who has the splendid role of Ali Ben Ali; Hope Emerson as the exciting Clementine, joining with Jack Sheehan and Doris Patston in the comedy which accompanies the serious story of desert adventure; Larry Rich, Elizabeth Crandall, Marie Starner and Nick Long Jr. among other favorites.

NOT only is Municipal Opera presenting a cast of distinction in "The Desert Song," but this final production of the season is to be on a commensurate scale. Its musical director, Oscar Bradley coached and rehearsed the original New York production of Romberg's success and supervised the musical training of the many road companies. Jose Ruben, whose stage direction contributed so greatly to the success of "Beau Brummell" and "The Cat and the Fiddle," remains to direct also "The Desert Song" and Watson Barratt, whose stage designs were a feature of last season's spectacular production has created entirely new settings.

"The Cat and the Fiddle," which has been attracting record audiences this week to see Municipal Opera's splendid presentation of the one outstanding musical hit of the depression years, will be offered for the last time tonight with a cast which includes Allan Jones and Nancy McCord as the two dissonant composers of melody, who finally arrive at lifelong harmony after a course of adventures and intrigue; with Jose Ruben in his original role of the impresario Daudet. George Hassell, Doris Patston, Jack Sheehan, Joseph Macauley, Hannah Toback, Berna Deane, Clifford Newdahl, Hope Emerson, Larry Rich, Elizabeth Crandall and Nick Long Jr., are among the many favorites in the cast.

"THE DESERT SONG" has a story by Otto Harbach—librettist of "The Cat and the Fiddle," "Nina Rosa," "The Song of the Flame" and "Rose Marie," to name his Municipal Opera successes—in which Oscar Hammerstein II and Frank Mandel collaborated. The music is by Sigmund Romberg, whose "Blossom Time," "Nina Rosa" and "The Student Prince" are outstanding favorites among the summer audiences in Forest Park. The score contains many of Romberg's most stirring rhythms and lilting melodies, among them: "The Sabre Song," "One Alone," "One Flower in Your Garden," "Let Love Go," "Song of the Brass Key," "It," "I Want a Kiss," "Then You'll Know," "Romance," "I'll Be a Buoyant Girl," "Margot," "Farewell," the French military marching song, "The Desert Song," and the rousing "Song of the Riffs."

The original plans for the present season in Forest Park called for a presentation, during the final week of "Where the Lark Sings," a Viennese operetta by Franz Lehar, which has not yet been heard in America. The Municipal Opera singers, however, going through some terribly warm weather, had worked hard on two entirely new offerings, "Rip Van Winkle" and "Beau Brummell" as well as being called upon to play in several offerings new to them and to Forest Park audiences. It was decided, then, to turn to "The Desert Song," with which they were entirely familiar and which is a certain box office success, to wind up the season in a smashing manner both artistically and financially.

Some time during the coming winter the Shuberts plan to do "Where the Lark Sings" in New York and, in all probability, it will be included in the repertory here next summer.

Both "Rip Van Winkle" and "Beau Brummell" are to be among the Shubert offerings this season in the metropolis with many of the singers who were heard in the presentations here appearing in their original roles.

Peanuts, Pythons and Pink Lemonade Coming for Circus' Golden Jubilee

BECAUSE this is the Golden Jubilee year of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus, coming to St. Louis next Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 26 and 27, "everything will be on a grander scale; that is, as much as is possible with an enterprise known in show business as the biggest thing that moves," to quote from the writings of the show's truthful—more or less—press agent. Anyway, the 50 elephants will eat more hay; the lions will roar louder; the tigers, including Emir, the largest Royal Bengal in captivity, will snarl more viciously; the giraffes will stretch their rod-long necks to make envious the giraffe-necked women from Burma near them in the menagerie; the circus peanuts will sport bigger humps; the zebras and camels will present the show with more and better babies; Andy, the baby giraffe, will celebrate his first birthday; Bill and Lily, the rhinoceroses, will tip the scales a ton more each, and the anteaters will—but why go on? You get the idea. It's Golden Jubilee year, a gala tour, and the Greatest Show on Earth will prove it, or says it will, when it comes to town.

As for Emir, the giant tiger, he has actually grown into a new cage, and this is saying something for a tiger who has occupied a private den for the last two years. Emir is colossal now, as one will be able to see in the zoo oval when the 1600 people, the 50 elephants, the 1009 wild animals and the 700 horses—press agent's figures again and, for the moment, unverified—of the circus are put on view at Grand and Laclede avenues.

Heading the list of imported features of the performance will be the Marcellus Flying Ballet Plastique from Paris. Other European acts are the Royal Aerial Rooneys and Uyeno Japanese. Many other foreign acts make their American debut this season, but it is the return from Europe of Con Colleano, somersaulting star on the tight wire, that especially thrills the big show audiences. Also returned from Europe are the Flying Codonas, with Alfredo, mid-air triple somersaulter to a hand-to-hand catch, which, with the Concellos and Harolds, head the aerial displays of the show.

Ex-Star Now Extra.

Elinor Fair, who only a few years ago was a popular leading women, is an extra in "Torch Singer," with Claudette Colbert and Ricardo Cortez.

Former Star Returns.

Mahlon Hamilton, one of the screen's most popular leading men a decade ago, appears in Mae West's picture, "I'm No Angel."

The Week's New Films

By NIE

"PILGRIMAGE," at the Fox, is a mother-love meller with the love so entangled with selfishness that everything goes to smash. The mother, who would keep her son for herself rather than let him marry and leave her, loses him, forever, in the war. Even then in her embittered and lonely heart she finds no spark of forgiveness for the girl her boy left behind nor for her illegitimate grandson who arrived later. Not until years after, when she goes to France as a gold star mother, does the discover the error of her ways. In Paris she stumbles upon another boy and a girl who are going through the same difficulties, with a stubborn mother, that her son and his sweetheart encountered. There is even a baby on the way to further carry out the similarity. The old woman goes into action on the spot, sees to it that the young couple can get married, plants some flowers on her son's grave and goes back home to embrace her irregular grandson and her almost daughter-in-law, and live happily forever after. The story has some powerful moments which are played to the accompaniment of heart string music and the sobs of the customers. Henrietta Crosman, once a famous actress of pre-picture days on the stage, shows the movie fans something about acting as it was and, while her methods and her style in reading her lines belong to the more oratorical age of drama, her performance is a fine one. Norman Foster is the son who goes to war and does not return and Marian Nixon is the girl he left behind him, but Miss Crosman is pretty much the whole show and she makes "Pilgrimage" an outstanding and uplifting cinema play.

Music in the Air.

GETTING around to lighter things, "Moonlight and Pretzels," at the Missouri, is quite the best movie musical of the year—a somewhat large order taking in as it does "42d Street" and "Gold Diggers." True, the authors have not strayed far from the customary screen musicomedy formula with a back stage plot, the hours of rehearsals, the tribulations of a shoe-string producer and the wisecracking of wise-looking chorines. But the music is catchier than usual, the story more consistent and the cast excellent with Leo Carrillo making a big hit as a Greek gambler who furnishes the show's much-needed bankroll after he gets a look at Lillian Miles who, once upon a time, was the ingenue with a stock company here in St. Louis. Roger Pryor, also a stock graduate, makes his first appearance on the screen as the aspiring composer-producer, and, while he is no Adonis when it comes to looks, his performance is an excellent one. Mary Brian, Bernice Claire and Alexander Gray are also on hand, and the film marks the return to the screen of Herbert Rawlinson who, in the good old silent days of the cinema, was one of our most popular celluloid matinee idols. There are some other actors, too, for President Roosevelt and the NRA boys are brought into the plot to whoop things up, and everything moves swiftly and most satisfactorily. In "Midnight Club," the Missouri's other feature, Clive Brook and Helen Vinson are pretty smart London crooks but never a match for George Raft, an American detective. The story is at its best when it sticks to crime but sags when it goes into love-making and we are beginning to believe that Raft is not the second Valentino he is touted to be.

Ship Ahoy.

TAYLOR HOLMES never had much success with a little play by Frank Craven called "Salt Water" when he played it on the stage a few seasons ago, but, polished up a bit here and there and given a more nautical flavor and renamed "Her First Mate," it is a nice light little comedy for Zasu Pitts and Slim Summerville down at the Ambassador. The picture, however, makes very little difference this week for the theater is staging its annual kiddie show with 200, more or less, St. Louis youngsters taking part. Many of them are clever, too, and under the guiding hand of Johnny Perkins and with the assistance of his professional entertainers put on an engaging show. The mothers, fathers and other relatives and friends of the amateur performers are numerous enough to fill the Ambassador at every performance, which is perfectly satisfactory to the theater management.

Why Girls Go Wrong.

A SERMON to mothers is probably well preached in "What Price Innocence" at the Grand Central. It points out, fairly plainly, that young daughters should be told the facts of life at home and not by their boy friends. To illustrate the somewhat technical discourse, Jean Parker falls from grace because her mother just wouldn't discuss love with her, and then kills herself when she finds out what it's all about. The picture is well enough made and the story frankly told, but we would say, off hand, that the place to show it would be in some women's club rather than in a temple of amusement. For a second film the Grand Central has "Flying Devils" and the name is the tip off. You know, airplanes, daring aviators, crash-ups and things like that well mixed with love and double crossing.

Min and Bill Carry On.

WALLACE BEERY who we inadvertently killed off in this column last Sunday in the review of "Tugboat Annie" at Loew's, only almost died, we are happy to state, and is able to keep going with Marie Dressler in the fine comedy which is holding over for a second week.

Broadway to Hollywood.

Isabel Jewell, who was featured with Lee Tracy on the New York stage in "Blessed Event," is cast in Ernst Lubitsch's film, "Design for Living," adapted from Noel Coward's play.

Jean Parker in "What Price Innocence," at the Grand Central.

Opera Stars Will Move to St. Louis

WHEN Municipal Opera completes its fifteenth season in Forest Park, a week from tonight, with the final performance of "The Desert Song," the stars of the organization will not follow the custom of past years and scatter to all parts of the country. Instead, they are to remain in St. Louis to begin an indoor engagement with Harry Koplar at the St. Louis Theater, which is to reopen as a cinema palace on Aug. 31. The opera singers are to furnish the stage show part of the St. Louis' program with scenes from their successes in the Park and other musical shows under the direction of the Shuberts.

Practically all of the Municipal's leading singers will take part in the new venture, together with the chorus, which has been in action on the Forest Park stage this summer.

The shows, which will be staged by Eddie Scanlon of the Shubert forces, will be presented three times daily and will consist of offerings from three operas each week. The operatic part of the St. Louis' show will run about an hour and 20 minutes.

Burroughs Players In a Synge Comedy

Rehearsals have been begun on the Burroughs Open Air Players' production of John Millington Synge's Irish comedy, "The Playboy of the Western World." This play, under the direction of Mary Jane Roach, is the group's third production this season, and will be given in the Burroughs School amphitheater, Price road and Clayton car tracks, Aug. 30 and 31.

Leading parts in the play will be in the hands of Will Chambers and Ruth Bolling, Dave Gibson, Winifred Schwarz, Bob Nachtman and Jocelyn Taylor. The authenticity of the production, particularly as to dialogue, is being supervised by John Casey, now of St. Louis, but recently of Cork.

Tremaine's Music on Bill at Highlands

Paul Tremaine and his Lonely Acres Orchestra, which has been broadcasting five times weekly from New York over the Columbia chain in the last six months, will be featured at the Forest Park Highlands ballroom, next Tuesday and Wednesday nights, alternating with Ted Jansen's Orchestra from 8 o'clock until midnight.

Scenario Minded? Forget It

Chances for an Unknown Writer to Break Into The Charmed Circle of Screen Authors So Remote That it Is Well to Save the Postage on Hollywood-Bound Manuscripts—How One Big Studio Goes About Getting Its Movie Material.

By H. H. NIEMEYER.

NOW that the NRA is putting everybody back to work a considerable load has been lifted from the minds of the movie magnates, minds, in many instances untrained to carry much more weight than that of a light Panama hat. For the Devil, it has been pointed out, finds plenty of work for idle hands to do and during the depression period several millions of those hands turned to writing motion picture scenarios and rushing them off to the Hollywood studios. Few of them ever got beyond the office force which sorted the incoming mail at the cinema factories. The chances are so slight that an unknown and untrained writer will turn out a worth while drama that the studios simply will not pore over the thousands of stories which are submitted every week. Then, too, there is always the chance that the amateur writer will find a real or fancied resemblance to his plot in a picture produced later and bring suit for a fabulous sum for damages and it is just as well for the studio to be able to prove that it never opened or read or heard of the wild cat scenario or its author. That is why practically all of the bales of hand written, typewritten or printed hopes of would-be authors are returned with seals unbroken or strings—sometimes ribbons—uncut.

An unknown writer may, once in a great while, get a reading for his idea, but when he does it must be through some inside connection with a friend at the movie court. Perhaps—say once in every four or five years—the studios may miss a chance to get another "Cavalcade," a "Silver Dollar" or a "Maedchen in Uniform." It just isn't worth the time and the trouble and the expense to look for 'em that way.

All the better movies have been written by men and women trained to do just that thing. Sometimes they are experienced dramatists or story writers. More often they are staff scenario writers kept on tap in Hollywood who write original cinema plays or develop screen dramas from newspaper stories, magazines, novels and plays which have been purchased from the authors. Usually the first author is handsomely paid to lend a helping hand in preparing his theme for the pictures after he has been paid, also handsomely, for his idea or completed opus.

And even then, the Paramount studios declares in an announcement, less than one per cent of the plays and published novels and stories available for motion pictures ever reach the screen, according to a check-up recently made by its story department.

Bernice Claire in "Moonlight and Pretzels" at the Missouri.

THE monthly average of pieces of possible professional, picture material considered by this department is approximately 300. This includes everything, played, produced or announced or that has picture possibilities. The material comes from all parts of the United States and from many European capitals where the company maintains offices or scouts. It is a never-ending flood.

The story department, or editorial board, is the clearing house for the production department and functions both in New York and at the Hollywood studio. The great bulk of material starts its journey at the New York end. By the first weeding-out process, everything is discarded which is obviously unfit to be made the basis of a money-making picture. What is left is sent to Hollywood, where further eliminations are made until only the strongest picture possibilities remain.

By this time the original three hundred has been reduced to perhaps five or six. But even this is too many. Five a month would be sixty pictures a year and this would fill the company's program, without taking into consideration the original stories, written directly for the screen, by studio staff writers.

On the Paramount program these original stories constitute nearly one-half of the number of pictures to be made. That cuts the average of possibilities among the played or published material to less than three a month.

THEN comes the real task of the Hollywood editorial board. Each of the few remaining plays or stories is discussed and re-discussed from every angle, before any of them is sent to the production staff.

This staff is the acid test, because in it lies the purchasing power. The duty of the staff is to decide definitely what shall be made into pictures, always remembering that the balance must be kept between what is selected from this class of material and the original screen stories, remembering also that its selections must give variety to the entire program.

It is a long task and an arduous one, calling for the best judgment—if any—of what is laughingly called the finest picture-making minds. But that the care and time expended are justified is proven by the fact that, of 106 pieces of material selected for production in the past two years, including screen originals, less than 15 per cent have not been produced or are not scheduled to be produced.

So, the next time you think you feel an urge to send a scenario to Hollywood have another think—and forget it.

SOMETIMES the studios or the independent producers go a long way to get something different for the screen. A news story from the Associated Press man in Hollywood during the past week announced that the Marquis de la Falaise de la Coudray is starring Gusti Pootoo Aloos, Nyoman Saplak and N'Yong N'Yong in "Legong" with Gusti Bagoos as a character actor.

Or, as they say about Flicker Town, Hank of Hollywood Boulevard is about to put on the market a drammer canned on the Isle of Bali and featuring three or four of the big shots in the demi-nude.

Three of his actors, his "leads" in the play, were named Gusti Pootoo Aloos, Nyoman Saplak and N'Yong N'Yong. Aloos and Saplak are women. N'Yong N'Yong—they liked him so well they named him twice, like the town of Walla Walla—and Bagoos are men.

Now, it will be noted that the name Gusti attaches to two of the characters. Gusti means head man, or a head man's daughter. Pootoo means an elder daughter. Aloos means a person who can't take it, or a quality of softness. Bagoos means a fellow who has been around.

HOLLYWOOD, California.

ANOTHER new foreign star who the Samuel Goldwyn publicity offices don't hesitate to state will be a rage like Greta Garbo and Marlene Dietrich, is reported just below the horizon now and about to rise. She is Anna Sten, blonde young Russian actress who attracted attention two or three years ago in Soviet and German pictures, such as "The Yellow Ticket" and "The Brothers Karamazov," and was immediately imported to Hollywood by Sam Goldwyn on a long term contract. After undergoing 15 months of grooming, training, coaching and trimming, she has started work on her first American offering—"Nana," a dramatization of Emile Zola's novel of of that name. Connoisseurs of such matters will be interested to see just how much transformation has been wrought in her face, speech, manner and personality by those experts who remodel foreign players to make them fit the Hollywood standard, or rather what Hollywood thinks is the American standard.

The case of Anna Sten is typical. She, like a good many other foreign stars lured to Hollywood, knew how to act when she came, but she didn't know how to look—which is what the American movie-going public is supposed to be most concerned about. Garbo and Dietrich didn't know how to look when they came either. There was a healthy sort of naivete about their appearance. Garbo was anything but mysterious and Marlene was more than a trifle plump. Neither had anything of the "slickness," the suavity or that magazine-cover cadaverousness which Hollywood worships as an ideal and which they later achieved through an extended course of pummeling, massaging, dieting, coaching and grooming. The movie remodeling corps literally made them over into something they did not originally resemble and sent them out to make life miserable for young things who didn't have and couldn't achieve, in any stage of starvation, such figures.

Katharine Hepburn at Bryn Mawr College and as she looked after a liberal application of the Hollywood veneer.

Greta Garbo from a photograph made in Sweden before she heard the call of Hollywood and as she appeared in one of her latest films, "As You Desire Me."

The same thing is happening to Anna Sten now. There was a lot of reconstruction work to be done. In the first place, she was able to speak nothing but Russian, so the most obvious correction was getting enough English into her command to enable her to go through with a talking picture. Margareta Knapp, a stage star, undertook this task and has drilled her thoroughly not only in speaking English that can be understood but in speaking it in the sophisticated movie star manner, and with due regard to American colloquialisms. The next obvious defect was a space between her two front teeth which had to be closed up. No American movie assemblage would tolerate a star who showed a gap between her front teeth when she smiled. Dentists, therefore, had to remove the gap, by a special and very delicate operation.

These two details had to be taken care of before she could be considered for any leading role, of course. With these out of the way, attention could then be turned to other matters such as the type of role she might be fitted to enact. Obviously, the remodelers would be able to work more intelligently with a definite objective in view. So they set about to select the role.

This was a long and laborious process. Anna posed for hundreds of photographs in different costumes, in different types of scenes, in different makeup and under different lighting. A great many scenarios were submitted to Goldwyn before one was finally selected as the best suited to her personality. When, at length, "Nana" was chosen as a fitting medium, drawings and paintings of the late nineteenth century, which forms the story's background, were studied exhaustively to determine proper costumes and hairdress.

Nina Roberts, who attends to coiffure and general makeup for Goldwyn, experimented with perhaps fifty different hairdressing effects on Sten before the camera disclosed the one that would be most fitting for the actress and at the same time the most appropriate for the period. Ada Broadbent, solo dancer, taught her to execute a dance required by the part, and Alfred Newman, jazz composer, coached her in singing. Adrian, costume expert of M. G. M., took care of dresses and hats. Now, thanks to the combined efforts of all these helpers, Anna is ready to start work after spending 15 months in getting ready. When she does appear on the screen and when—and if—she does become a rage like Garbo and Dietrich, movie fans will give her all the credit for her suavity, her mysteriousness, her sophistication or whatever it is they like—just as though she had thought of it all herself. Very little, if anything, will be said about the work of the experts who spent 15 months rebuilding her. They are the unsung heroes of Hollywood and there is a veritable army of them.

Each studio has its own makeup artist, its coiffure expert, its dress designer; they co-operate to bring out the best in their acting material. Each studio has its camera authority who knowns at just what angle, in just what degree of light to shoot the stars so that they may be filmed most advantageously. For instance, he is aware that certain actresses photograph better from the right side than the left, and others better when the lighting comes from below rather than above.

At the service of the producers are Greer's, Hollywood's rival of Paris couturiers; Max Factor, authority on character makeup and wigs, and Jim the barber, who creates hairdresses for the stars.

OLIVER HINSDALE, well known for his work with the Dallas Little Theater, has recently been called to Hollywood to aid the stars in perfecting their speech. He freed Nils Asther of his Swedish accent and enabled him to score a triumph in "The Bitter Tea of General Yen." The voice expert is now preparing Max Baer for his movie debut.

Scenarios are written and selected to fit the stars in a manner something like this: Miss X and Mr. C are under contract to do a movie together. It is necessary to have a plot in which both these stars have equally dominating and sympathetic roles as they are to be equally headlined. It is necessary that Miss X's character be young and sophisticated in order to display the special type of urbane beauty by which her reputation has been established. As to Mr. C, he must be a lover and a roue, because the fans like him as a lover and roue, and so he must be. Miss X is captivating in evening dress and not quite attractive in a bathing suit. Therefore it is important that there be many evening scenes in cabarets and at penthouse parties, but few on the beach. In-as-much as Mr. C is a lover par excellence, it is essential that in the progress of the story he come in contact with and vanquish quite a number of women, but of course in the end he will return to Miss X or she will return to him. Thus the scenario is constructed. When it gets to the director he, like the makeup artist, must know how to get the most out of his actors and actresses.

And so the star flourishes. The result is that Hollywood has uncovered and produced an amazing number of celebrated personalities, notably young women. The pampered system of the studios benefits especially the young actress because the actor relies to a great extent on his native ability, and so does the aging actress who cannot depend so much on physical appeal. Wonders have been performed on the youthful actress. Hollywood, as a producer of movies has strong competition from Europe, if not in bulk, cer-

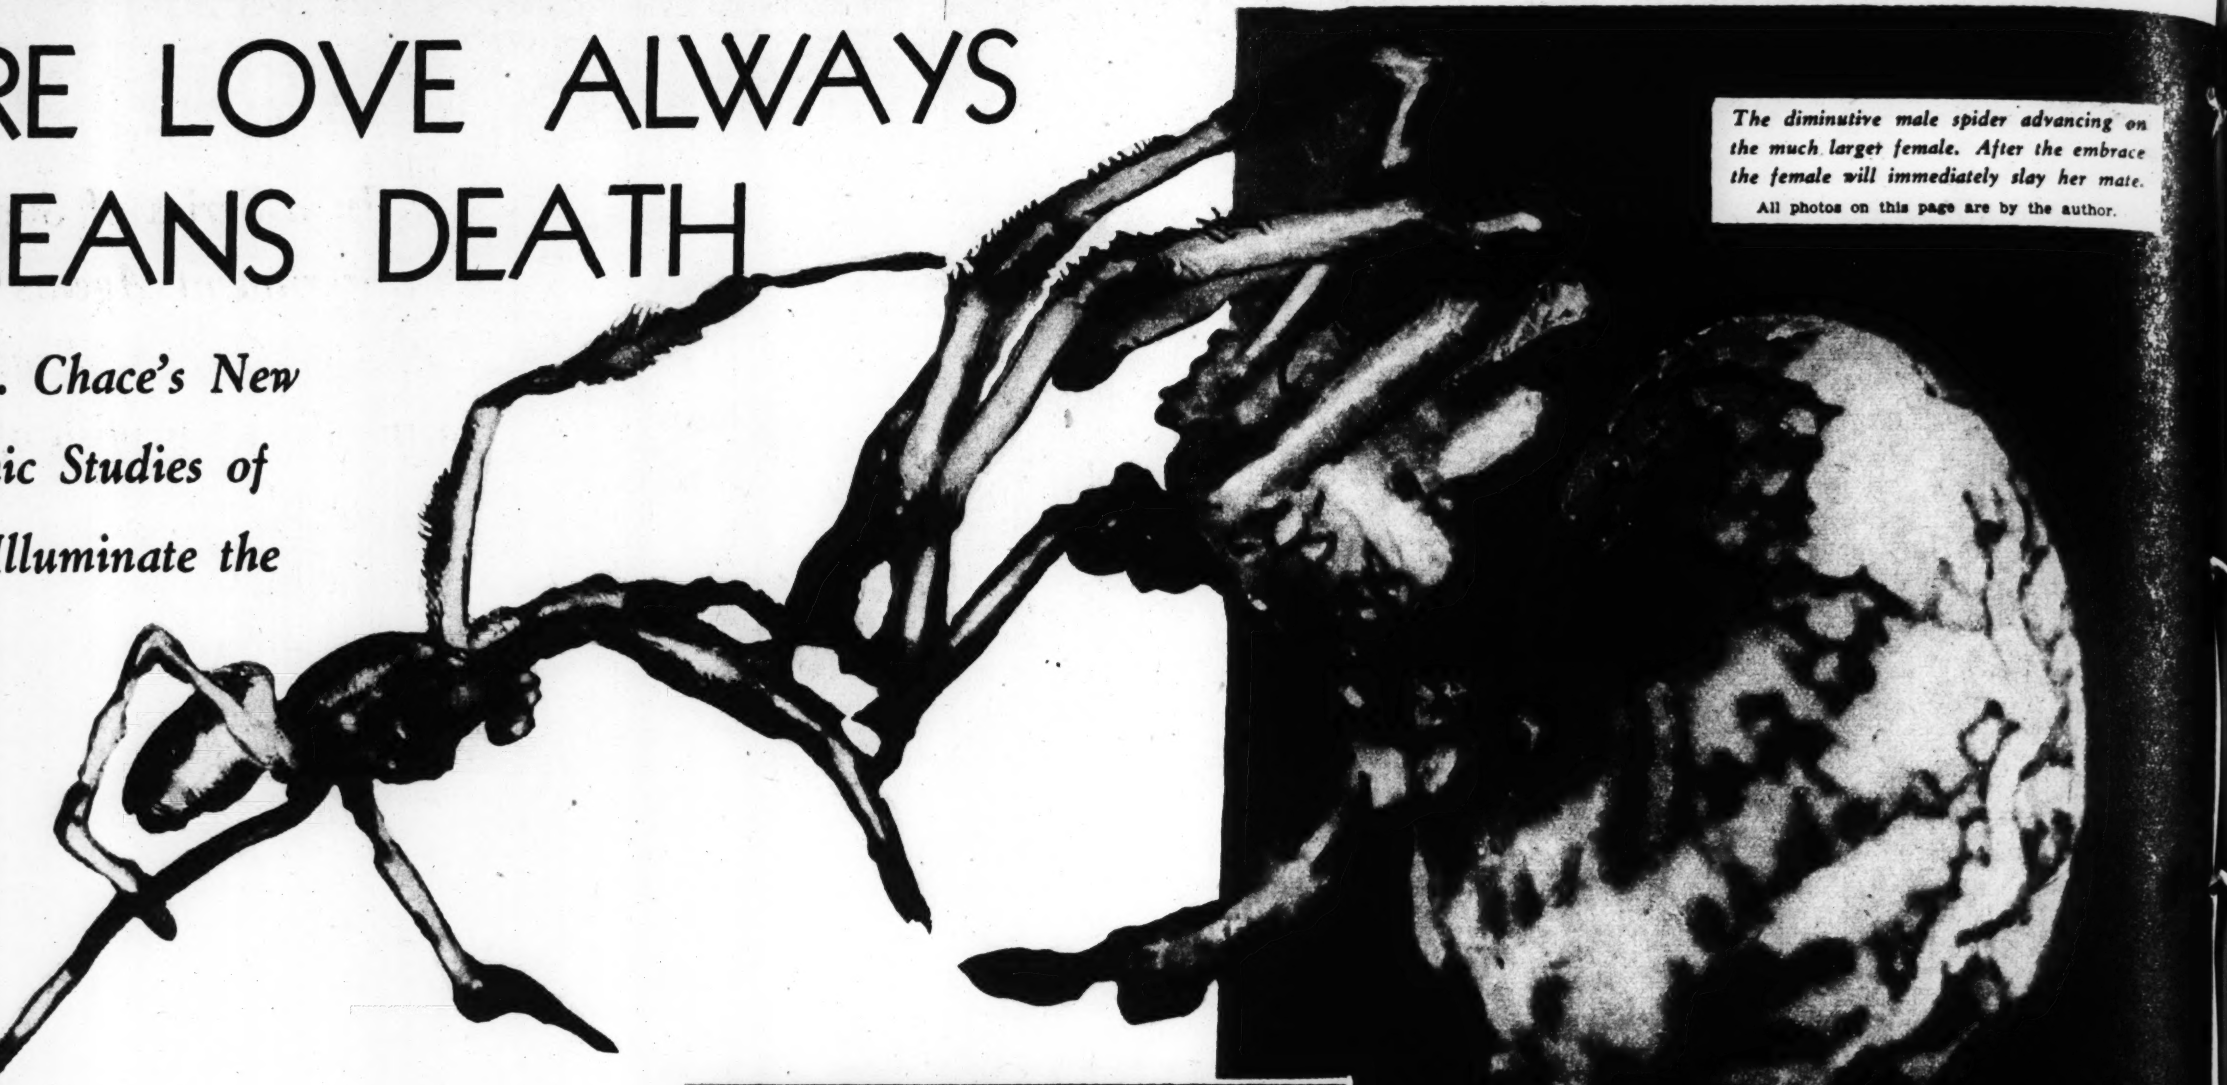
WHERE LOVE ALWAYS MEANS DEATH

Lynwood M. Chace's New Photographic Studies of the Spider Illuminate the Ruthless Laws of Life That Prevail in That Branch of the Animal Kingdom.



The diminutive male spider advancing on the much larget female. After the embrace the female will immediately slay her mate.

All photos on this page are by the author.

In the world of men and women love may be anything from broad farce to deepest pathos. But among the spiders it is never anything but stark tragedy, a sex drama moving swiftly to its inevitable catastrophe. The male spider is the victim of a remorseless fate. Once he yields to the wiles of a female and espouses her he is doomed. As soon as they have mated the bride kills her small husband and eats him. His biological function fulfilled, nature allows him to be ruthlessly destroyed.

Science long has known, of course, of the spiders' deadly nuptials. But fresh illumination has recently been given the subject by Lynwood M. Chace, naturalist and photographer, who has won an international reputation by his pictures of insect life. In the following article, illustrated by his own photographs. Chace tells of his observations of the marital tragedy and other typical episodes in a spider's existence.

By LYNWOOD M. CHACE

YES, it is a strange world that we are about to enter—a world where love means death.

The main characters in this tragic tale are not humans, but spiders.

We walk down a picturesque country lane. Just around the bend we come to a pasture the edge of which is bordered with clumps of low growing bushes.

In this growth we find the home of a notorious gangster type of spider, one that kills everything that becomes entangled in its web.

We also find that this species of spider lives in a folded leaf covered over and fastened at the bottom by web. This makes a very practical little house; the spider is well protected from rain and from the hungry eyes of other creatures of this strange world that might be looking for a plump spider to satisfy their appetites.

Closely observing, we find that leading up to her home (this is the female spider) from the lacy web below, are one or two strings of silky thread which are attached to the leg of the spider.

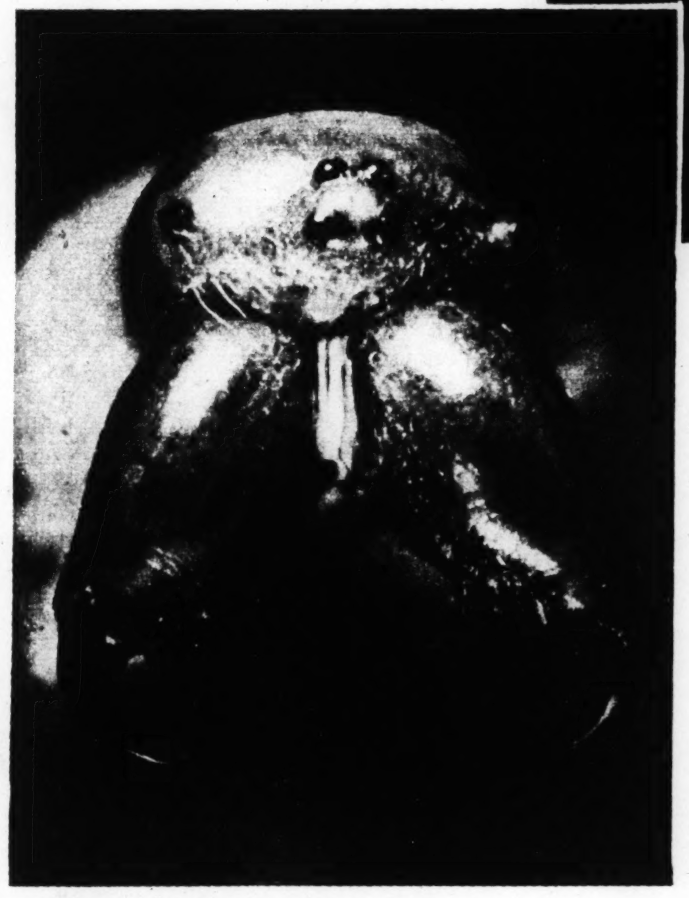
Most of the time the spider stays in her curled leaf house, excepting when the web is badly damaged by the struggling insects that have been caught during the day. Then she comes down and mends it (this duty is performed at night) to have the snare in readiness for the next day's catch.

The slender string of web, when it comes from her abdomen, is a fluid, and when it strikes the air it is immediately turned into the silken strands with which the web is woven—a feat that has been marveled at for centuries.

The damaged web is made whole once more, and as the dawn is breaking in the east the insect world begins its daily activities. It is a busy place.

A katydid serenading his lady love high up in an oak tree loses his foothold and falls to the ground. Crawling up a blueberry bush, he makes a desperate leap to gain headway, but is suddenly stopped in midair.

Why, what happened? He soon knows the answer, for he finds himself fatally entangled in a snare.



The deadly jaws of the spider. A close-up of its head, greatly magnified, showing the instruments of destruction it carries in its fangs.

Miss Spider, who has a keen appetite after working all night, receives a message by telephone (the strings that lead from her home to the web) that she has a catch. Now watch closely, for Miss Spider works fast.

Sliding down these strings, like an expert tight-rope walker, she rushes upon the helpless victim. He is kicking and struggling with rage, trying to get free—but it is too late, for the cruel spider pounces upon him.

Instantly she begins whirling around and around the katydid, at the same time producing wide strands of web from her spinnerets. Her victim is putting up a fight to the utmost, but the web is tightening up on him and he is getting exhausted.

The spider continues winding the web around the victim's body, and now it is difficult to tell just what the captured insect looks like as the katydid is enshrouded in a thick coating of web.

The victim, by this time, is completely exhausted and helpless. The spider now sinks her deadly poisonous fangs deep into the katydid's neck. He stiffens, quivers, and then is still. The battle, of only a few seconds duration, is over. The prey is now ready for eating.

Watch closely, for this is interesting. She now begins cutting the web around the katydid until the body of the insect is free from the web; she now takes the katydid in her fangs (much like a lion would take an antelope) and with head held backwards she carries the victim to the leaf home—and her feast begins.

The dead insect is kept for a long period, and when she finally drops it to the ground it is only a dried-up shell.

It is now getting late in the fall, the time for spider love-making—and what a strange love it is!

Looking carefully in the bushes near her web we find a tiny web, noticeably smaller than the one we have been observing.

At the upper end of this small web we discover a tiny spider, very much smaller than Miss Spider.

This is her boy friend, but it looks as though he ought to eat some spinach before approaching his robust sweetheart. Ah, but nature is cruel and indifferent in her scheme, for nature's only intentions for the tiny male spider are to mate and die—and now we are about to see the enacting of the astonishing story of this strange love affair.

The web of the male spider is attached to the female spider's web for an important reason. It is a warm, sunny afternoon and Miss Spider feels the lure of love, so she calmly crawls down her web and begins tugging at the adjoining web of the male spider.

What is she up to now? you might ask. Well, she's 'phoning her boy friend, but she can't seem to get a good connection, or the correct number, for she continues calling.

You see, when she tugs at her web the connecting strands shake the tiny web of the male spider, and instinct tells him that the lady wishes to make a date. So, after many false starts, he cautiously strolls up into her web.

She sees him coming, and immediately begins going through strange maneuvers, which, being interpreted, mean that Miss Spider is registering sex appeal and all the charm possible to lure Mr. Spider into her parlor; for in this strange insect world the laws of propriety differ from those of the way '90s of our world.

IN THIS case the female spider makes the advances. The would-be lover now comes a little closer and darts in at her; then, losing courage, darts back again. He keeps this up for some time.

We can't make out just what he is doing; perhaps each time he advances towards her he gives her an affectionate kiss. We should have brought along a powerful magnifying glass, or opera glasses, with which to view this love scene.

Anyway, this strange lovemaking continues, the female still going through her graceful motions in an effort to overpower the timid male, who, no doubt, realizes that to caress means his doom, and who therefore is trying his best to resist Miss Spider's

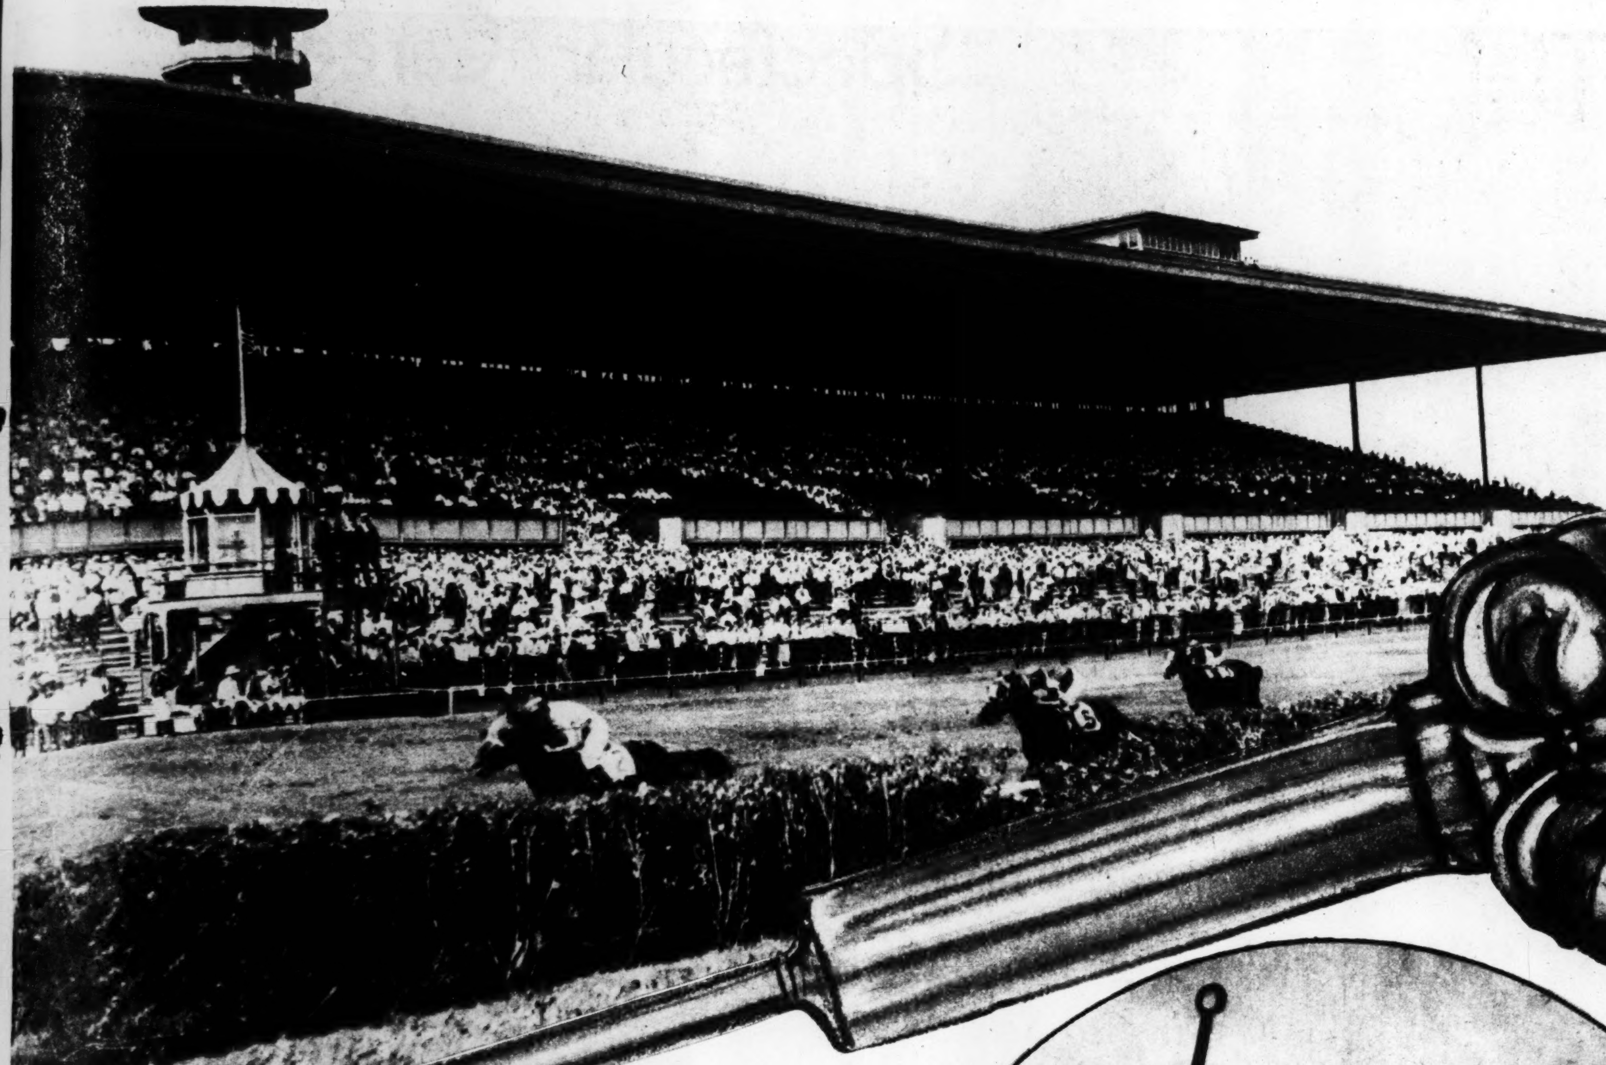
How the Race Horse Doping Scandal Broke

In a Series of Sudden Raids, Government Agents Rounded Up Suspected Owners, Trainers and Jockeys in the First Skirmish of a War Against a Far-Flung Racket.



Arlington racetrack, outside Chicago, where one of the raids took place.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

CHICAGO.

A CERTAIN number of hard, rat-faced, youngish men follow the racing season from one track to another through the East and Middle West, from Arlington and Hawthorne here in Chicago, to the big tracks at New Orleans, to Hialeah at Miami, to Churchill Downs at Louisville, to Baltimore, to Saratoga. These hard-faced, youngish men form a kind of fraternity. But not, it happens, a closed fraternity.

If you talk their special language and if you subscribe to their code of behavior, to their very special ethics, then, with a little patience, you can run with them. Since they live entirely by their wits, they're about as shrewd and hardboiled as they come.

But recent events have proved that they're not quite shrewd enough. If they had been a little shrewder, they might have noticed that along about last fall there was a sudden rush of members into their fraternity. Four or five new faces became familiar on the circuit of tracks. A fellow named Joe Banks from Cincinnati. Another fellow named Richman who said he was from the West Coast. A bird called "Shorty." And one or two others.

The funny thing about these new members of the race track touts' fraternity was that they seemed to belong right away. There was no apprenticeship, no novitiate. That was the funny thing the old boys, for all their tough shrewdness, failed to notice. These new birds, Joe Banks and "Shorty" and the others, spoke the jargon of the tracks. They knew all the horses.

THEY looked like "regulars." The same clothes, a little too snappy, the tie a shade too loud, the hat cocked over one eye at an angle that was sporting and full of nerve and arrogance. Their women were like that, too. Very, very blond, much mascara on the eyes, with rhinestone pocketbooks and two diamondy-looking bangles on each arm, equipped with a brittle kind of gaiety that could be turned on or off depending on the occasion.

When the fall season closed at Arlington, the whole gang moved down to New Orleans. And there it seemed as if "Shorty" and Richman and Joe Banks had belonged forever. They were in the "know," in on the inside, straight dope. The secrets that were the carefully guarded property of this fraternity became their secrets. The rat-faced men spoke softly out of the corners of their mouths. There was the word "tea," used in a special sense by the fraternity.

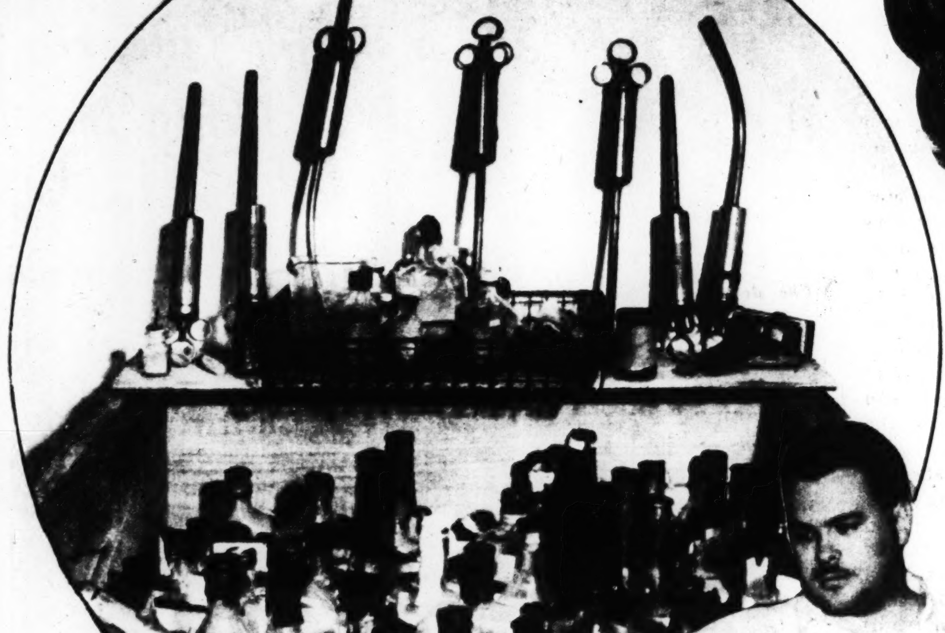
"Sure, sure, I'm not kiddin' you, baby, Lady Grace's got her tea. I seen 'em give it to her, I seen 'em shoot it to her just before they brought her out of the stable."

Now "tea" means in the jargon of the fraternity dope in one form or another. Cocaine shot with a hypodermic needle into the fleshy part of the horse's neck. Or heroin placed on the horse's tongue after it's been rubbed dry.

The hard-faced fraternity wasn't always right about its knowledge. Sometimes the horse that was supposed to be "tead up" with enough cocaine to make Man o' War look like a plow horse never came through at all. Somebody had double-crossed somebody else. When a horse would come out on the track all nervous and sweaty and tense, they'd say, "See, he's got his tea, all right." Often they were wrong. Their knowledge of horseflesh isn't really much greater than their knowledge of human nature.

They moved on to Hialeah and from there to Baltimore and finally back to Arlington this summer. And then the other day a most amazing thing happened. A series of raids occurred more or less simultaneously in several cities with big race tracks. Trainers, owners, jockeys were arrested and charged with doping race horses. And with them a number of narcotic peddlers were arrested. The Federal Government had taken the first step to smash the sinister tie-up of big-scale racketeering, dope and horse racing. Those regular guys, "Shorty," Joe Banks and the others, had been all along undercover agents operating under the direction of Ralph H. Oyler, head of the narcotic squad for the area of which Chicago is headquarters. Oyler himself, who has a grim, poker face, trailed with the fraternity from time to time through the winter.

The whole plot was laid with the utmost care and skill. And it succeeded in snaring in the Government net many of the big boys. "Shorty" and Joe Banks—those weren't the pseudonyms they used but they're close enough—dropped again into that carefully guarded obscurity that is the privilege of Federal agents. They can drop the role of tout now that the game is for the time being over.



Devices and drugs used in doping horses. This layout was seized by Government operatives in Chicago.

Ivan Parke, from a photo made in 1924, when he was at the height of his fame as a jockey.

Oyler is conservative in what he says of the practice of doping race horses. In his official capacity he will say that he knows only that he has definite evidence that certain horses were doped. But others closely connected with horse racing have estimated that at least 50 per cent of all horses are doped before they come onto the track.

The raid at Arlington was on the eve of the running of the famous Arlington Futurity, a $25,000 race for 2-year-olds. Oyler disclosed that his men had seen dope injected three times into Louie Dear, a horse that ran third in the fifth race on the day of the raid, after a series of sensational wins. Two men were seen giving Timorous dope, according to Oyler. Timorous is owned by Mrs. M. A. Creech, the mother-in-law of Ivan Parke, a well-known former jockey who was one of those arrested in the raid. Parke was rated several years ago as one of the best riders in the game. He has worn the colors of several famous Kentucky stables and one of his last contracts was with the H. P. Whitney stable.

Among others arrested were Hinton "Georgia Boy" Parks, John "Tip Easy" Cride and William "Bottoms Up" Cooney. Oyler used Cooney's case to illustrate how the tie-up between dope and horse-racing often works out. Cooney, according to Oyler, formerly rode horses for Tony Foley of St. Louis. He was ruled off the track in New Orleans. Some other bad luck came his way, as Oyler tells the story, and he took to peddling dope at the tracks. Last fall he was arrested on this charge, Oyler says. Every race track draws numerous drug addicts and peddlers who contact them there. At New Orleans Oyler says he has 20 strong cases.

The investigation has only just begun in Chicago. Leslie E. Salter, an Assistant Attorney General, has been sent here from Washington to direct the inquiry before a Federal grand jury. Nearly a hundred owners, trainers, veterinarians and hangers-on have been subpenaed. Before it is over, and it may take some weeks to sift the great mass of evidence that Oyler and his agents have collected, the Government expects to bring indictments against higher-ups as well as grooms and jockeys.

As Oyler points out, the money to be made on the ponies is one of the racketeers' principal stakes. The money that flows through the pari-mutuel machines at a single important track far exceeds the amount that is taken in kidnaping for ransom. On the day following the raid the mutuels at Arlington showed an intake of more than $450,000. How much of this vast stake finds its way into the pockets of racketeers and gangsters it is impossible to say, but certainly the sum is large.

THE racketeer bets his money with the dope. Say a horse has done badly for some time. He hasn't even finished in the money. The odds are long against him. That horse gets a stiff shot of cocaine in the neck—the dose varies from two to six grains. He prances out on the track all keyed up and runs a winning race—much to the surprise of the ordinary customer. Those in the know who have placed their money on this long shot make a big killing. Dope, it is said, is rarely used to slow up a horse. That is achieved often by stuffing the horse's nose with small sponges.

All of which serves to illustrate the remark of the philosopher to the effect that the more he knew about men the better he liked horses. The business of doping is cruel in the extreme. A high-strung thoroughbred horse suffers a severe reaction after such a doping. It has the same effect in the long run that it does on human beings.

H. J. Anslinger, Commissioner of Narcotics at Washington, came to Chicago to lend his aid in making the Government's case. He had just returned from the international narcotics conference at Geneva, Switzerland, where the use of drugs on animals was one of the topics discussed. Game cocks are frequently doped. And so are carrier pigeons.

Directors of the various race tracks about the country have, according to Oyler, given him their sincere co-operation. They say they want to see the practice stopped. But they also say that it would take a staff of supervisors so large that one or even two men would have to be assigned to each stable to prevent doping. Wealthy owners such as John Hertz of Chicago and Mrs. Payne Whitney would also like to see the practice stamped out. But some of them have a hard enough time preventing it from happening in their own stables. At the time

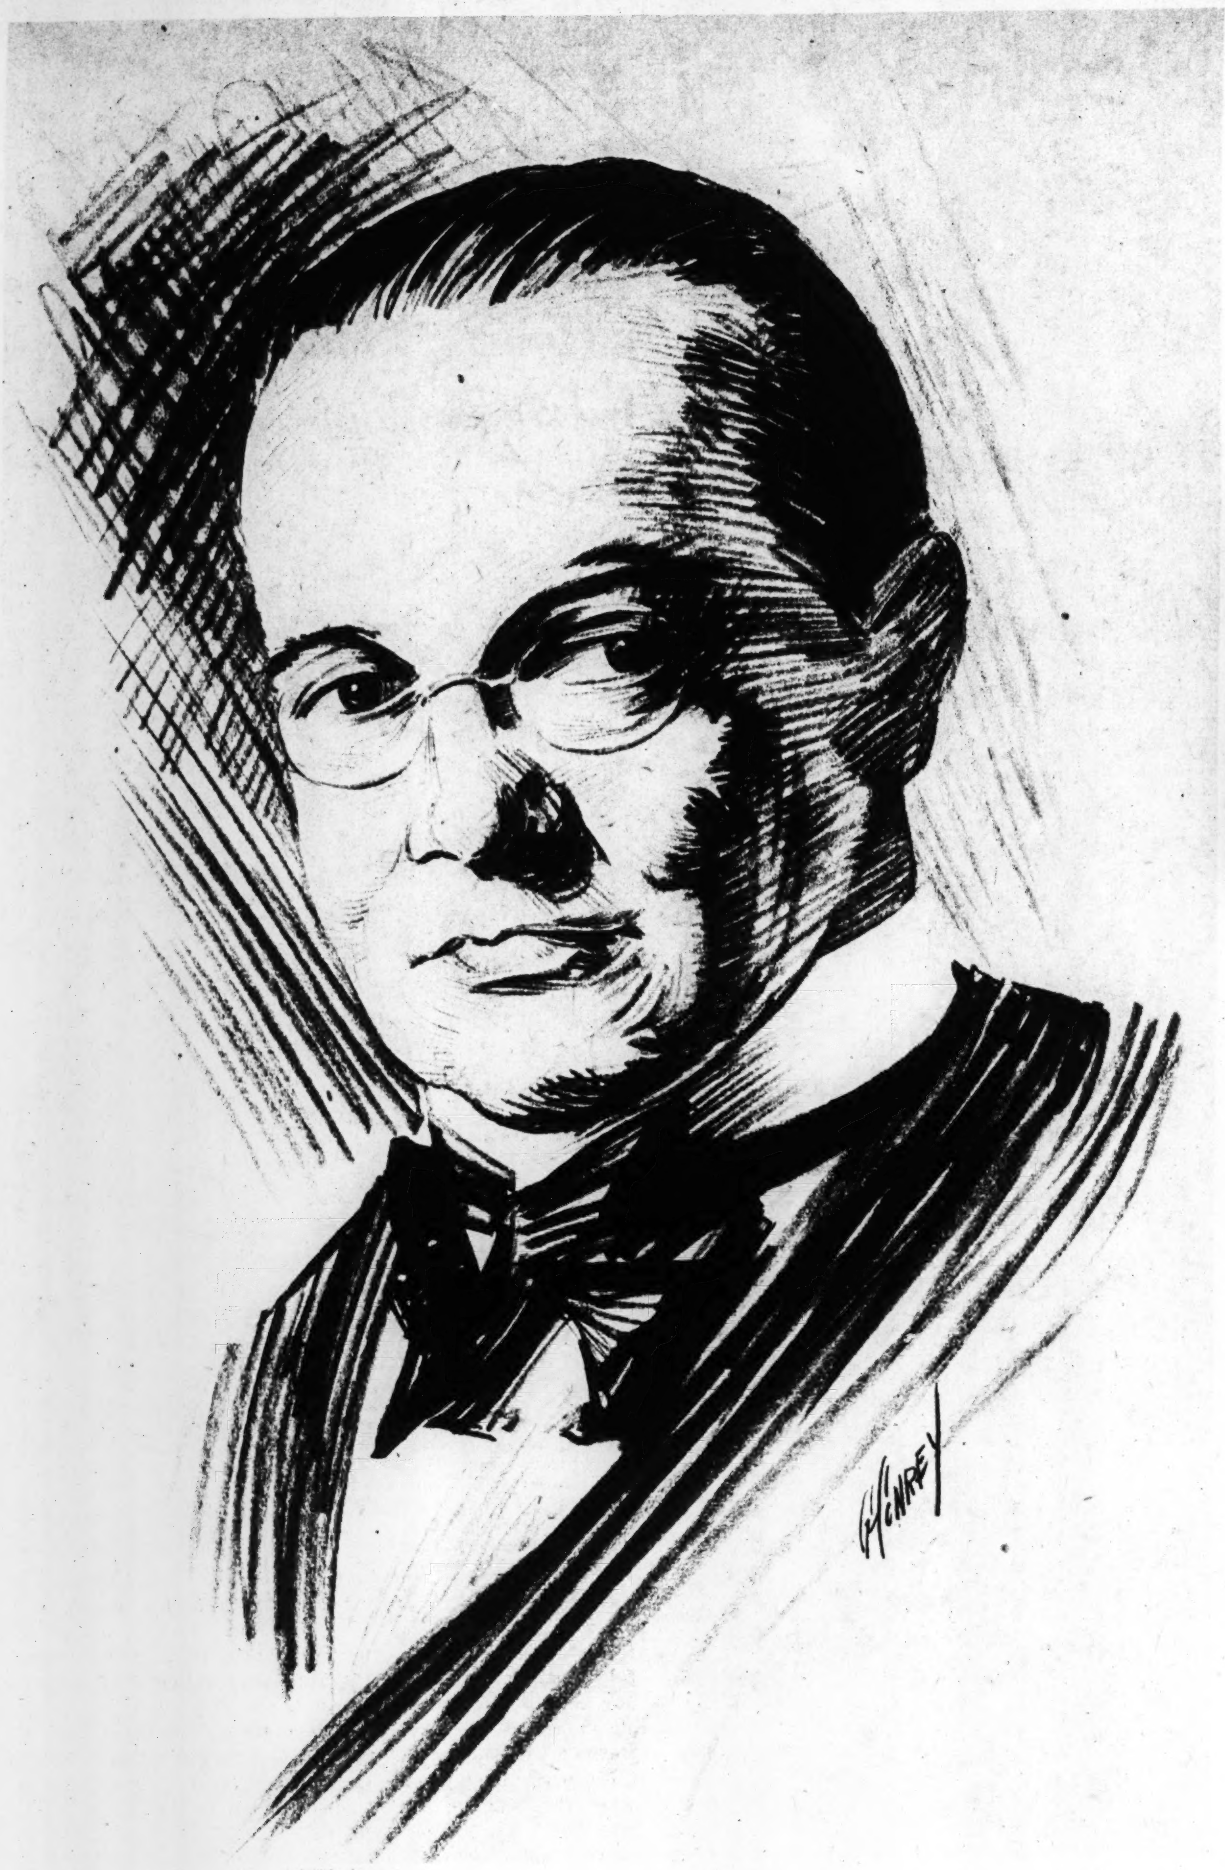
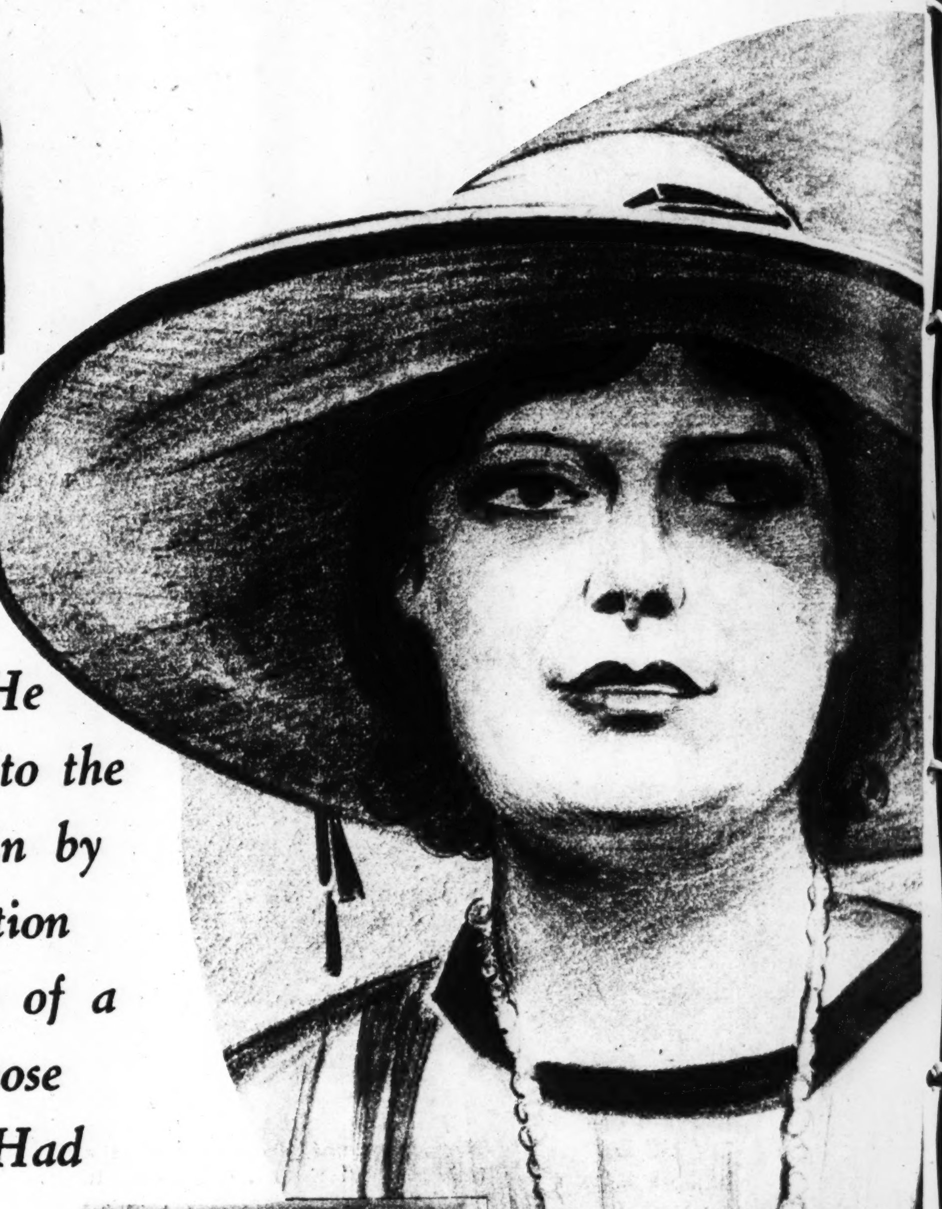
Another Twist in the Spectacular Career of J. Maundy Gregory



J. Maundy Gregory.

A recent snapshot of Gregory.

Sentenced to Prison for Trying to Sell a British Title, He Was Thrust Into the Spotlight Again by the Investigation Into the Death of a Woman Whose Fortune He Had Inherited.



Mrs. Edith Rosse.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

LONDON.

THINGS have not been breaking well lately for J. Maundy Gregory, that fervent royalist who used to hobnob with kings and dukes and to be so well supplied with the needful that a 100-pound note meant no more to him than a shilling. Early this year there was that unfortunate business of having to serve a term in jail on a charge of offering to get a title for an acquaintance for a fee. Then there was the awkward situation of creditors swooping down upon him when he had insufficient funds available to satisfy their demands. And now there has just been concluded another exceedingly unpleasant affair—a rigid investigation of the death of a woman whose rather mysterious demise occurred while she was living in the same house as Gregory and who left him all her money. No charges against Gregory followed the investigation, but his name figured in the case with uncomfortable prominence.

The woman whose death excited official curiosity was Mrs. Edith Marion Rosse, a former actress. She was supposed by neighbors to be Gregory's sister. The two had called each other brother and sister to prevent gossip. Gregory says their close friendship was of the brother-and-sister kind, not a "vulgar intrigue."

More than a decade ago Mrs. Rosse, her husband, Frederick Rosse, a musician, and Gregory were occupying a house in St. John's Wood. In 1923, Rosse and his wife separated, the husband leaving the house, where Mrs. Rosse and Gregory continued to stay. Some time later Gregory and his "sister" moved to a house in Hyde Park Terrace, London, where they maintained the same household arrangements as before, that is, she occupied the ground floor and basement and he the top floors, each having a housekeeper.

On August 19, last year, Mrs. Rosse suddenly became ill after lunch, and sent for Gregory. He was lunching that day, according to his own account, with the former King of Greece at the Carlton Hotel. He hastened home, and Mrs. Rosse asked him to write her will as she dictated it.

In the presence of a physician and Mrs. Rosse's housekeeper he wrote the will—on the back of a menu card which he found in his pocket. It read:

"Everything I have, if anything happens to me, to be left to Mr. J. Maundy Gregory to be disposed of as he thinks best and in accordance with what I shall desire."

The doctor and the housekeeper witnessed the document.

Mrs. Rosse improved. But early in September she became ill again and died on September 14. Cerebral hemorrhage and chronic Bright's disease were given as the causes of death on the medical certificate.

Gregory had Mrs. Rosse buried in a churchyard at Bisham, on the Thames, because, he later explained, it was her wish to be buried by the river. He agreed to give 100 guineas to a parish charity for the privilege of interring her in ground usually reserved for parishioners. The grave was shallow and the coffin was not sealed.

The will was placed on record promptly. And it was discovered that Mrs. Rosse's estate amounted to about 18,000 pounds. Gregory said he had no idea she had so much money. The will was probated and the property turned over to Gregory.

Miss Ethel Davies.

But shortly after Mrs. Rosse was buried her husband and relatives instituted inquiries into the circumstances of her death. One of the relatives was a niece, Ethel Davies, who had lived with Mrs. Rosse at times. Mrs. Rosse once made a will in favor of her niece, but destroyed it after a quarrel with her. For several months the investigation was conducted, Scotland Yard being drawn into it. And on April 28 the body of Mrs. Rosse was exhumed and brought to London for a post-mortem. The medical examination involved particularly a search for traces of poison.

Meanwhile, Gregory had served his jail sentence in the "honors list" case and had left England. When an inquest into Mrs. Rosse's death was held a few weeks ago he did not appear, although a subpena for him had been served on his solicitor. To a representative of the London Daily Express, who found him in Paris, he said he did not consider his presence at the inquest necessary. Also his health was not "altogether satisfactory." He was represented at the hearing, however, by Walter Frampton.

The inquest was conducted by Ingleby Oddie, Coroner at Paddington. The most important evidence given was that no poison had been found in the dead woman's body; that because of the manner and place of burial this finding did not preclude the possibility that poison had been in the organs at the time of death, and that the causes of death assigned in the medical certificate were incorrect.

Sir Bernard Spilsbury, who made the post-mortem examination, and Dr. Roche Lynch, Home Office analyst, were the experts who testified concerning the condition of the body. Spilsbury said he was unable to discover what caused Mrs. Rosse's death.

"Could you say whether there had been any hemorrhage of the brain?" the Coroner asked.

"There had not," Spilsbury answered.

"Were there any signs of Bright's disease?"

"No."

"Is it a fact that the death certificate is quite wrong?"

"Yes."

Dr. Lynch said the top of the coffin was only about 18 inches below the level of the ground.

"That is very shallow?" the Coroner inquired. "Yes," said Dr. Lynch, "I have never seen one so shallow."

There was water in the coffin, Dr. Lynch added, and he learned the churchyard had been flooded by the river; the body had been immersed in water for several months.

Dr. Lynch testified that he found no trace of poison in an analysis of the organs. "In view of the time that elapsed since death," he went on, "and the condition to which the body had been subjected it is quite possible that certain poisons could have become decomposed, thus rendering their detection impossible."

The Coroner asked: "Are there poisons which might have produced symptoms or signs similar to those Mrs. Rosse suffered from?"

"Yes," Dr. Lynch replied.

"Is it a well known fact that after prolonged exposure certain poisons do decompose?"

"Yes," said the analyst.

L. A. Vine, representing Frederick Rosse, asked the witness: "Did the presence of water render your examination more difficult?"

"Not more difficult," was the answer, "but there is the possibility that owing to conditions there may have been poisons which had decomposed."

Lynch also said he found no trace of disease which would have caused death.

Dr. E. Curnow Plummer, who attended Mrs. Rosse and signed the death certificate, was asked if he at any time had suspected that poison had been administered to his patient. He answered in the negative. It was brought out that Dr. Plummer had called in a consultant and Mrs. Rosse had been seen by two other doctors.

One of the witnesses was the husband of the dead woman. He said, in answer to a question, that he had not seen his wife from the time of their separation until after her death.

Walter W. Mann, the undertaker who buried Mrs. Rosse, was asked why the grave was so shallow. He replied: "Mr. Gregory said there would be only one interment, and he made all arrangements."

BENJAMIN GEORGE PENGELLY, an accountant, who said he had looked after financial affairs for both Gregory and Mrs. Rosse, was questioned by the Coroner as follows:

"Was Mrs. Rosse possessed of considerable private means?"

"Toward the end of her life, yes."

"What was the financial condition of Mr. Gregory?"

"At the time?"

"No, before."

"It was good."

"What was it on August 19, last?"

"Poor."

After Chief Inspector Askew of Scotland Yard had testified that he left a subpena for Gregory with his solicitors and understood he was abroad, Frampton, Gregory's representative, asked him: "You know he left this country long before there was any question of an exhumation?" The Inspector answered: "I was given to understand so."

Rosse's representative sought to have the inquest continued until Gregory was present, but the Coroner refused. "No useful purpose could be served," he said, "by subjecting Mr. Maundy Gregory to a cross-examination which would lead nowhere. I am certain that a more careful analysis has never been made than that in this case. No poison has been found and no poison will ever be found in this body. Therefore no possible charge could arise out of this inquiry. The exhumation was thoroughly justified. It is unfortunate that the result has to be so vague and inconclusive." He gave an open verdict—that there was not sufficient evidence to show the cause of death.

Frederick Rosse.

In his statement to the Daily Express, Gregory told at length of his friendship with Mrs. Rosse, and of the circumstances of her death. "She was a charming companion," he said, "a witty and intelligent woman, and the most devoted of friends. . . . We started to call ourselves brother and sister at the time I was living with Mr. and Mrs. Rosse in the same house in St. John's Wood. The three of us were continually going out together, but Mr. Rosse often had to be away for long periods, and it was to save Mrs. Rosse and me embarrassment during his absences that we gave ourselves out as related.

"I was always careful never to interfere in Mr. and Mrs. Rosse's married life. It distressed me when differences arose between them. Eventually there was a separation. The separation made not the slightest difference to the relations between Mrs. Rosse and me. We remained the closest of friends—and no more. . . . I advanced her money to buy a bungalow by the river, and I also gave her a guarantee of five pounds a week for life. The guarantee was never used. . . . Mrs. Rosse made a great success of the riverside property—letting it at a handsome profit. From time to time, with my assistance, she acquired other properties, and was actually managing 14 at the time of her death. . . .

"I always thought she was a comparatively young woman—no more than 39 or so—and I never knew any better until I had to find out her age for the purpose of the death certificate. I could hardly believe then that she was in her fifties."

Concerning her final illness, he said: "We dined alone in Hyde Park terrace that evening. I remember we had liver and bacon, and I gave her a little champagne, because I thought it would be good for her. . . . Soon after I went to bed the bell rang (a bell in Mrs. Rosse's bedroom) and I went down to find that Mrs. Rosse had been taken violently ill. She had fallen out of bed and almost collapsed trying to telephone to a friend.

"She never recovered from this attack, although it was days before the end came. Of course, everything humanly possible was done for her. I had two Harley street specialists in, and engaged two trained nurses to attend Mrs. Rosse day and night. . . .

"ON the morning of her death I had a luncheon appointment with the King of Greece. I felt no good purpose would be served by postponing that, but as soon as the lunch was over I set out to make arrangements for the funeral."

This was the second luncheon with the King mentioned in his narrative.

After telling about finding a burial place, he said: "I did not like to think there should be a great weight of earth over poor Mrs. Rosse, so I ordered that as shallow a grave as possible should be dug, and I also gave instructions that the coffin should not be sealed up.

"It never entered my head there would be any serious suggestion that Mrs. Rosse died other than a natural death. But when the suggestion was made and the news was published that Scotland Yard had made inquiries, I was glad that the investigations should be thorough and complete."

As to his financial affairs, Gregory was quoted recently as saying:

"I am not finished yet. I have business plans in mind, but it is too soon to disclose them.

"My debts are trivial in comparison with the sums of money I have handled in past years. My difficulty is that when the trouble over the honors case prosecution blew up everyone de-

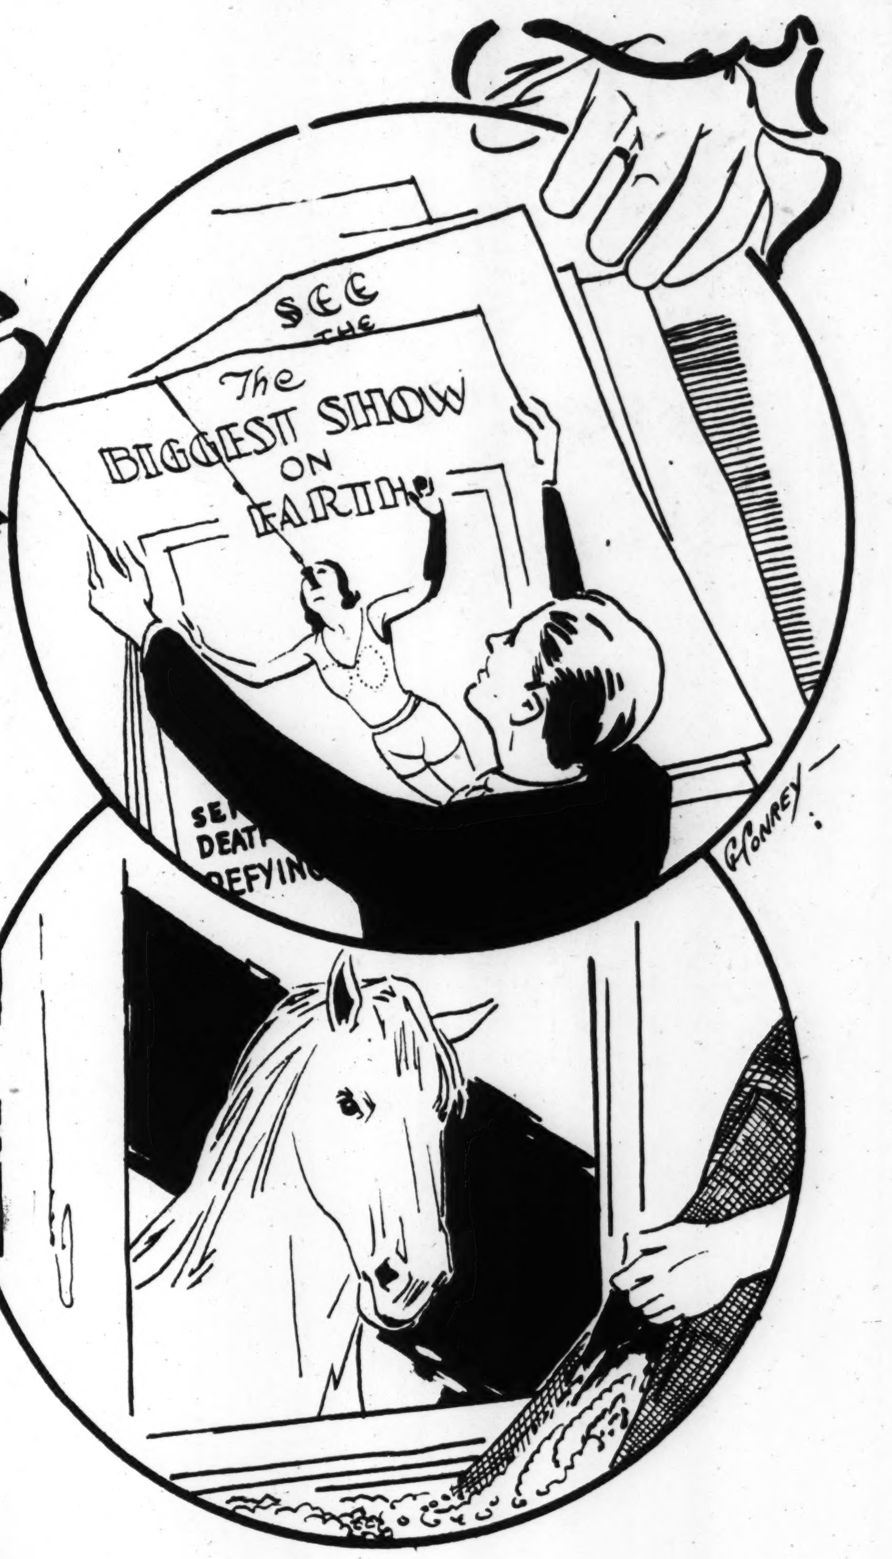
When the Circus Came Back to the Place Where It Started

Harper Joy, president of the Circus Fans' Association.

Mrs. Al Ringling, when she was a snake charmer.



The Circus Fans' Association—Made Up of Bankers, Lawyers, Doctors and Preachers—Was There Too to Make Merry and to Drop a Few Sentimental Tears.

By M. W. CHILDS

Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff.

BARABOO, Wisconsin.

SEVERAL notable events occurred in this little town the other day. The big circus came back for the first time since 1897. And with the circus came the biggest collection of soft-hearted old sentimentalists ever gathered together under one roof.

They call themselves the Circus Fans' Association, this bunch of old softies. During their three-day annual convention there was never any one time when the whole crowd was dry-eyed. They smiled and laughed right through their tears and altogether had the grandest time so far in the history of this unique and peculiarly American organization.

The anniversary they were celebrating puts, in the mind of any true Circus Fan, the Fourth of July and even Christmas day clear in the shade. It was planned that their convention should coincide with the golden anniversary of the founding of Ringling Brothers' Circus right here in the town of Baraboo. And for that anniversary the present Ringling Brothers, Barnum and Bailey show, plus anyone bearing the name of Ringling who could so much as move, plus all friends who "could remember way back when," returned for the marvelous, breath-taking, world-shaking gala performance.

Ordinarily, of course, the big circus, which travels in 100 railway cars, never stops at towns as small as Baraboo. And most of the Ringlings themselves have long since deserted the old home town for New York and Florida. But Mrs. Al Ringling was here. And Mrs. Charley, who travels with the show. And young Henry Ringling Jr. of the second generation. To say nothing of uncles and aunts and cousins. The only surviving brother, John, was confined by paralysis to a New York sanitarium.

The Circus Fans' Association, assembled in their seventh annual convention, reveled in it all. They visited historic spots—the old winter quarters of the circus and the homes of Charley and Al and John and Otto and Alf T. And they went to the circus, twice. They had their dinner and their supper in the cook house. The "backyard," which is circus jargon for the area outside the main tent where the performers wait their turn, was so cluttered up with Circus Fans that the show could scarcely get under way.

These Circus Fans are, in the ordinary affairs of life, quite sane. They are bankers, lawyers, doctors, merchants, mechanics, editors, army officers, teachers and preachers. They have in common only this one mania: They are all crazy about circuses, all a little touched on this one subject. In other things their tastes and interests are widely different. But let a circus band sound, however far distant, and you will see a strange light in each eye. They formed—and it could only happen in America—an organization about it, with charter, constitution, by-laws, officers, a publication and all the rest of it.

The idea for the organization came from a ticket seller with one of the big circuses. This shrewd observer of human nature had noted the fact that in every town at which they stopped there were a certain number of circus "nuts," men, and a few women, who came early in the morning to see the tents put up, went to every performance, talked with a wistful kind of timidity to roustabouts, hired hand and, if they ever got an opportunity, with the performers. Year after year these same people came back, until the men and women of the circus grew familiar with them and looked for them in the towns along their route. They even came to know each other in certain instances. They were collecting the same kind of circus lore and some trouper passed the word along from one town to the next. "Why, sure, there's Jake Wagner, out in Des Moines, Iowa; he's collecting posters, too. Why don't you write to him and maybe he could tell you where to find the one you want?"

The Circus Fans' Association, photographed in front of the Al Ringling home which they hope to make a shrine.

It remained, however, for the astute ticket seller to suggest a permanent organization which would cement the interest and loyalty of this special breed of men and women crazy about circuses. The Circus Fans' Association was formed in Washington, District of Columbia, in 1925, under the auspices of Melvin D. Hildreth, an attorney in Washington. There were 25 charter members. Within a year the organization had grown to a membership of more than 100. At present there are more than 400 members scattered all over the United States. Anyone may belong who is not actively connected with a circus. There are a few members who have had circus connections in the past, but most of them are pure, unadulterated fans.

The majority, perhaps all, of the members, or at any rate the hundred-odd gathered here for the convention, are men to whom the circus was the great annual thrill. They come, most of them, from small towns, and they grew up in the era before the movies, "the good old days," when the blossoming of the first red and gold and green and blue poster quickened the imagination of every boy in town. Getting up at dawn to see the circus unload. Yes, even carrying water to the elephants. This doesn't mean that the Circus Fans are all graybeards. They range in age from 30 to 75 years.

The chief objective of the Circus Fans is to preserve the circus. They realize that between the competition of the movies and the pyramiding of overhead and taxation, the circus is seriously jeopardized. The business of Ringling Brothers is, in the phrase of the show business, "spotty." That is, a few good stands make up for those that are fair or poor and enable the company to break even, or, according to the claim of circus officials, show a small profit. Keep the circus! That is the impassioned plea of the association. A plea which the fans support with all possible tangible aid that they can give the circuses and circus people.

The president of the association is Harper Joy, who is also vice president of the Ferris and Hardgrove Investment Company of Spokane, Washington. Both Mr. and Mrs. Joy have spent their vacations for several years traveling with circuses on the west coast. He goes along as a clown, white and red paint and the traditional circus clowning, and Mrs. Joy rides a horse in the spectacles. They pay for this privilege, and they say it's worth it and a whole lot more. That, incidentally, illustrates a cardinal point of the Circus Fans' code. They will not accept favors from the circus, not even so much as a pass to a single performance.

Joy made the principal address at the annual banquet. The praise he paid to circus people was in terms of impassioned extravagance. If Roosevelt fails to put over the New Deal, said Harper Joy, let the circus people run the country. Haven't they shown these many long years what they can do for the cause of civilization? And this praise was none too strong for his audience. It drew ringing cheers of approbation.

Hardly a Fan but collects some form of circusiana. Harry Hertzberg, a lawyer of San Antonio, Texas, has the finest collection. He's been at it for years, gathering posters, handbills, Tom Thumb's coach (at any rate, one of Tom Thumb's coaches), Tom Thumb's gun, cane and library, curiosities of every kind connected with the circus. It is perhaps the best Barnum collection in the world. Filed away in cases and cabinets, it occupies a large room in Hertzberg's home. He wants to build a special museum for it, so that he won't have to keep it all filed away.

The Hertzberg collection has taken a great deal of time and effort, scratching about in odd places. He hasn't paid high prices. Henry Ford wanted the Tom Thumb coach, but made what the owner thought was a ridiculously low offer for it. Offended, he sold it to Hertzberg for less than the Ford offer. There are posters in Hertzberg's collection which he wouldn't part with for a great deal.

THERE'S that poster showing the capture of Barnum's "Wild Man of Borneo." The wild man is being surrounded by his captors, who are netting him with a net made of heavy rope. Another poster shows the capture; the wild man has got to one of his captors and torn his leg right off and holds it up with fiendish and triumphant glee. Hertzberg wouldn't take a lot for those two posters. He has the very rare set of Barnum lithographs that Currier and Ives made.

John P. Grace of Kokomo, Indiana, manufacturer of auto castings and parts, collects route books. The route book was a pamphlet—sometimes a fairly thick book—giving the route of the circus during the entire season and a brief chronicle of any special events along the way. This book was sold or given to the performers. Grace has the most complete collection of route books in existence, about 400 books and about 700 routes that never got printed in books. He can tell you, if you happen to want to know, where the Hagenbeck show was on July 21, 1898. And it is a good bet that he can tell without referring to the route book for that year.

John R. Shepard of Wheaton, Illinois, collects and carves miniature circus animals. He has nearly 400 of these animals. Half of his collection he brought to Baraboo to display at the convention. Bert E. Siebert, head of an automobile distributing agency in Green Bay, Wisconsin, collects circus horses. He has seven. "They just eat their heads off, but I don't feel like parting with them," he says. Irving Pond of Chicago, who says that he has forgotten how old he is, began as a boy to "collect" acrobatic tricks that he saw circus troupers perform. On his seventy-sixth birthday, which was some time back, he says he had no trouble in doing 13 backward and 23 forward flip-flops in rapid succession.

The membership of the Circus Fans' Association is a cross section of American life. F. J. Heckel of Bradford, Pennsylvania, is a chemist. The Rev. Thomas W. Drumm of Des Moines is a Bishop. W. E. Deacon of Peoria, Illinois, is manager of a hotel. Howard Penney of Gloucester, Massachusetts, is a tinsmith. Dr. Enoch N. Olzendam of Manchester, New Hampshire, is a veterinarian. Bob Lucke of Havre, Montana, is head of a clothing company.

TO the circus Fans this town is no less than a shrine. They spent much time in Baraboo prowling through the old Ringling winter quarters, recently sold. They poked into boxes of old shields, old costumes with the spangles tarnished, old circus gear of every kind. They held a memorial service over the grave of Al, Otto, Henry and "Gus" Ringling and the parents of Al, Otto, Henry and "Gus." They went in a group to the evening performance of the Ringling show and afterward they gave a party in Ringlingville, the old headquarters. But many of the performers couldn't come because their families live here. The grandmother of the Flying Rooneys hadn't seen any of the Flying Rooneys in an age, and she wanted them with her. It was so in many other instances. When the Ringlings started out in the circus business they took neighbors and friends with them from this little town. In the early days of struggle Mrs. Al Ringling worked as a snake charmer to save one salary on the sideshow end of the business.

This was hot stuff for the Circus Fans, to be in a real show town. Although it has not been definitely decided, they are pretty sure they will hold their next convention in Bridgeport, Connecticut, because that was where Barnum lived. There are still Barnum relics all over the place and a queer, musty museum that he left to the City of Bridgeport, with no endowment to keep it up. Walter M. Buckingham, who is the state chairman for Connecticut and head of the Thames Bank and Trust Company of Norwich, has promised them a lively meeting if they will come to Bridgeport. Karl Kae Knecht, who is director of the Evansville (Indiana) Courier-Journal, and editor, too, of the Circus Fans' own publication, The White Tops, favored Indiana, but it is probable that he will yield to Connecticut before time rolls around for another convention.

CONEY the PHONY

"The nursemaid uttered a little shriek."

IKE and Bill were sitting at a table in front of a little cafe on the Rue Royale. It was July, and hot. In front of each was a tall glass of Pilsener. A waiter in a ticking apron was sluicing down the pavement with a hose, to give an illusion of coolness.

"Personally," said Ike, raising his voice above the hooting of the taxicab horns, "I think we ought to go home."

"What's the use of talking that way?" Bill complained.

"Well, we don't seem able to sell any of that stuff we got the agency for," Ike argued. "These frogs don't seem to know what corn sirup is. In the first place, they don't eat buckwheat cakes for breakfast, and they're too dumb to try it. How you going to make 'em?"

"There must be some way," Bill asserted gloomily. "And anyhow, where we going to get the money to buy tickets?"

"How much have we got?"

Bill, who acted as treasurer of the partnership, drew an envelope from his inside pocket and studied certain figures. "Nine hundred francs. When that's gone we can start hoofing it for Havre."

His eye was caught by a decrepit figure skulking on the safety zone in the middle of the street. "Don't look, Ike," he warned his partner, "but there's a panhandler coming our way."

"Who?"

"Coney. He's going to try to make a touch."

"Fat chance," Ike snorted. "They tell me he's got a new line. He makes out like he's trying to commit suicide. He's pestered everybody so much that that's the only thing they'll give him money for now. He got 30 francs out of Hargens to buy himself a revolver, and the next day he tried to borrow 15 francs from Moore to get himself 10 feet of rope."

Both partners bent studiously over their glasses. But the panhandler, paying no attention to their obvious coolness, came up to their table and sat down. "H'ya, boys," he observed.

Coney had been a man of many professions. At odd times in his life he had been a bartender, a ship's steward and a sideshow barker at Coney Island. The last employment had given him his name.

He was incredibly ragged, sockless and dirty. On top of his deplorable head rode a high-crowned derby hat. Around his wrinkled neck, a tall rubber collar collaborated with a patent necktie in a last effort to assure his respectability.

Neither Ike nor Bill answered his jaunty greeting. A waiter came promptly to their table, regarded Coney with disapproval, but awaited his command.

"Gin vermouth," said Coney.

"Hey," Ike protested. "Who's going to pay for it? You needn't think we are!"

"Who invited you to have a drink?" Bill asked.

"Keep your shirt on, keep your shirt on. I got money," Coney assured them. He showed the corner of a new 100-franc note. "Lots of it. I don't forget my friends, see? You boys treated me right and now I want to treat you right."

"Where'd you get it?" Ike wanted to know.

"Found it in front of the American Express," Coney assured him. "What'll you have?" The waiter had returned with Coney's drink. "Two more of the same, waiter."

Half an hour later, the partners were inclined to see in Coney the innocent victim of an unjust world. The pile of saucers that testified to their indebtedness had risen to the proportions of a skyscraper. Gin vermouths were three francs apiece. That made nine francs a round, and they had had five rounds.

"This is on me, and I'll pay it," said Coney. He flourished his 100-franc note before the waiter's eyes.

But when the waiter returned, instead of a plate full of change he brought with him the manager, who was turning Coney's bill in his hands. Coney looked at him belligerently. "Where's the change?" he wanted to know.

"This bill is counterfeit," the manager said suavely. There was a pause. Coney was aghast. Ike and Bill looked stormy and rose from their seats.

THE manager allowed his gaze to wander towaru the policeman who loitered at the curb. Ike and Bill realized that the manager meant to turn them over to the officer unless someone produced 45 francs. Bill reluctantly took a note from his pocket and laid it on the table.

"Thank you." The manager gave the counterfeit note back to Coney. "I advise you to take this bill back where you got it," he said.

The partners walked unsteadily down the Rue Royale, toward the Madeleine. "That guy Coney's following us," Bill complained.

Ike turned around. Coney was shuffling after them. "Now, listen, Coney," he growled, "don't follow us. Unless you want your head knocked off."

"Wait a minute, buddy. Let me tell you something." They paused by one of the benches under the trees of the Place de la Madeleine. "I didn't know that bill was phony. I thought it looked a little queer, but"——

"Yeah," said Ike, "and you wanted to be with somebody that would get you out of the jam when you tried to pass it. Is that all you've got to say?"

"Lend me 50 francs."

Ike and Bill laughed coarsely.

"Listen, fellow!" Coney sank to the bench beside him and assumed an expression of despair. Lend me three francs. I want to take a taxi."

"What?"

Coney nodded. "Down to the river. I'm going to commit suicide. I'm through."

"And you want to take a taxi? What for? The river's free and walking don't cost nothing."

Coney looked at them gloomily. "You boys are certainly hard-boiled. Here I am, going to commit suicide, and you won't even give me a tumble. You want me to walk in this hot sun? It might kill me."

Ike paused, struck by an idea. "Listen, Coney, if we give you three francs, how do we know you'll commit suicide?"

Coney smiled tragically. "Listen, if you boys lend me three francs, you can come along and watch me do it. How's that? You think I'm bluffing. All right, come ahead and watch me."

Ike drew his partner aside. "I got a good notion to call that four-flusher's bluff," he said in a whisper. You can swim good and so can I. We'll give him a ducking anyhow, and then we'll pull him out. How's that?"

Bill summoned a taxi from the corner, and they all took their seats solemnly, telling the driver to take them to the Pont de l'Alma.

The taxi rolled down the Rue Royale. Coney looked sadly out the open window on his side. "Well, boys, it's my last ride," he moaned.

"You got a good day for it," Ike commented.

"Anywhere you want word sent?" Bill asked solicitously.

"Naw." Coney's mind grappled with old memories in an effort to add sentimental interest to his gesture. "There was a skirt once, but she dished me. She was a snake charmer," he added.

The taxi finally stopped at the near end of the Alma bridge. All three got out. The meter read two francs, and Ike gave the driver 50 centimes for himself.

Coney held out his hand. "Give me the 50 centimes change," he demanded.

"What for?"

"You said you'd lend me three francs. You don't want me to be found without a cent in my pockets, do you? What would I look like?"

Ike gave up the coin. "Put it in your pocket," he advised, "and when the police pull you out of the water they'll think you're a banker that went crazy figuring out how to spend his money."

Coney led the trio in a dignifed march out to the center of the bridge. The roadway and sidewalks were broiling in the hot sun. It was absolutely deserted.

"LOOKS nice and cool, Coney," Bill remarked helpfully. "I wouldn't mind taking a dive myself, on a day like this."

"Over you go," said Ike. "It's hot out here, and I don't feel like sticking around."

Coney drew back. "Why don't you boys run along?" he suggested. "No use you staying."

"Nothing doing," said Ike. "I'll leave when I see you hit that river, and not before. Hey, what are you doing?"

Coney had sat down on the sidewalk, and was unlacing his broken shoes. When he had revealed his bare feet, he looked at them minutely.

"If I keep my shoes on, they'll know I didn't have any socks on," he pointed out. "But if I take them off they'll figure I must have taken my socks off too. See?"

Coney slowly got to his feet and stepped gingerly around on the hot cement. He took his coat off, folded it carefully, and laid it on the pavement. His vest, a mere rag, held together in back by a piece of string, he folded likewise. He then removed his tie and collar. His eyes were fixed on the end of the bridge, where a gendarme had just made his appearance.

Ike and Bill had their backs turned to the gendarme. "Come on, Coney," Ike said, seizing the panhandler by the waistband of his trousers.

"Leggo," Coney panted. "I'll jump!"

"You sure as hell better!" Ike grunted. "Come on!" He dragged Coney to the railing.

"Wait a minute!" Coney cried dramatically. The gendarme, apparently, had not seen them yet. "I almost forgot!"

"What?"

While Ike kept a firm grip on his trousers, Coney stooped and from the pocket of his coat drew out the 100-franc note. "You boys might as well have this. Maybe you can pass it off on somebody."

Ike stuck it in his pocket. "Over you go," he said roughly.

"Wait a minute, wait a minute!" Coney cried desperately. The gendarme was heading their way.

"Wait nothing!" Ike and Bill seized Coney by either arm, raised him above the level of the railing and threw him wide of the bridge. His arms and legs spread, he hit the water with a tremendous splash.

Ike and Bill looked down at the water. Coney, his few wisps of gray hair combing his face, was swimming like a spaniel. The banks, suddenly, were alive with spectators, bargemen and fishermen.

"He's all right," Ike said. "There's a guy putting out in a skiff, going to rescue him."

"Alors!" boomed a deep voice behind them.

The partners turned to face an imposing gendarme, truncheon in hand. The bridge was suddenly crowded. A man on a bicycle pedaled up and dismounted smartly.

From below the bridge came a mournful cry. Coney had evidently been fished out of the water. "Don't let nobody steal my clothes!"

The man of the bicycle shouldered his way through the small crowd, now augmented by a nursemaid and two round-eyed children. "What ees eet, pliss? The policeman wish to know what happen?"

"You speak English?" asked Ike.

"Very well," said the newcomer proudly.

"Tell him our pal here was trying to commit suicide," Ike went on. "See those clothes there? We were trying to stop him, but he was too strong for us."

The interpreter nodded sympathetically. "You are heroines, is it not?"

"Heroes, yeah. That's what we are. But we don't want nothing. We only done our duty."

The interpreter spoke in rapid French. "He who was in the water was a grand friend of those two here. Annoyances caused him to wish to end his existence."

The gendarme produced a notebook. "Annoyances," he wrote, "caused a black mood. Of what sort were these annoyances? Of the money, or of the love?"

The interpreter translated. "Both," said Ike. "He was dippy over a snake charmer and he didn't have no jack."

The face of the interpreter lighted up. He explained: "Torn by a passion without hope for an enchantress of serpents, the unfortunate one, denuded of the means of existence, willed to throw himself into the stream."

A chorus of admiration arose among the audience. The nursemaid uttered a little shriek.

"We don't want no medals for what we done," Bill put in anxiously. "All we want is to get away."

"These brave Americans," said the translator, "do not seek glory for their courageous deed. They desire only to depart in silence."

But the gendarme had closed his notebook and secured it with a rubber band. He then spoke at length to the interpreter, who at last turned toward Ike and Bill and spread his hands apologetically. "He say you must go with your friend to the police station. He is of the idea that you and your friend did throw the man over the railing. He say that your actions have a strong smell of the fishy. He say you must explain to the Magistrate."

IKE drew the interpreter off to one side. "Ain't there some way you can fix this up?" They had to get away before Coney could get back.

At the word "fix" the interpreter assumed a dreamy expression. His functions were humble but delicate. If any one word would have covered all of them, it was precisely the word "fix." He was a man to whom impossibility meant nothing. The interpreter smiled, and became really persuasive.

He appealed to the sentiments of honor, justice and delicacy which he assumed to exist under the blue coat of a Parisian agent de police. Enlarging on his theme, he touched lightly on Lafayette, Chauteau-Thierry and the grand outlines of Franco-American friendship.

"How about it?" Ike asked impatiently. "Can we go or can't we?"

The translator approached him. "One hundred francs," he murmured. "Slip it into my hand."

From his pocket Ike produced a note and slipped it, folded up, into the hand of the interpreter.

"Can we go now?" Ike asked. Coney had just appeared at the end of the bridge.

"But certainly. At once. Here, taxi!" The bicycle man summoned the taxi to approach. He was pleased with himself.

Ike shoved Bill into the cab, got in himself and the taxi moved off, to the sound of admiring cheers from the crowd. Ike, looking out the window, saw Coney break into a run. "Step on it driver!" he yelled. "Allez! Vite!"

Bill looked at his partner in amazement. "Are you crazy, or what? Coney gyps us out of 45 francs for drinks and three francs for a taxi, we have to give that other guy 100 francs, and now you insist on riding around in a cab. What for? What's the idea?"

"Don't be dumb," Ike commanded, settling back in relief as the taxi sped into the Avenue de Tokio and turned down the Place de la Concorde. "That 100 francs I gave that guy was the phony bill that Coney slipped me. Wait till he gets a good look at it!"

Where Love Always Means Death

charming advances. However, Miss Spider doesn't give up and at last the male is overpowered and they ress. Look! Sure enough, Miss Spider has started to devour him.

She continues the feast until the poor fellow is completely eaten, and that is the climax and the way of spider love. After viewing this tragic scene we are convinced that puppy love is better.

Late fall is closing in on the spider now, and the cool, crisp mornings and evenings tell her that she must hasten to complete her last duty, for Jack Frost is the undertaker in this strange world. Leaving her web, the now Mrs. Spider searches for a convenient ace for the building of her egg ack.

Finding a suitable spot, she begins at early evening to make a globular nest. When it is completed she deposits a large number of round, golden eggs in it.

Next she walks around and around the eggs, at the same time producing wide strands of web from her spinnerets, and finally the eggs are well concealed in a oft mesh of milk-white web.

Now for the final touch, which is the addition of a tough outside layer to protect her precious eggs from the winter cold.

And now, since Mrs. Spider has completed her cycle, we leave her and the sack of eggs, which will not hatch until the following season, and then the baby spiders will come forth and carry on the cycle of life nature has intended for them.

While this web-spinning spider is the one most of us think of when we hear spiders mentioned, it is a fact that other varieties of spiders have found other ways of trapping their prey and making their living.

In the Southern and Southwestern United States there is a spider which digs a hole in clay and builds a trap door for it, making "hinges" for the door with her silk, and closing the door after her to keep enemies out when she enters her house. Another variety builds no home or trap at all, but lives in the ground, hiding under stones or sticks, and stalking its prey on foot.

One of the oddest kinds of spiders lives in the tropics. This creature suspends itself from a branch by a silken thread and dangles another thread, covered with sticky fluid, below it. The sticky thread entangles any insect it touches, and the spider thereupon hauls in its catch and makes a meal.

ended on me at once. When you are in prison anyone can serve a writ on you.

"I have handled enormous sums in my time, perhaps as much as 1,000,000 pounds. There was a period when if a friend came and asked me for money, I would say, 'How much do you want, old boy?' and pull a banknote for 1000 pounds out of my pocket and hand it to him just for his current expenses. As for 100-pound notes, I can truthfully say I regarded them as shillings."

The "honors case" occurred early this year — in February. Gregory, who was identified at the time as proprietor and editor of the Whitehall Gazette, a monthly publication, was charged with having tried to obtain 10,000 pounds from Lieutenant-Commander E. W. Leake, a retired officer of the British Navy, by offering to get a knighthood for him in the next honors list.

THE prosecutor said a number of people had paid or had been asked to pay Gregory money in connection with receiving honors. There was some suggestion—outside of court—that he was an agent for a "higher-up." He occupied sumptuous offices, on the walls of which were signed portraits of members of European royal houses. He appeared to be on friendly terms with eminent persons.

At first Gregory pleaded not guilty, but on the advice of his counsel he withdrew that and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced in Bow Street Police Court to two months' hard labor and was fined 50 pounds. After his release from jail at Wormwood Scrubs he left England.

Gregory is understood to have engaged in counter-espionage work during the World War, with about 1000 agents under his direction, and also to have handled missions to Europe. He is said to have been very active in anti-Bolshevist and pro-monarchy movements, and to have assisted the Grand Duke Nicholas of Russia, the ex-King of Greece and the Montenegrin royal family. Some of his honors he has listed as follows:

Commander of the Most Venerable Order of the Hospital of St. John of Jerusalem in the British Realm.

Grand Cross of the Equestrian Order of the Holy Sepulchre.

Knight Commander of the Most Noble Order of Pius IX.

Commander of the Most Noble Order of the White Rose of Finland.

Grand Cordon of the Royal Montenegrin Order of Danilo.

Grand Cordon of the Tunisian Order of Nichan Iftikhar.

Polishing Up a New "Star" for American Film Fans

tainly in quality. However, as a manufacturer and prometer of fascinating women, it stands alone.

Take Marlene Dietrich. What was Dietrich before she came to America? In the German film, "The Blue Angel," playing second fiddle to Jannings, she presented an alluring figure, sang well and showed off her perfect legs. Now Paramount has transformed her into a famous Venus. How? Dietrich's hips were slightly reduced, but that was of minor importance. She was fortunate in having Von Sternberg as a director and Benton as her dress designer. Sternberg was a perfect instrument in the exploitation of a star. He used all his sensitive camera and dramatic genius to reveal the subtle hidden beauties of his actress. And he was ably aided by Benton. Benton, at one time a dress designer for an exclusive women's shop in New York, creates costumes for all the Paramount stars. When a scenario for Dietrich was ready, he looked it over, sketched tentative designs which he discussed with Sternberg, and then created appropriate costumes. Though each dress characterized the mood of the scene Dietrich was to dramatize, it was created to show off Dietrich, and some of the clothes were so stunning that they started a vogue in dress. For instance, the feather neckpiece and hat which she wore in the opening scene of "Shanghai Express" caused a furor in Paris and New York fashion circles. Feathers became the thing.

GRETA GARBO was in only one important picture before she received her Hollywood summons. That was the Swedish film, "The Atonement of Goesta Berling," in which Lars Hanson, and not Garbo, starred. In this, Garbo made no great impression. She seemed just another actress of the sweet type. Today the Greta Garbo cult is phenomenal. No actress on the stage or screen is so worshiped and idolized. When Garbo arrived at M. G. M. studios numberless photographic studies were made of her. As it was discovered by Camera Man William Daniels that she screened better with dim lighting, that's how she was filmed. Daniels has shot her pictures ever since, and from experience senses what angle and what light will best bring out her ethereal, mask-like features. Lillian Rosine, who is something of an authority on makeup around the studios, and who works her charms on M. G. M. stars, aids Garbo in preparing for the screen. And recently Adrian has designed her clothes and hats. Adrian, after designing costumes for Irving Berlin's "Music Box Revue," obtained a job in Hollywood and four years later became M. G. M.'s costume designer. He has the reputation of being one of the most original designers in this country. The pillbox hat he created for Garbo in "As You Desire Me," began a vogue like Benton's feathers. Under no other designer could Garbo's beauty be more enhanced.

After her playing in the Broadway success, "The Warrior's Husband," Katharine Hepburn had no particular reputation except that she was adequate in her part. But now R. K. O. has miraculously turned her into its answer to Garbo and Dietrich. Claire Trevor, young stage actress, is another example. Fox thought she wasn't attractive enough. They straightened her teeth, changed her hair around and had her eyebrows and eyelashes improved. Now she is prepared to qualify as a Hollywood beauty. And there's Karen Morley. She was acting, relatively unknown, on the stage of the Pasadena Community Playhouse when M. G. M. placed her under its wing, and now she is a famous seductress of the screen. Anna Sten is the latest example. Those who know the system are waiting with interest to see how she turns out.

NEAR EASTERN GALLERY

THE Near Eastern Gallery is the thirty-fourth in a series of exhibits being featured weekly at the City Art Museum in Forest Park. This exhibit is in the west wing of the Museum, and may be reached through the Gallery of American Paintings at the right-center of the great entrance hall. Each display in the "Gallery of the Week" presentation will be reproduced in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine, with an accompanying description of the exhibits by museum authorities.

Most of the objects in this gallery are of Mohammedan origin and exhibit a marked kinship in style, though the product of many races and diverse influences. The regions represented include Persia, Arabia, Syria, Mesopotamia, Asia Minor, the Caucasus and India. The teachings of Mohammed forbade the representation of human and animal figures, and hence Mohammedan art is largely decorative, its ornament based upon geometric and floral motifs, though the rules of the Prophet against representing living creatures were often violated.

It is probable that the most important artistic achievement of the Mohammedan peoples lies in their magnificent textiles, particularly the rugs, which are to be found in all parts of the world. Five Oriental rugs from the Ballard collection are shown, including a magnificent seventeenth century Indian floral rug with red ground, and other richly colored examples from the Caucasus and Asia Minor.

To the ceramic arts the Near East has also made remarkable contributions, the invention of luster painting being one of the most important. The exhibit includes pottery and faience with decoration in luster, gold, turquoise and other colors, excavated from the ruins of Rakka, Rhages, Sultanabad and other cities which were destroyed by successive waves of invasion. These pieces include jars, bowls and tiles of the twelfth and fourteenth centuries. Noteworthy also are the two so-called "Rhodian" plates from Asia Minor with beautifully conventionalized floral decoration.

From a very remote time the Orientals have been adept at metal working and in the Mohammedan period brought to a high degree of perfection the arts of fabricating fine steel and of engraving and damascening in gold and silver. Specimens of Persian arms and armor (1600-1800 A. D.) show the peculiar layered quality of Damascus steel, as well as rich ornamentation in incised and gold damascened work. Candlesticks, boxes and vessels in brass and bronze are engraved with decorative inscriptions and arabesques and inlaid with precious metals. Other decorative arts of Islamic origin shown include carved chest fronts, pages of text and illustrations from illuminated manuscripts and book covers in lacquer. In this gallery also are shown four of the remarkable Buddhist sculptures in stucco recently excavated in the Tarim basin in Central Asia, believed to date from 300-500 B. C. The purity of form and classic profile of these heads have been traced to late Greek influence, probably derived through Gandhara.

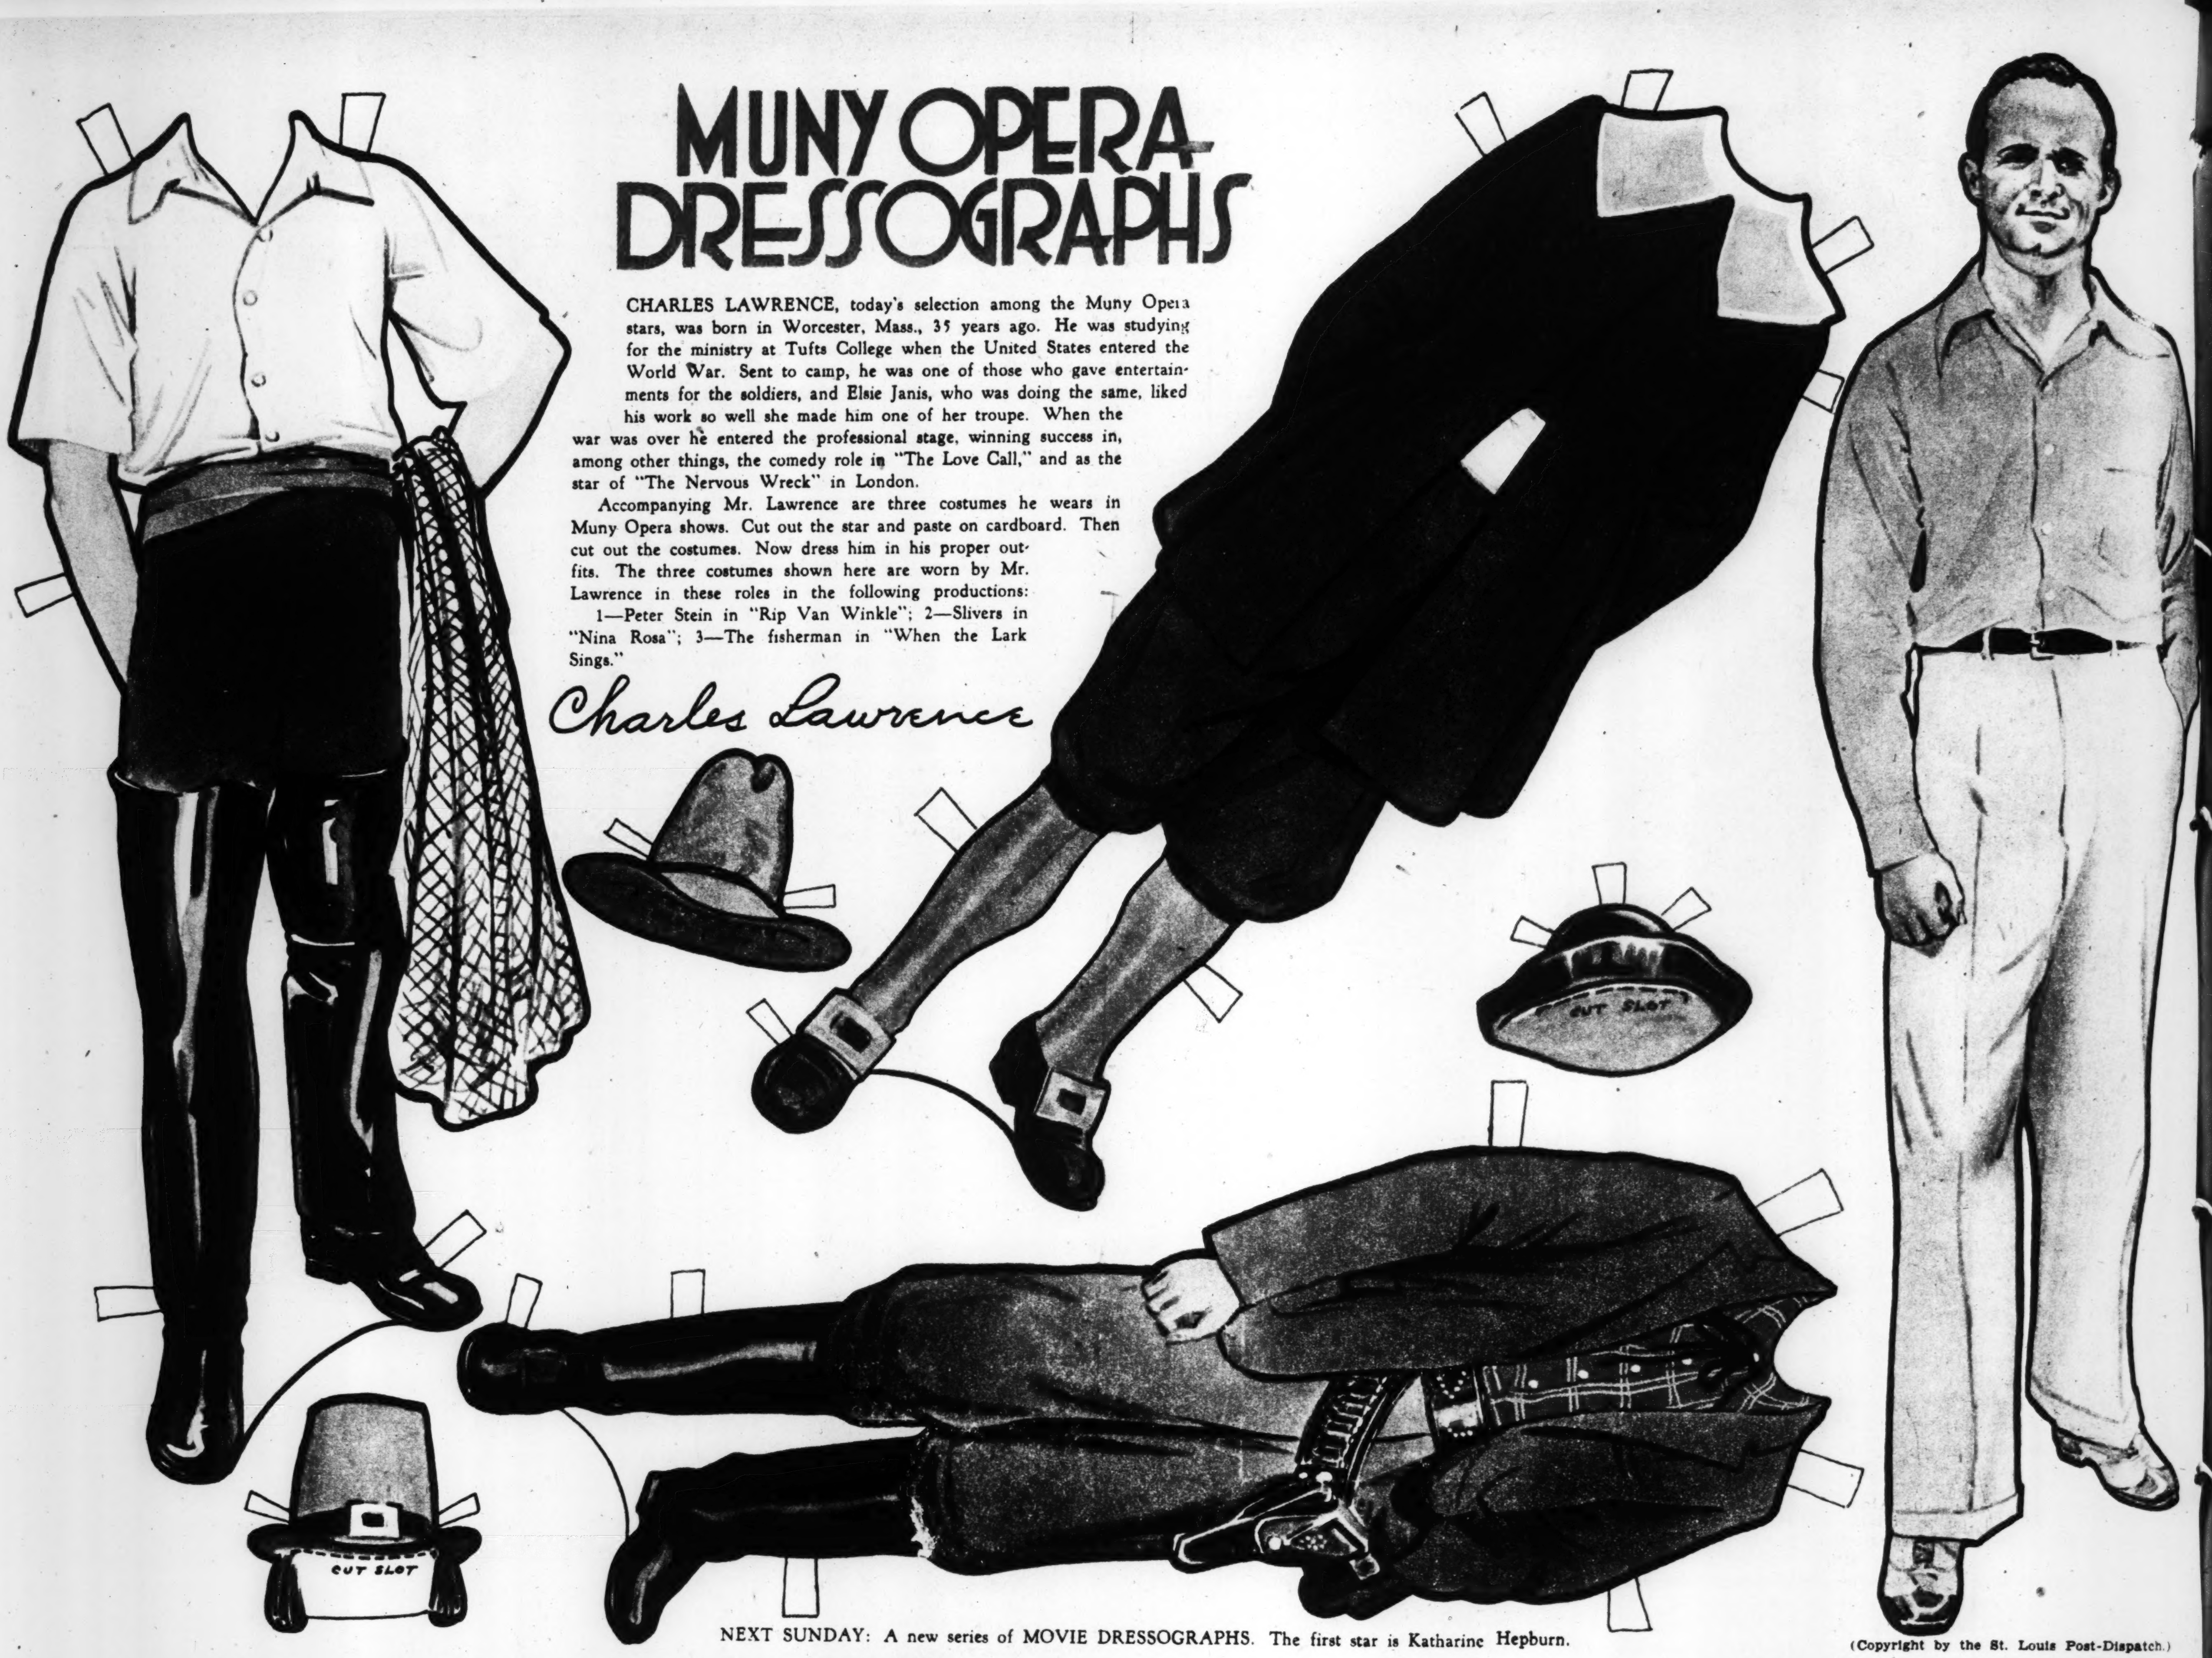
of a big race such as the Kentucky Derby the most elaborate precautions are taken to prevent doping.

Oyler makes it clear that the interest of the Federal Government is not in cleaning up horse racing. Back of the peddlers and the dopers at the race track is the big drug syndicate. Through the small fry the Government hopes to reach the powerful overlords and to strike, too, at the racketeer race horse owner.

IT SEEMS almost certain that this field will attract gangsters driven out of liquor. The profits from the track will remain as one of the racketeer's chief sources of supply for the warfare he is constantly waging upon legitimate business. Already, as a result of the Government's raids, Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York, chairman of the Senate committee investigating rackets, has set October 1 as the date for beginning hearings on the race track racket.

The race track fraternity scattered with the first noise of the raids. These rat-faced, youngish men have a way of picking information out of the air. All over the country they have gone into temporary hiding. The things they're saying about those old cronies of last winter, Joe Banks, "Shorty," Richman and the other ringers, who seemed to be so "regular," are not exactly complimentary.

MUNY OPERA DRESSOGRAPHS



CUT SLOT
CUT SLOT

CHARLES LAWRENCE, today's selection among the Muny Opera stars, was born in Worcester, Mass., 35 years ago. He was studying for the ministry at Tufts College when the United States entered the World War. Sent to camp, he was one of those who gave entertainments for the soldiers, and Elsie Janis, who was doing the same, liked his work so well she made him one of her troupe. When the war was over he entered the professional stage, winning success in, among other things, the comedy role in "The Love Call," and as the star of "The Nervous Wreck" in London.

Accompanying Mr. Lawrence are three costumes he wears in Muny Opera shows. Cut out the star and paste on cardboard. Then cut out the costumes. Now dress him in his proper outfits. The three costumes shown here are worn by Mr. Lawrence in these roles in the following productions: 1—Peter Stein in "Rip Van Winkle"; 2—Slivers in "Nina Rosa"; 3—The fisherman in "When the Lark Sings."

GARBO AND GILBERT REUNITED

After considering a whole sheaf of leading men for her next picture, "Queen Christina," Great Garbo finally came to John Gilbert, who co-starred with Garbo when she was new to the American screen, and who was engaged to her at one time. In the photo Garbo is welcoming her former associate to the lot in Hollywood.

Coty

WITH character THAT WEARS WELL . . .

How often, in recent past seasons, we all have been misled by superficial charm. In a person, or in a product, it must be balanced by dependable character, or disappointment is sure to follow.

Especially in Face Powder, you have got to look for perfect balance. Your face is too precious to justify your being content with a one-sided powder. Naturally, you'll seek every quality that enhances charm.

Look, then, for the Powder that's a true twin to your skin tone: adorably fragrant; faithful in clinging texture; admittedly pure and fine. One name in Face Powder gives you all these desirable things. That name is Coty. For the sake of your face, ask for the famous "powder-puff" box.

YOUR FACE DESERVES ALL THESE QUALITIES IN POWDER

☐ Fine, adherent Texture—adroitly blended. Coty texture ideally meets most skin needs. Daily use proves it.

☐ Accurate Complexion Tones—to be becoming; and not show in bright sun. Coty tones are renowned for their accuracy.

☐ Delicate, fresh Fragrance—fine and true—not heavy. Coty fragrances unite sparkling delicacy with fresh, enduring quality.

☐ Established Purity—In all that touches your life—you naturally demand safety. Coty purity is a matter of established fact.

Check each point—you have a right to this well-balanced Powder—Coty.

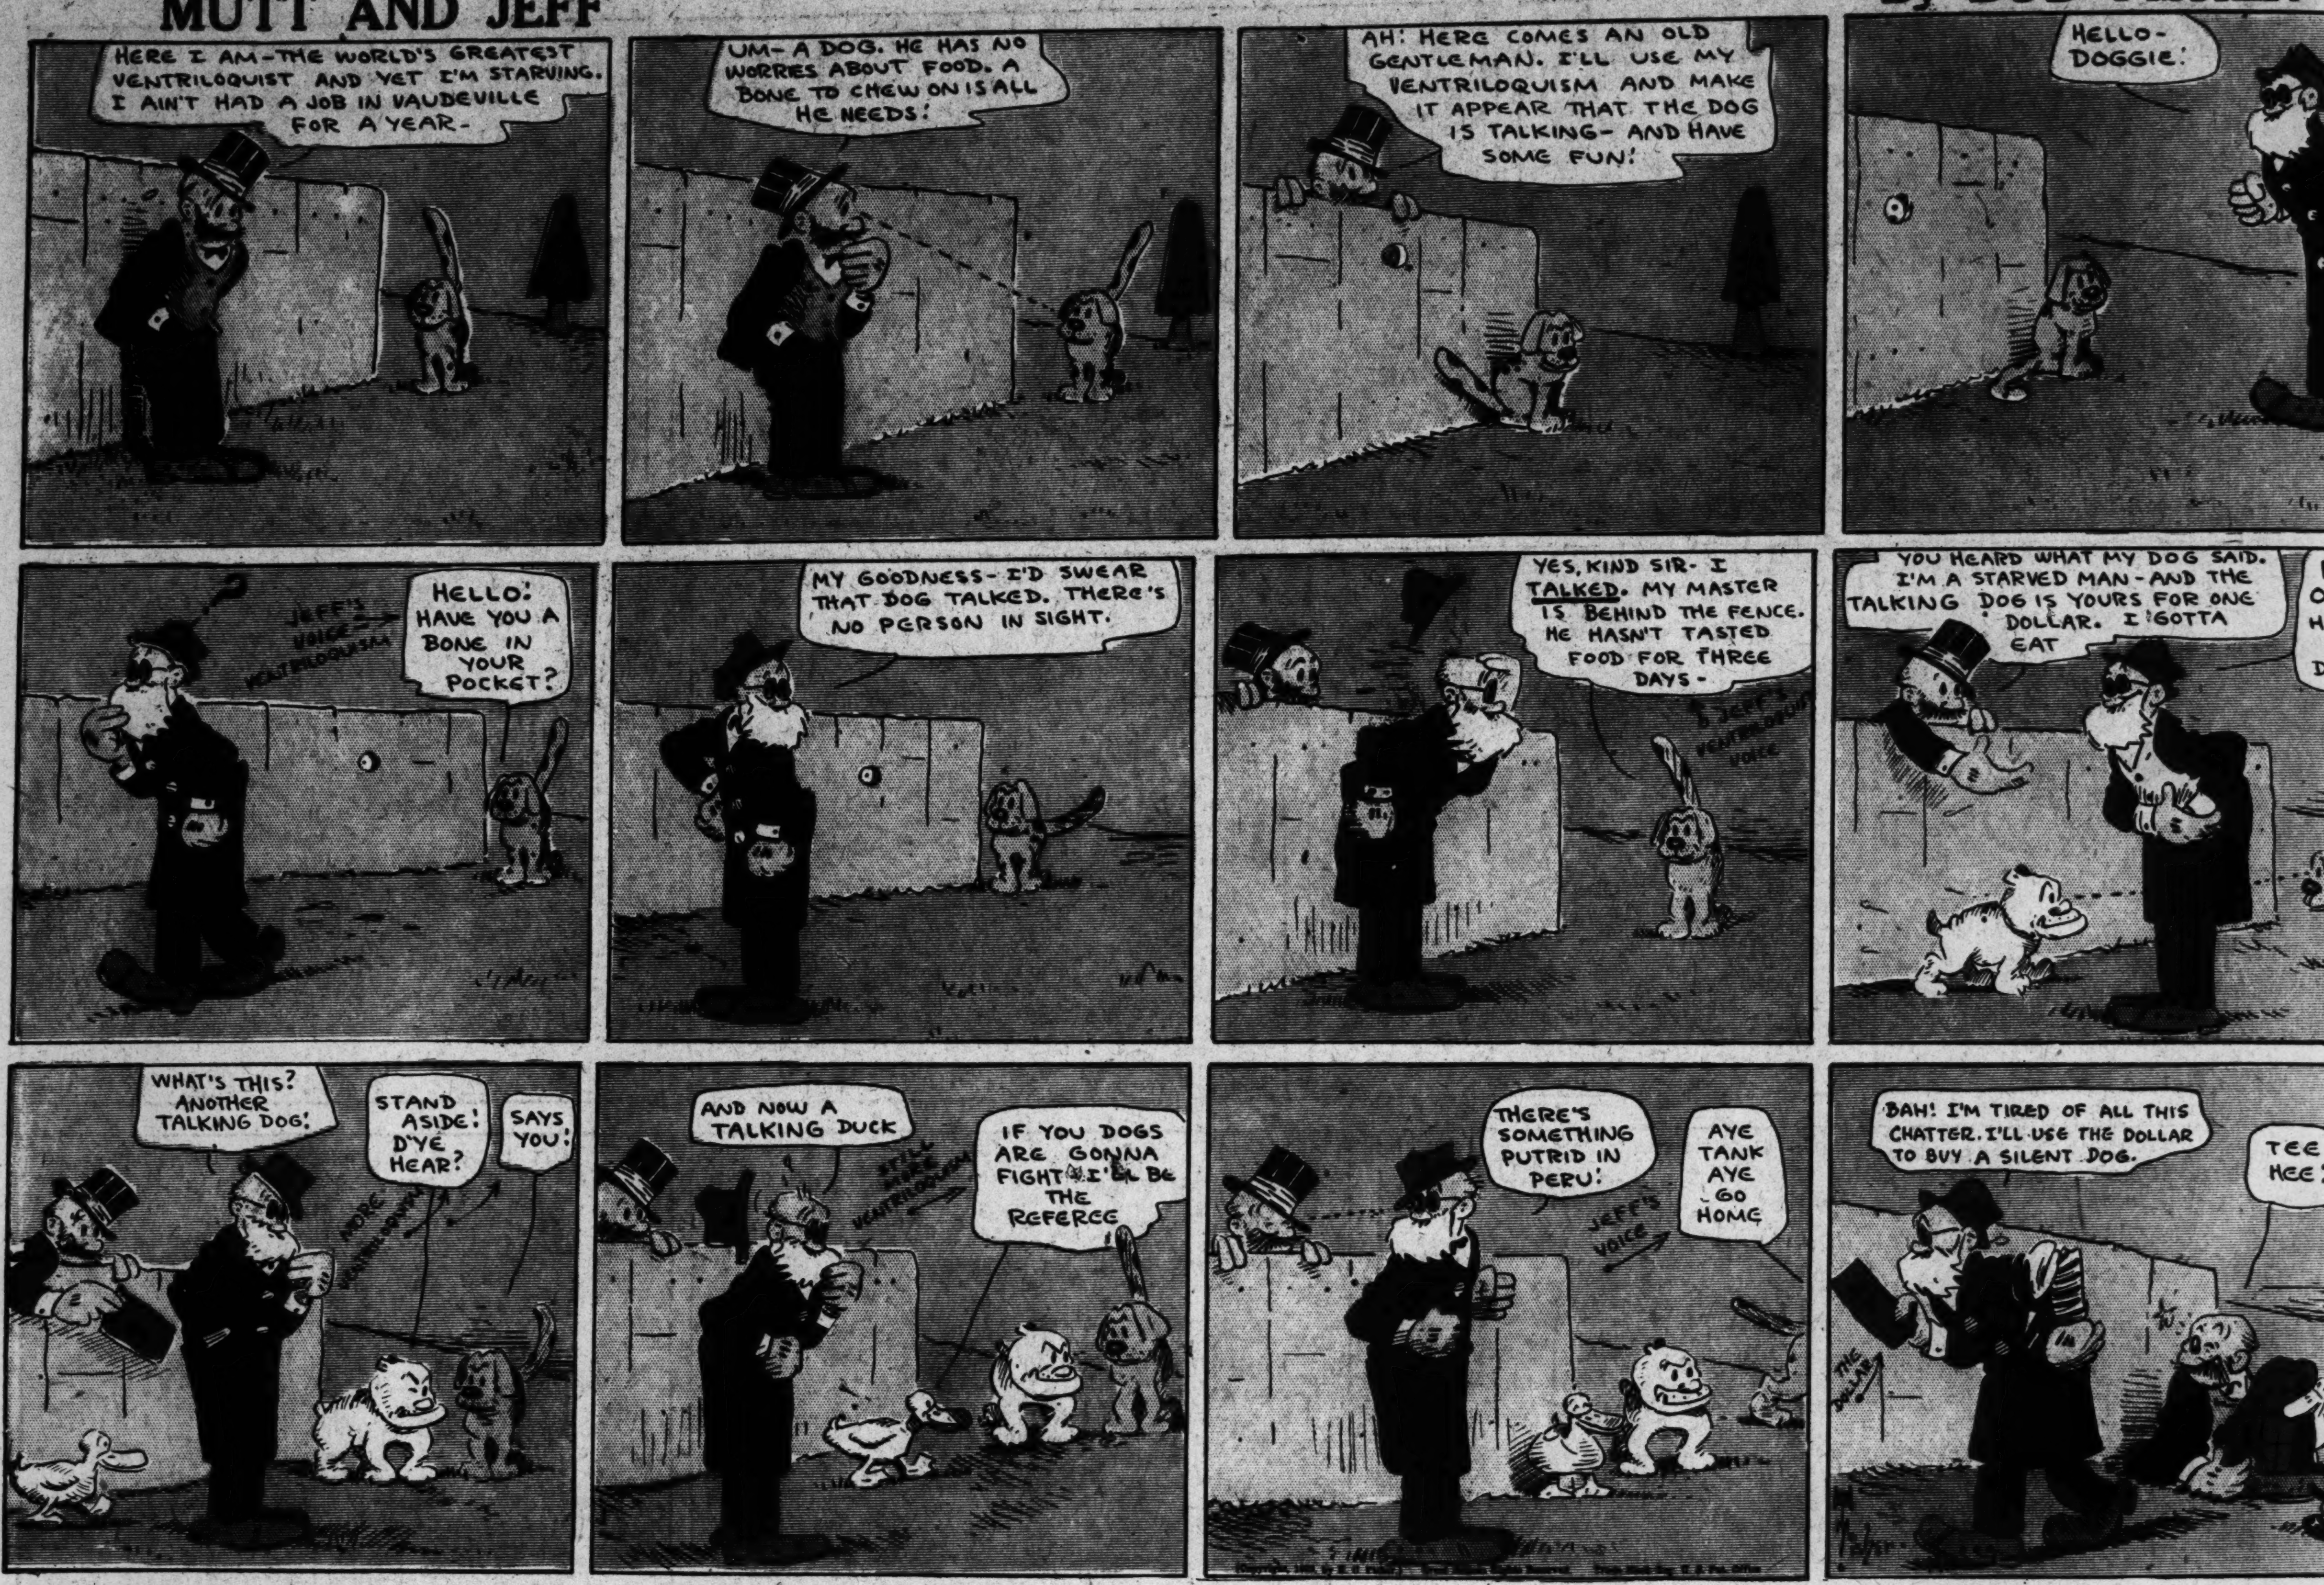
By BUD FISHER



HERE I AM—THE WORLD'S GREATEST VENTRILOQUIST AND YET I'M STARVING. I AIN'T HAD A JOB IN VAUDEVILLE FOR A YEAR-
UM—A DOG. HE HAS NO WORRIES ABOUT FOOD. A BONE TO CHEW ON IS ALL HE NEEDS!
AH! HERE COMES AN OLD GENTLEMAN. I'LL USE MY VENTRILOQUISM AND MAKE IT APPEAR THAT THE DOG IS TALKING—AND HAVE SOME FUN!
HELLO-DOGGIE!
JEFF'S VOICE—VENTRILOQUISM
HELLO! HAVE YOU A BONE IN YOUR POCKET?
MY GOODNESS—I'D SWEAR THAT DOG TALKED. THERE'S NO PERSON IN SIGHT.
YES, KIND SIR—I TALKED. MY MASTER IS BEHIND THE FENCE. HE HASN'T TASTED FOOD FOR THREE DAYS-
JEFF'S VENTRILOQUISM VOICE
YOU HEARD WHAT MY DOG SAID. I'M A STARVED MAN—AND THE TALKING DOG IS YOURS FOR ONE DOLLAR. I GOTTA EAT
FINE! O'BOY! HERE'S THE DOLLAR!
WHAT'S THIS? ANOTHER TALKING DOG!
MORE VENTRILOQUISM STAND ASIDE! D'YE HEAR?

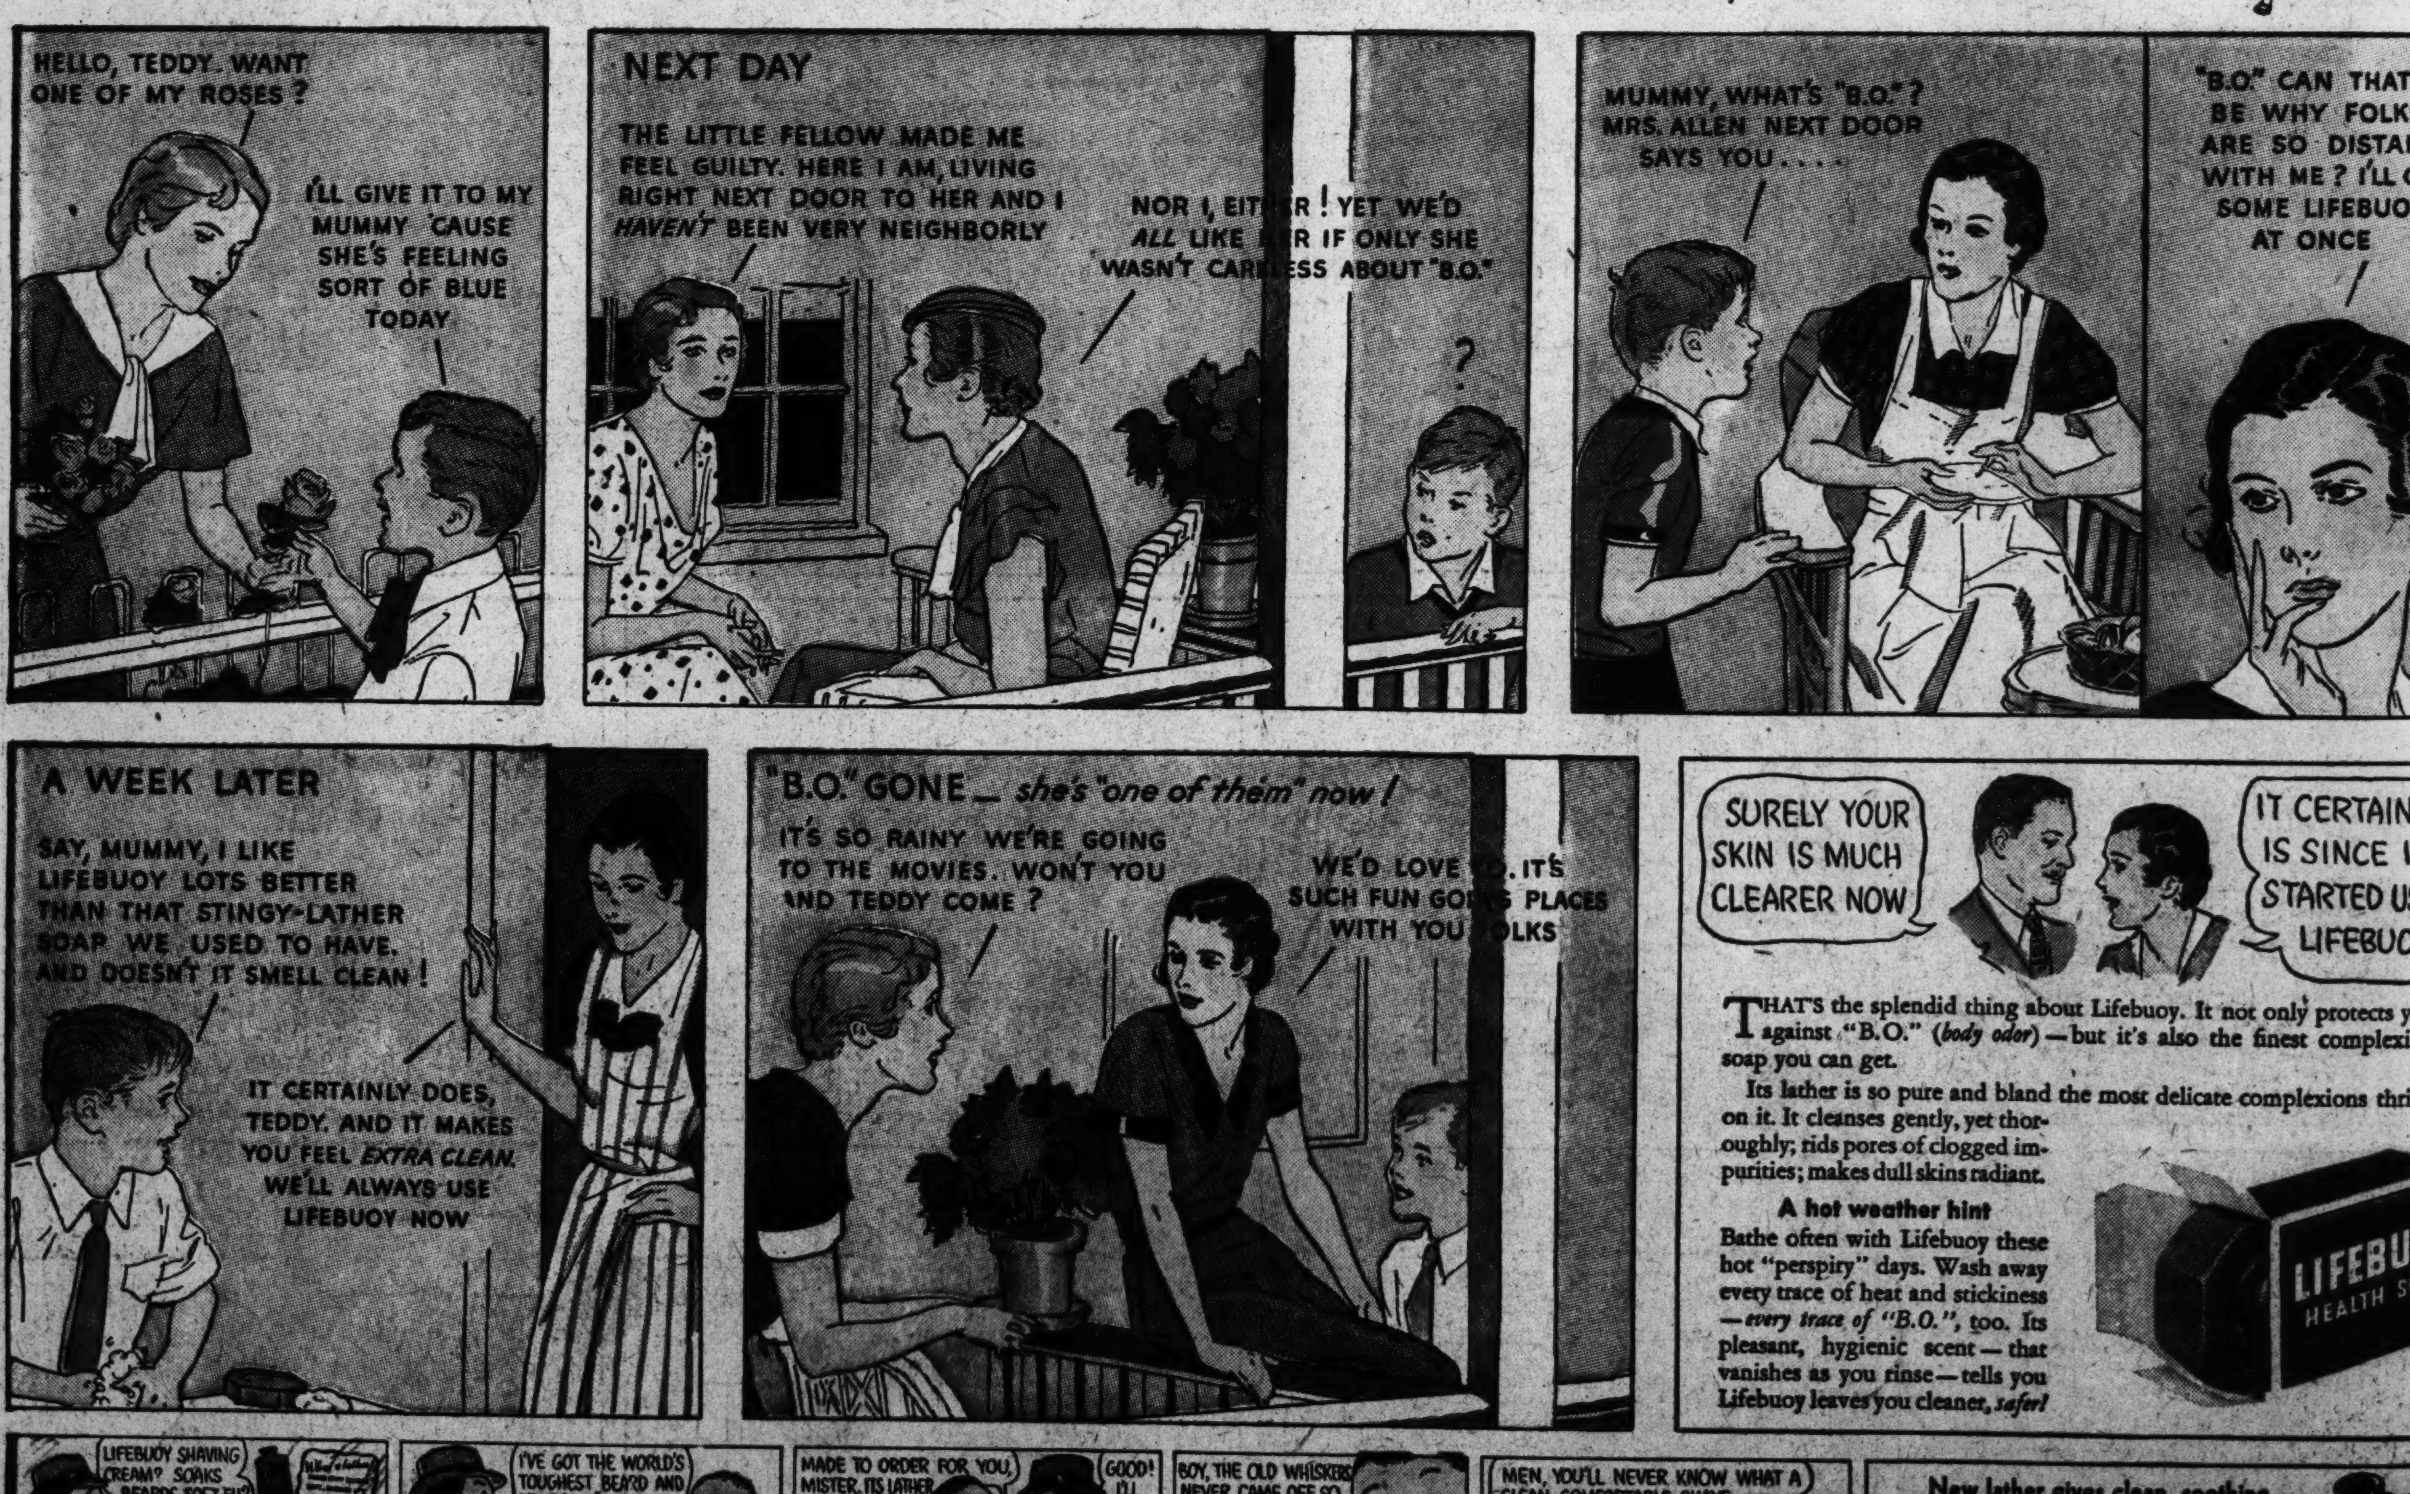
HE WENT AND TOLD HIS MOTHER



HELLO, TEDDY. WANT ONE OF MY ROSES?
I'LL GIVE IT TO MY MUMMY 'CAUSE SHE'S FEELING SORT OF BLUE TODAY
NEXT DAY
THE LITTLE FELLOW MADE ME FEEL GUILTY. HERE I AM, LIVING RIGHT NEXT DOOR TO HER AND I HAVEN'T BEEN VERY NEIGHBORLY
NOR I, EITHER! YET WE'D ALL LIKE HER IF ONLY SHE WASN'T CARELESS ABOUT "B.O."
MUMMY, WHAT'S "B.O."? MRS. ALLEN NEXT DOOR SAYS YOU....
"B.O." CAN THAT BE WHY FOLKS ARE SO DISTANT WITH ME? I'LL GET SOME LIFEBUOY AT ONCE
A WEEK LATER
SAY, MUMMY, I LIKE LIFEBUOY LOTS BETTER THAN THAT STINGY-LATHER SOAP WE USED TO HAVE. AND DOESN'T IT SMELL CLEAN!
IT CERTAINLY DOES, TEDDY. AND IT MAKES YOU FEEL EXTRA CLEAN. WE'LL ALWAYS USE LIFEBUOY NOW
"B.O." GONE — she's "one of them" now!
IT'S SO RAINY WE'RE GOING TO THE MOVIES. WON'T YOU AND TEDDY COME?
WE'D LOVE TO. IT'S SUCH FUN GOING PLACES WITH YOU FOLKS
SURELY YOUR SKIN IS MUCH CLEARER NOW
IT CERTAINLY IS SINCE I STARTED USING LIFEBUOY
LIFEBUOY HEALTH SOAP

THAT'S the splendid thing about Lifebuoy. It not only protects you against "B.O." (body odor)—but it's also the finest complexion soap you can get.

Its lather is so pure and bland the most delicate complexions thrive on it. It cleanses gently, yet thoroughly; rids pores of clogged impurities; makes dull skins radiant.

A hot weather hint

Bathe often with Lifebuoy these hot "perspiry" days. Wash away every trace of heat and stickiness—every trace of "B.O.", too. Its pleasant, hygienic scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy leaves you cleaner, safer!

LIFEBUOY SHAVING CREAM? SOAKS BEARDS SOFT, EH? NOT MINE I'LL BET
I'VE GOT THE WORLD'S TOUGHEST BEARD AND TENDER SKIN. CAN I GET A CLEAN, COMFORTABLE SHAVE WITH LIFEBUOY?
MADE TO ORDER FOR YOU, MISTER. ITS LATHER IS EXTRA-MOIST. WILTS THE WIRIEST WHISKERS—SOOTHES SENSITIVE SKIN
GOOD! I'LL TRY IT
BOY, THE OLD WHISKERS NEVER CAME OFF SO CLEAN AND EASY. AND DOES MY FACE FEEL SWELL!
MEN, YOU'LL NEVER KNOW WHAT A CLEAN, COMFORTABLE SHAVE IS UNTIL YOU'VE HAD A LIFEBUOY SHAVE
BIG RED TUBE

New lather gives clean, soothing shaves—it holds 52% more moisture
